TWIN BATTLES FOR ROME ON

Bridges Demands F.D.R. Tell War Aims Now

STALIN TALKS, WHY NOT YOU? SENATOR ASKS

Ideals Seem Lost, He Remarks.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.] called upon President Roosevelt today to take the American people into his confidence on American war aims before sacrificing American lives in the invasion of Europe.

Sen. Bridges.

Bridges insisted, in addition, that Mr. Roosevelt make demand upon Russia and Great Britain to accept the principles of the Atlantic Charter before the invasion begins.

Asking the President why he has not taken the American people into his confidence, Bridges ventured it might be because Mr. Roosevelt wishes, at some future time, to overwhelm the nation by pulling a patchwork peace settlement out of his hat. As an alternative for his failure to reveal his aims, Bridges suggested that the President might be hesitating because the "monster he has helped breed" has gotten out of control.

Speaks to Roosevelt.

The earnest, youthful looking senate veteran, a pre-war interventionist before the Roosevelt administration had dropped its guise of neutrality, spoke to the senate. But he announced he was directly addressing Mr. Roosevelt as he put into words the thoughts which members of congress say have been disturbing them for weeks.

He said the President's silence had become embarrassing and humiliating because while Dictator Stalin, Prime Ministers Churchill of England, Fraser of New Zealand, and Curtin of Australia had spoken openly of their aims, Mr. Roosevelt still remained silent.

[Transfer of United States fleet units to Russia charged. Hint Stalin back of plot against army's records. Stories on page 9.]

Ideals Seem Lost.

A hush fell over the senate chamber when Bridges said victory is certain but that an enduring peace is more uncertain than ever in view of Russian and British aspirations and went boldly on:

"If a military victory is to be the only issue settled by this terrible ordeal of fire and sword, then, quite obviously, this was not and is not our war."

But the senator did not stop there.

"The air," he said, "has been filled with the majestic flights of ideals from your tongue and pen. But now for some mysterious reason that flight is lost to view.

Democrats Uneasy.

"President Roosevelt, the truth of the matter is, that for the first time in American history millions of American boys, girls, men, and women are being called upon to make the supreme sacrifice for the sake of an ideal which has lost its shape, its sound, and its content."

Democrats shuffled uneasily from the chamber, but Bridges, reading

LONE STAR G. O. P. CHEERS BRICKER FREEDOM PLEA

Houston, Tex., May 23 [Special]. —With a fighting Republican speech calling for a return to constitutional government, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio brought Texas Republicans to their feet cheering when he addressed the state Republican convention here today.

The Ohio candidate's talk was the high point of a convention that elected 33 uninstructed delegates to the national convention in Chicago next month.

"A Republican victory in 1944," he told his audience, "will be an assurance that in freeing the world from tyranny we shall also free our people of unnecessary governmental domination and that the policy making power of government will be taken from the burocrats and placed in the hands of the elected representatives of the people."

Assails Ward Seizure.

He made references to the recent Montgomery Ward company plant seizure which were received with relish by the Texans. The affair was a favorite talking point with several other speakers.

"Does any one doubt what is happening here," Gov. Bricker asked, "when American soldiers who enlisted or were drafted to fight the Nazis and the Japs are ordered by one of the chief political puppets of the present administration, the one holding the title of attorney general, to eject a business man from his plant without regard for the fact that if a law had been violated all the courts of the country stood open to him?"

"Does any one doubt what is happening here when that political puppet, after that eviction had been accomplished by helmeted soldiers, declared that 'no business in this country is immune from seizure'?

A Warning of Dictatorship.

"If Atty. Gen. Biddle is right, then we no longer have a constitutional President—we have a dictator."

Gov. Bricker also quoted recent remarks made by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, which, he said, "reflected the nation-wide revulsion to the Montgomery Ward seizure."

Some restrictions, orders, and directives are necessary for the successful prosecution of the war, he conceded, and to such the people freely submit.

An Increasing Pressure.

"But," he added, "we were feeling the ever increasing pressure of power government before we were even threatened by war. And it is the policy of the New Deal to retain these totalitarian methods after the war.

"It is the New Deal concept that individuals in America are no longer able to direct the course of their own lives. The New Deal philosophy holds that some one with a badge must herd our people and push them around."

TEXANS SPLIT IN CONVENTION OVER 4TH TERM

F. D. R. Backers Bolt After Defeat.

Austin, Tex., May 23 [Special].—Texas Democrats at their state convention here today took the unprecedented step of selecting a slate of Presidential electors proclaimed to be not morally bound to vote for the party's nominee for President under certain conditions.

A. J. Wirtz.

This action was taken after the convention had headed off an effort by pro-Roosevelt delegates to name a slate of national convention delegates pledged to renomination of President Roosevelt. Roosevelt supporters numbering 350 to 400 noisly bolted the convention after their defeat and set up a rival convention which tonight named its own slates of convention delegates and Presidential delegates.

Moody Heads Regulars.

The regular convention went ahead with its business after the withdrawal of the Roosevelt group and elected a slate of uninstructed national convention delegates headed by Dan Moody, former governor, as chairman, and George Butler, state party chairman, as vice chairman.

Conditions specified by the convention for the freeing of Presidential electors from the obligation to vote for the party's choice are:

1. If the national convention shall fail to authorize a return to the rule requiring a two-thirds majority for nomination.
2. If the national convention shall refuse to adopt a plank giving to the states the power to say who shall participate in their elections.
3. If the national convention shall fail to seat convention delegates named by the regular Texas Democratic convention.

Blalock Is Reëlected.

The convention specified that upon the happening of any of these contingencies the Presidential electors shall be free to vote for "any Democrat" in preference to the person nominated by the Chicago convention.

Myron Blalock of Marshall, national committeeman for the last eight years and a member of the party faction favoring an uninstructed delegation, was reëlected to a new four year term by the convention, but Mrs. Clara Driscoll of Corpus Christi, national committeewoman for 16 years, who was identified with the Roosevelt group, was replaced by Mrs. H. H. Weinert of Seguin.

Criticizes Administration.

The convention adjourned after adopting a series of resolutions critical of the national administration.

The rump convention pledged its nominees for Presidential electors to cast their votes for the nominees of the Chicago convention

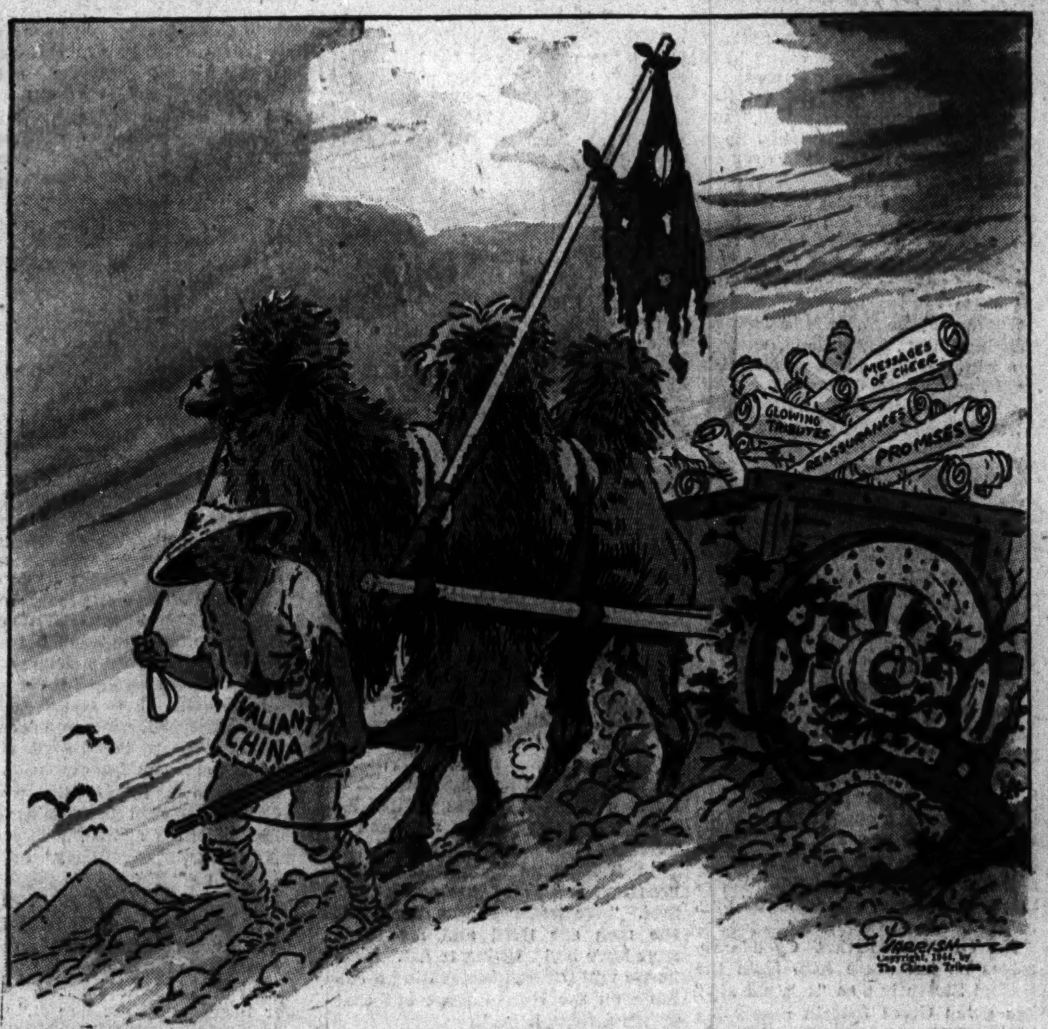
NEARING TRAIL'S END



ICELAND COMPLETES VOTE; TIE TO DANES APPARENTLY SEVERED

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 23 (AP). —Iceland's referendum to decide whether it shall sever its ties with Denmark and become an independent republic ended today after balloting that brought out 100 per cent of the qualified voters in some districts. It appeared a foregone conclusion that the proposition would be approved.

The althing, Iceland's parliament, which is 200 years older than the British "mother of parliaments," had already voted to end the treaty that bound Iceland to Denmark. The referendum was to record the citizens' attitude toward the althing's decision to end 700 years of foreign domination.

In all probability the new republic will be launched with a festival June 17, Iceland's national holiday. The althing will elect the first president for a one year term, but thereafter the president will be elected by the people for a four year term.

BROWDER WANTS U. S. TO ASSIST BRITISH TRADE

New York, May 23 [Special].—Earl Browder, making his first public appearance as president of the new Communist political association, the successor to the Communist party, tonight proposed an Anglo-American economic agreement that would guarantee Britain a share of world markets in which that nation would not be subject to "free competition from America's unlimited resources and mass production."

There are, according to Browder, "no serious difficulties between America and the soviet union," only "such minor irritants as the current stupidity of our department of justice in its attempts to force the label of 'foreign propaganda' to be attached to news, information, and motion pictures coming from Moscow to America."

New York, May 23 [Special]—Armand Tokatyan, one of the stars of the Metropolitan Opera company, made a trip to Mexico in 1941 and left his heart there with a Mexican soprano, Senora Mannera, Mrs. Marie Tokatyan charged in a separation suit filed here today.

Mrs. Tokatyan asked $250 weekly alimony and $4,000 counsel fees. She said her husband was "just a nobody" when she married him in 1924, but that he now makes $32,000 a year. Since his trip to Mexico he has been a different man and has lost all interest in his family and home, she said.

Mountbatten's Camp Garden of Luxury, Says Indian Writer

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ., CALCUTTA, India, May 20 [Delayed].—The new Ceylon headquarters of Rear Adm. Louis Mountbatten, cousin of King George VI. of Great Britain and allied supreme commander in southeast Asia, were described in ecstatic terms in a story by a war correspondent for the Calcutta Statesman.

Writing of Mountbatten's new general headquarters at Kandy, high in the Ceylonese hills, the correspondent said that within a few weeks a military city had risen in the loveliest spot in Ceylon. The luxury camp, he stated, is sybaritic to any one fresh from the army camps on the Burma fronts.

"I have been to many military stations but never have seen one so fresh, clean, spacious, and well designed as Mountbatten's," he wrote. "Post-war town planners might learn something from the layout. Tho all the buildings are temporary and most of them brand new, this garden cosmopolis with its own lighting, water, and telephone services seems to have sprung naturally from the ground, disturbing nothing. In the building of the entire headquarters extending over many acres only one tree was felled.

Use London Street Names.

"The supreme commander has taken a close interest in all the work, even suggesting some of the street names. Mountbatten's office looks out on a verdant Piccadilly Circus.

"Any one crossing Piccadilly Circus can see the supreme commander at work. He sits in a long, many-windowed hut. Around the walls between the windows are signed photographs of the allied leaders. Nearest Mountbatten's desk is a small picture of Prime Minister Churchill and below it is a large one of President Roosevelt, inscribed to 'Dicky Mountbatten.'

"Last month my home was a tent with barely sufficient space to accommodate by bed-roll and typewriter. Here in the officers' camp I have an apartment larger than most hotel bedrooms equipped with a desk, wardrobe, chest of drawers, washstand and even an electric reading lamp. All officers under the rank of full colonel have identical accommodations.

300 Cooks and Waiters.

"I share with my next door neighbor the services of a Ceylonese orderly. Before the command moved here the Ceylon essential services and labor camps recruited 300 men as cooks, waiters, and orderlies.

"Tho their work is efficient, their English is still sketchy and they are given daily lessons. In the dining room, with spotless napery and shaded table lamps, meals are served which would not have disgraced a London club in pre-war days. A club stands on a grassy bank sloping down to the river which might almost be the rural Thames."

The writer went on to describe the officers' club with its good dance band and piano hauled to the club by an elephant, the three cinemas now being built which will give two shows nightly and change programs three times a week and the three swimming pools. Coolies are busy on tennis and squash courts.

Argue Over Food.

"The Anglo-American union of command is frayed at only one point," the correspondent said. "Personnel under the rank of full colonel declare themselves unable to stomach one another's food.

"Mountbatten and the higher staff British and Americans mess together. The colonels, naval captains, and a group of other officers are equally tolerant, but the lower ranks are determined separatists. The Americans do not like British rations. The British have no objection to American food, but they are critical of the way it is prepared and served."

So after several attempts to reconcile the differences, separate British and American messes have been set up in each camp. Even American WACs who share the WRENs' dining room eat their own food in it.

OPA SUSPENDS SOLDIER'S DAD FROM SELLING

A soldier's father who is running a corner grocery and market for his son yesterday was suspended for 10 days from dealing in rationed commodities by the office of price administration for allegedly charging overceiling prices and selling some items point free.

Herman Drewes testified he operates the store at 2564 N. Clark st. for his son, E. A. Drewes, and that he keeps it open from 9 a. m. to midnight in an effort to make a profit under OPA prices and regulations. He said he sold some meat cuts at prices higher than ceilings, but others lower, so that he received only the gross ceiling amount, but satisfied his customers.

ALLIES STRIKE ON ANZIO AND 8TH ARMY FRONTS

Yank Infantry and Tanks Attack on Beachhead.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT THE 5TH ARMY BEACHHEAD, May 23.—Anzio beachhead was suddenly the scene of thunderous activity again today as American infantry and tanks launched a great attack at German strongholds in the direction of Cisterna. This was preceded by 35 minutes of artillery, and dive bombing preparation at dawn.

Thus on the first day of the fifth month of the Anzio beachhead landing this little sector on the Tyrrhenian sea was transformed from a defensive and containing position to the base for an offensive.

It is obvious that this is the result of long time planning and that it is coördinated with the powerful smash on the main fortifications between the beachhead and the central front, now within range of our artillery from both sides.

Directed by Gen. Clark.

Lt. Gen. Clark is personally directing the offensive from the beachhead. Last night, before the jump-off here, he expressed himself as more than satisfied with progress on the main front.

Reports were that the opening of our drive this morning caught the enemy by surprise and off balance in some areas but later in the day he was resisting strongly. It was indicated that our initial objectives were being taken on schedule and that the operation was proceeding as expected.

Last night, British Tommies on the left flank struck at the enemy. Then at 5 a. m. we began sporadic shelling of German positions at the center of the perimeter.

Catch Nazis Off Guard.

That artillery operation had been done every morning for some weeks and the Germans were used to it. Some of them taken prisoner later in the day said they followed their regular schedule and went to breakfast after the early shelling, figuring it was the allies' routine way of opening the day and betokened nothing more.

At 5:55 a. m. they found out their mistake, for allied artillery poured fire into them on an unprecedented scale for this sector. This concentration lasted 20 minutes and was as spectacular in its way as that shelling which inaugurated the renewed allied offensive in Italy 12 days ago.

Our guns let up for 10 minutes while the heavy bombers and dive bombers gave Cisterna and its environs a plastering.

A-36's Join in Attack.

The A-36s [Invader attack bombers] were particularly colorful against the lightening yellow sky, the yellow bands on their wings flashing as they plunged. For five minutes after the aerial display the artillery threw in another barrage.

Then the infantry and tanks went forward in the morning mist. The enemy recovering from the first shock defended with .88s and mortar fire. He had also strewn the approaches to Cisterna and the railroad track running south of the city with anti-personnel and anti-tank mines to slow up our advance.

Such traps had been anticipated and our engineers worked under heavy fire to clear them away. The enemy also was using tank destroyers.

"Yanks Doing All Right."

Thruout the day our artillery kept pounding away and when the haze cleared away from time to time smoke from burning German ammunition and fuel dumps could be seen. The enemy's long range guns were constantly active, too, striking at our rear areas as well as forward positions.

Because the Germans sit astride the hills they had superior observation and as all thru this beachhead campaign, no portion of our holding is safe from his guns.

A general commanding an American unit, whom I had met in previous actions, described the first day's progress as "slow and hard, but we are doing all right." This commander has worn the same pair of olive drab whipcord trousers in all of his campaigns.

"These pants are lucky," he said.

Bomber Onslaught Paces Massed Armies.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 23 (AP).—Massed allied armies on the Anzio beachhead and on the main Italian front launched simultaneous offensives today. They touched off a great battle which may determine the fates both of Rome and of the German 10th army within the next few days.

Paced by a terrific aerial onslaught which rained thousands of bombs on Nazi troop concentrations and communications, American and British troops of the 5th army lashed out from the beachhead less than 20 miles from the outskirts of Rome.

[Nazi controled radios said last night that "American parachutists jumped in the Anzio beachhead attack, but German positions are intact." It was not specified in what area of the beachhead the American parachute troops were used or how many participated.]

Strike in Two Directions.

Veteran American infantrymen struck toward Cisterna to cut the Germans' principal line of communication with the main Italian front, and British Tommies, supported by the fire of American warships offshore, hit directly toward Rome.

[The Swiss radio reported that allied troops also were attacking at the eastern extremity of the beachhead and had reached Lake di Fogliano, south of Littoria and only 20 miles from the main battle line near Terracina.]

On the main Italian front Britons, Canadians, and Poles of the 8th army at the same time smashed furiously at the main Adolf Hitler line defenses in the Liri valley, 35 miles east of the beachhead, and American and French divisions battered ahead on a rugged front extending from Pico down to Terracina on the sea.

Greatest Allied Striking Force.

It was the greatest allied striking force yet thrown into battle in this war outside the Russian front.

The foe, 17 divisions strong, was known to have been committed to battle by Field Marshal Kesselring in the hope of staving off the disaster which Gen. Alexander promised him.

For the enemy it was the showdown. The Nazis were left without any reserves close at hand to throw into the battle. Kesselring could obtain reënforcements only by moving new divisions from far to the north over railroads and highways already badly battered by allied air might.

The final battle for Rome might not be long delayed. Newly prepared German defense lines along which the allied command predicted the enemy would make his last stand before yielding the Eternal City are roughly only seven miles north of the beachhead perimeter.

Heavily Reënforced.

Powerfully reënforced during the past week, allied men and armor on the beachhead struck out savagely an hour after dawn in the direction of Cisterna.

Cisterna is at about the center of the beachhead perimeter and on the Appian way. When today's assault began allied lines were approximately a mile and a half from the town.

Veteran American infantrymen and hundreds of armored vehicles smashed directly at the smoke-shrouded German defenses there after massed artillery had laid down a half-hour barrage and light bombers had rained explosives on forward enemy targets.

At the first light of dawn, flights of Boston bombers swooped low over a large concentration of enemy troops north of Cisterna, showering them with fragmentation and smoke bombs.

Forts and Liberators Strike.

Later, between 500 and 750 Flying Fortresses and Liberators rained destruction on enemy concentrations at Nemi, nine miles north of the beachhead and 15 miles southeast of Rome, and other vital points in a 50 mile radius of the Italian capital.

Among units which in past months were officially disclosed to have been on the beachhead were two seasoned American infantry divisions, the 3d and the 45th. The 3d was known as "the Rock of the Marne" from its exploits in the First World War.

Altho they started today's big attack only 24 miles apart, a quick junction between the 5th army troops on the beachhead and American forces thrusting along the coastal end of the main front appeared improbable. Between them lie the flooded Pontine marshes, where the going is likely to be very slow, whatever the state of enemy resistance.

Announcing the start of the two crushing, perfectly coördinated offensives, the allied command said "the battle in Italy has started upon a new phase."

8th Army Swings Into Action.

In the Liri valley southwest of Cassino the 8th army swung into the attack on the Hitler line.

The enemy's line stretches across the Liri valley between Piedimonte and Pontecorvo and thence west five miles to Pico.

[The Berlin radio reported, without allied confirmation, that Pico had been evacuated, and said that "it appears that the Anglo-United States command in south Italy intends to force success at all costs in the course of today."]

Some of the toughest troops of the 8th army were engaged in the attack on Pontecorvo and they penetrated the Hitler line itself as the fighting in the valley reached a new peak of violence.

Altho American troops on the coast still were held outside Terracina by the force of the German counterattack launched in that sector yesterday, other Yank units advanced on Monte Croce, an important height northeast of the town.

Farther inland, in the vicinity of Lenola, American infantry advanced over difficult country despite strong enemy resistance.

GERMAN WAR REPORT

Tuesday's German war bulletin, as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said:

"In the Nettuno [Anzio] beachhead the enemy early today [Tuesday] intensified his artillery activity to a drumfire. With battle planes as well as strong infantry and tank forces the enemy then launched an attack southwest and west of Aprilia and in the sector of Cisterna-Littoria. Fighting is in full swing.

"At the southern front an enemy attempt at a surprise thrust to occupy Terracina was frustrated. Northeast of Terracina the enemy succeeded in taking a hill position.

"The focal point of the enemy's large scale attack yesterday [Monday] was in the Lenola-Pontecorvo sector and at Piedimonte. Our troops threw back the enemy who, after furious artillery fire and supported by fighter bombers, attacked with strong infantry and tank forces. Heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy. Some local dents achieved at some points were sealed off or ironed out in counter-thrust.

"The fighting at Pontecorvo and Piedimonte was particularly bitter. All enemy attempts to break thru were supported by very heavy artillery fire, and incessant attacks by bombers were smashed in the concentric fire of our artillery and mortars."

KANKAKEE OFFICER'S DOUGHBOYS JUST IN TIME TO HIT JACKPOT

Lt. Col. Frank H. Morgan.

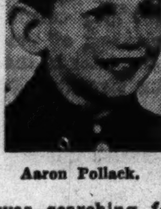
WITH AMERICAN 5TH ARMY TROOPS NEAR TERRACINA, May 20 [Delayed]—(AP). — Lt. Col. Frank H. Morgan's doughboys happened to be in the neighborhood today just in time to hit the jackpot and nab a couple of hundred German prisoners.

The Nazis were just coming out of a four and one-half mile long railway tunnel thru the mountains north of Terracina to reënforce enemy lines. Morgan, of Kankakee, Ill., and men were marching up the mountain and the Nazis almost walked into their hands.

"Of course, it wasn't quite that simple," Maj. George D. Wadsworth of Sterling, Ill., explained later. "There was some fuss, but they paraded out of the tunnel at just the right time."

Lt. Col. Morgan was employed in the shipping room of the Bear Brand Hosiery company in Kankakee prior to March, 1941, when the National Guard company in which he held a lieutenant's commission departed for Camp Forrest, Tenn. Morgan's wife, Beatrice, and children, Shirley and Jerry, live at 545 S. Small av., Kankakee. His mother, Mrs. Nettie Morgan, lives at 1030 S. 4th av., Kankakee.

TRUCK KILLS BOY HIDING IN BOX WHILE AT PLAY



Aaron Pollack.

A game of hide and seek with other children resulted last night in the death of Aaron Pollack, 6, of 148 S. Springfield av., beneath the wheels of a truck in an alley near his home.

Aaron had chosen for a hiding place a large cardboard carton which lay in the alley. The boy who was "it" in the game still was searching for Aaron when a truck turned into the alley. The driver, Sam Schear, 40, 3911 Grenshaw st., a junk dealer, permitted his truck to run over the box.

As the wheels crushed the box Aaron screamed once. Schear stopped the truck, ran back to the box and discovered the child.

British and German Guns Duel Over Strait of Dover

LONDON, May 24 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Heavy shellfire from British and Nazi batteries shook the starlit Straits of Dover for a half hour early today. Big British guns opened a barrage, probably aimed at a German convoy, and a drew a sporadic response from German guns on the French coast. While visibility was good overhead, there was a surface haze.

CLARK'S PILOT ONCE REPORTER IN SPRINGFIELD

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT THE 5TH ARMY ANZIO BEACHHEAD, May 23.—Maj. John T. Walker, former Springfield, Ill., newspaper man, has been Lt. Gen. Clark's personal airplane pilot since last October. Walker has trained hundreds of army men to operate little Piper Cubs but he didn't have to give Gen. Clark any lessons.

"Clark knew all about these ships before I was assigned to him," the major said. "Frequently when he is flying with me he will take over on the dual controls."

Walker is on call all day for the general may decide on a moment's notice to pay air visits to his subordinate commanders. Clark studies maps and terrain on these trips and has little chance to relax.

Walker, whose home is at 1150 W. Washington st., Springfield, worked as a reporter and photographer for the Illinois State Journal there at one time and handled publicity for the state department of agriculture.

700,000 SERVING CANADA, CLUB IN CHICAGO IS TOLD

Canada has more than 700,000 men in army, navy, and air force uniforms and a million persons employed in its munitions industry, John A. Marsh, special assistant to the Canadian minister of munitions, said last night. He addressed the Canadian club of Chicago at 308 S. Michigan av.

Manufacturing ships, planes, guns, tanks, and motor transport, Canada is fourth among the allies as a producer of war supplies, Marsh said. His country is fourth in allied air power and third in world trade, sea power, and shipbuilding, he said.

He emphasized that Canada receives no lend-lease help from the United States but as "mutual aid" has given Great Britain nearly 2½ billion dollars in advances, interest free loans, and other mutual aid, plus a gift of 1 billion dollars.

CURBS CLAMPED ON ITALIANS IN ALLIED FORCES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—Italian prisoners volunteering to serve with the allied forces, who recently have been called collaborationists, coöperators, and co-belligerents, still are forbidden to enter certain shops, movie theaters, or public houses [taverns]. Minister of War James Grigg explained to the house of commons that these restrictions were imposed so the Italians could not compete with the general public for goods and amenities in the short supply. A year ago members of parliament complained that the Italian prisoners were too popular among the village girls in farm communities, but the war minister said then that if the girls preferred the Italians to the Britishers there seemed nothing he could do about it.

WHOLE 8TH ARMY FRONT ERUPTS AS BIG DRIVE BEGINS

BY LYNN HEINZERLING.

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN THE LIRI VALLEY, Italy, May 23 (AP).—The whole Liri valley seemed to erupt today as the 8th army swung into the attack on the Adolf Hitler line. Late today Pontecorvo was wreathed in smoke and ugly clouds of battle smoke hung over the line between Pontecorvo and Aquino.

The first hour of this morning's shelling was directed at the enemy's batteries and the remainder was a creeping barrage under which the attack moved forward.

The line across the valley is of varying depth. It consists of anti-tank ditches, great rolls of barbed wire, pillboxes and emplacements extending back for hundreds of yards. The Germans are supporting the line with tanks.

At its deepest point the Hitler line is believed to be three-quarters of a mile wide.

Wrecked German Equipment.

Troops of the 8th army are driving over roads in the valley occupied only a few days ago by the Germans and now lined with smashed enemy pillboxes and abandoned equipment.

The French already have moved past Pontecorvo to the west and their guns command the town from the hills across the Liri river.

At one point on a road along a steep hill three German self-propelled guns, three German tanks, burned-out trucks and other equipment stretch for a quarter of a mile, showing how the French blasted their way thru German positions.

At one place there are between 400 and 500 white crosses in a German cemetery near a school house which the enemy used as a hospital.

The French also have their cemeteries. We passed one with perhaps 100 white crosses, all marked in French "Died for France."

Battle House to House.

Across the valley from Pontecorvo the great peak of Mount Cairo poked into the clouds so that its top was not visible.

Below, in Piedimonte, Polish troops were engaged in a bitter house to house battle with the Germans to take this northern anchor of the Hitler line and further disorganize the hard pressed enemy.

That the Germans are hard pressed was indicated in a letter found in a German dugout. It was written by a German officer to his wife and a French officer showed it to us.

"You have no idea of the hardness and horror of this retreat," it said. "We won't let you down, but the men are tired and for three days have had nothing to eat. Maybe we will succeed in avoiding a collapse on the Italian front but that seems a faint hope."

TERRACINA DIFFICULT

BY SID FEDER.

WITH ADVANCED 5TH ARMY FORCES BEFORE TERRACINA, Italy, May 23 (AP).—From behind a graveyard's tombstones, fresh German troops made a stand today in an effort to save tottering Terracina and give their forces more time to withdraw up highway No. 7 [the Appian way]. Despite this desperate holding, doughboys advanced several hundred yards at some places.

The 29th panzer grenadiers, who arrived in the line only two days ago, used mortars embedded in a cemetery adjoining this port town and held dugouts stretching all the way thru the town. They made the Yanks' progress slow.

Tonight there were indications that Terracina might not hold out much longer. Doughboys advanced behind an artillery barrage and supporting tanks plowed forward along a road newly carved by bulldozers.

This has been about the most hotly defended spot the Yanks had run into since the bloody battle of Santa Maria earlier in the campaign. The Nazis apparently even feared attack by sea here and flooded all the land between highway No. 7 and the ocean—a width of about a 100 yards.

The defense of Terracina is made easier by a mountain sticking out into the sea directly before the town.

To meet the menace of Nazi rocket weapons dug in before the town, American infantry was armed with bazookas. As they moved forward, a column of tanks commanded by Lt. Robert F. Moore, Aurora, Ind., rumbled in with them. It was his tank which blew up self-propelled guns barring the way into Fondi last Saturday.

IN U. S. 4 YEARS, CHILD BRITISHERS BECOME 'YANKS'

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—Hundreds of British youngsters from 5 to 16 who have returned after four years in the United States gave their parents somewhat of a shock today with their breezy manner and American talk. "Hi ya, Pop," some children greeted their fathers.

Those who had been shy when they went away in 1940 to escape German bombers appeared to have gained confidence. They hailed everybody as "Buddy."

"It will take the youngsters a year to readjust themselves," one of the mothers said. A father said: "My daughter Mary now is 4 years old and a good Yankee. I have never heard anything like it." So far, more than 2,000 British mothers and their children have returned. One newspaper headline read: "2,000 to Re-Learn 'English'."

RECORD FIGHTER FORCE RIPS NAZI DEFENSE BASES

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—American heavy bombers escorted by the greatest fighter force ever sent on one mission blasted Nazi air fields, freight yards and other targets in occupied France and military objectives in western Germany today. They rounded out 18 hours of assault in which 4,000 allied planes rained 5,500 tons of bombs on the enemy.

The attack on Europe was carried into its third straight night by R. A. F. bombers and the German radio reported raiders over Brandenburg province, which includes Berlin.

[German radios reported single allied planes over the Hannover-Brunswick area today and the Schleswig-Holstein and Luxembourg stations went off the air a short time later after warning of the approach of enemy formations.]

More than 1,000 Thunderbolts, Lightnings and Mustangs, some of which strafed ground targets, accompanied about 750 Liberators and Flying Fortresses over France and Germany. The escort force was described officially as history's greatest.

Few Nazis Battle Raiders.

As the tonnage in five days of aerial pounding mounted to 22,000, the German air force summoned only a token force to oppose the daylight blows, which the German controled Paris radio said were "systematically paralyzing" communications. One American bomber and three fighters were lost.

American Mustang, Thunderbolt, and Lightning fighter-bombers attacked targets in northern France and Belgium in the evening. One Mustang failed to return. Marauders also struck at northern France.

German fighters in fierce battles before dawn today brought down 35 planes from an R. A. F. force of 1,000 bombers which plastered industrial Dortmund in the Ruhr, France, and Belgium.

Yanks Attack at Dawn.

But American heavies roared out with the dawn and only one bomber formation encountered fighter opposition, which was routed quickly. Even the flak was less intense.

The packs of fighters, unable to get the Nazi air force into the sky, went down after it, strafing air fields and hangars and shooting up locomotives and miltary trains.

The targets of the Americans were rail yards at Epinal and Chaumont, and airdromes at Avord, Orleans-Bricy, Bourges, Etampes-Mondesire, Caen, and Chateaudun, all in France.

Midwesterner on Raids.

Telling of the relatively light defense put up by the Germans, Sgt. John Ryan of Madison, Wis., a radio operator, said:

"A battery of five flak guns tracked us for awhile going in and out, but otherwise it was a quiet day."

TITO'S ARMY WRECKS 13 GERMAN TROOP AND SUPPLY TRAINS

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—Yugoslavia's patriot army is attacking in Dalmatia and Croatia and has destroyed 13 troop and supply trains in blows at German lifelines, Marshal Tito's headquarters announced today.

A war bulletin also announced the capture of Ljubis on the Sandjak-Serbian frontier with much booty. It admitted a German and satellite offensive was under way in the Zagorje district of northern Croatia and the reënforced enemy was stiffening against the Partisans' offensive in Slovenia.

Allied naval units supporting Tito's Dalmatian operations sank a German ship near Peljesac peninsula, damaged another, and captured two sloops, a Free Yugoslav announcement said.

YANKS EXTEND BRIDGEHEAD ON COAST OF GUINEA

Gain on Mainland Near Wakde Island.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, May 24 [Wednesday]—(AP).—American 6th army forces pressing toward two northern New Guinea air fields have expanded their bridgehead at the mouth of the Tor river opposite captured Wakde Island, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

Reënforcements have reached the Americans, largely from transport planes using the Wakde airstrip.

Heavy bombers hitting to the west dumped 150 tons of bombs on Biak Island in the Schouten group, leaving towering fires. Bombs were unloaded also on Manokwari at the western end of Dutch New Guinea, the Wewak-Hansa bay area, Rabaul, and Buka Island off Bougainville.

Heavy destroyer fire joined with the American artillery in knocking out the Japanese mortar positions.

Four enemy fighters were shot down by Lightnings Sunday night in the raid on Manokwari. Catalina patrol bombers between New Guinea and Celebes Island dropped a ton of bombs on a large ship in a small convoy Sunday night, but the results were obscured by clouds.

Bomb Watje Atoll.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, May 23 (AP).—American land based bombers unleashed a 230 ton bombardment on Wotje atoll in the Marshall Islands Sunday, the heaviest daylight assault of the war on a single target in the Central Pacific.

The sweep over Wotje almost equaled the 240 ton assault against Jaluit atoll in the day and night of May 14-15. Army, navy, and marine flyers teamed up in the attack, made without the loss of a single plane, altho 10 were damaged by anti-aircraft fire.

Fly 207 Sorties.

Heavy and medium bombers, dive bombers and fighter planes struck Wotje, which is 187 miles east of Kwajalein atoll. They flew 207 sorties in all, the navy said, with Mitchells and Corsairs strafing specific targets.

Wotje, 25 miles long and 10 miles wide, has a two run airstrip. The other principal island of the atoll is armed. Adm. Nimitz also told of a strike by Corsair planes at Mili atoll, 200 miles southeast of Wotje.

NAZIS REPORTED IN NEW GUINEA; JAP DEAL HINTED

BY JACK TURCOTT.

[New York News Correspondent.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, May 23.—A strong possibility that Germany agreed to help Japan in the Pacific war in exchange for a Japanese pledge to return south seas colonies taken from Germany by Australia and England after the last war was seen tonight.

Australian soldiers patroling northern New Guinea learned from native infantrymen that inland tribesmen reported seeing German officers and soldiers accompanying Japanese thruout the mountainous district 50 miles northwest of Alexishafen. The Germans were reported to have remained with the Japs until they evacuated several months ago.

Allied observers said they consider it most likely that Japan offered return of some of this territory to the Nazis if the Germans provided assistance against Gen. MacArthur's forces.

CONFEREES SET $2,500 LIMIT ON LOANS TO VETS

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—A committee of senate and house conferees cleared the first barrier today in the path of a compromise on a broad program of veterans' benefits by agreeing that the government should lend service men up to $2,500 to buy or build homes or to purchase farms or businesses.

The veterans' administration would handle the loans, utilizing government lending agencies, and veterans would pay no more than 3 per cent interest.

The conferees reported no agreement had been reached on provisions for continuing the education of men in service or on unemployment compensation.

The senate approved a year's unemployment compensation, while the house set 26 weeks as the maximum. There was some talk of compromising on 40.

ARMY TOLD U. S. WON'T SAVE ALL GOODS ABROAD

Hill Field, Utah, May 23 (AP).—Military supplies overseas at the end of the war may be left there as an economy measure, supply division officials of the army's air service command were told today.

"In many cases," said Maj. Gen. Lester T. Miller of Patterson field, O., ASC supply chief, "it will be more economical and cost taxpayers less to dump it in the ocean or dispose of it on the spot.

"To return much of it would be prohibitive, due to transportation and handling costs and because many items quickly become obsolete."

COUNTERDRIVE SMASHES JAPS IN NORTHERN CHINA

Chinese Break Line at Several Points.

CHUNGKING, May 24 [Wednesday] (AP).—The high command announced today the Chinese had launched a counter-offensive on all sectors in Honan province Monday, and had driven the Japanese back.

Loyang, encircled in the center of the battle area and with its garrison facing massacre if the Japanese entered, still was in Chinese hands.

The Honan counter-offensive, the announcement said, has removed for the time being the possibility of a major frontal clash between the Chinese and Japanese armies. Japanese threatening the northwest area both along the Lunghai railway and farther south fell back.

Chinese Retake Town.

Chinese attacking the Japanese flanks east of the north-south Peiping-Hankow railway already have breached the enemy lines at half a dozen points and are making further headway, the high command said.

Lushin, Honan province town 18 miles from the Shensi border and 45 miles south and east of Tungkwan, was lost to the invaders for a few hours but was recaptured by Chinese shock troops, the high command announced.

[Roy Porter, National Broadcasting company reported, radioed from Chungking that the attacking Chinese had found the Japanese lines "very thinly manned" and the Japanese "are in retreat in all sectors in Honan province."]

Defends Aid to China.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—Foreign Minister Anthony Eden today defended Britain's aid to China after J. J. Lawson [Laborite] told him there was great concern about this matter in the United Kingdom, particularly in reference to hospital and first aid supplies.

Eden had pointed out that subscriptions to the Aid China fund totaled $4,488,000, of which $3,720,000 had been remitted to China for distribution by Mme. Chiang Kai-shek. Eden said he was sorry that the feeling that this was not enough existed in this country because "very great efforts had been made to meet what admittedly was a difficult subject."

Lt. Robert H. Marx, 23, a bomber pilot in the army air forces who was reported missing April 8 in a flight over Germany, is a prisoner of war, his mother, Mrs. Johanna Marx, 1119 Hyde Park blvd., was notified yesterday by the war department. Lt. Marx had completed more than ten bombing missions. He had been awarded the air medal and oak leaf cluster. Lt. Marx enlisted Dec. 31, 1941, and received his commission last June.

BURMA ROAD CUT BY CHINESE; JAP SUPPLY PERILED

CHUNGKING, China, May 23 (AP).—Chinese forces on the offensive along the Salween river have cut the Burma road at Chefang, blocking the principal source of supplies for the Japanese forces in southwest China, the Chinese command announced today.

Chefang is only 28 miles east of the north-south Burma border toward which the Chinese are driving, and it is only 10 miles north of the Burma frontier as it runs east-west across the Burma road.

The Chinese, apparently striking at Chefang after a circuitous and possible secret march up the Elown mountains, first encircled the Japanese garrison in the town and then completed its destruction yesterday, a Chinese bulletin said. More than 200 Japanese dead were counted.

Jap Base Cut Off.

Chefang is 35 miles southwest of the Japanese Burma road base of Lungling, which was cut off from its main source of supplies to the south. The supply line runs by road to Lashio and thence by rail to Mandalay, 220 miles below Chefang.

The Japanese have an alternate route in the trail between Tengchung on the Salween front and Bhamo in Burma, but this is far inferior to the Burma road.

The Chinese reported continued attacks on enemy forces surrounded at two points north of the Burma road—at Chaikungtang and Tatangtzu, where Japanese supplies were described as "critically low."

Delayed at Myitkyina.

On the Myitkyina front 90 miles to the west in Burma, heavy monsoon rains again delayed allied operations aimed at finally reducing the base, the Chinese announced.

"The slow work of eliminating savagely resisting pockets of Japanese who evidently are prepared to die in their dugouts and behind log entrenchments continues," a bulletin said.

Japs Are Reënforced.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, May 23 (AP).—In the Imphal area of India there were indications that the Japanese had received some reënforcements, especially in the Bishenpur sector, and are trying to regain the initiative, said the allied southeast Asia command bulletin issued today.

The Japanese made heavy counter-attacks supported by artillery fire against the allied road block on the Tiddim road, but were repulsed, the bulletin said.

The veteran Japanese 33d division is strung along the road leading to Tiddim. This is the same division which fought the British Indian 17th division withdrawing from Burma two years ago.

CHINA'S DOCTORS LACK SUPPLIES, SAYS GEN. LIM

Lt. Gen. Lim.

Lt. Gen. Robert Kho-sheng Lim, chief of the supervisory and planning commission of the Chinese army medical service, said yesterday that "we are getting practically nothing in the way of medical supplies in China, and our situation is critical." He arrived in Chicago from Washington, D. C., where he met with United States army authorities to discuss the problem of transportation of medical supplies.

In a public lecture at the University of Chicago, Gen. Lim described the efforts of the Chinese government to combat the shortage of doctors. Training of corpsmen, standardization of treatment, development of nurse training, and the adoption of individual medical kits for the most prevalent of diseases were listed as the most effective of the projects under way.

Gen. Lim said malaria and dysentery were the biggest enemies of the army, but that the lack of supplies and trained doctors was resulting in hundreds of deaths each week. Chlorine for purifying water and mosquito netting to prevent malaria especially are needed now, he said. He added that there is a sufficient quantity of quinine and of opium and morphine for anesthesia.

EVANSTON CLUB GETS AROUND—EVEN IN CALCUTTA

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALCUTTA, India, May 23.—It is amazing to what lengths the University Club of Evanston, Ill., goes to teach persons to use its library. The following notice has appeared on the bulletin board of Calcutta's Great Eastern hotel:

"Dear fellow member—This information may make it easier for you to use your club library. At the right of the entrance, hanging on the wall, is a chart showing the classification and location of books. You should sign for each book and drop the card in the box on the big table in the library. A new book should not be kept more than 10 days. Older ones should be returned within 30 days. Signed,

"Library committee,
"University club,
"Evanston, Ill."

Just why this notice was posted is not known. The suave Indian hotel clerk shrugs his shoulders and says a tall young American officer wandered into the lounge last night, surveyed the almost empty board, then carefully thumb-tacked the notice in center of it. Then he studied his handiwork and wandered out again into the black Calcutta night.

JAP TAKES BIBLE MESSAGE TO 2 DOOMED YANKS

German Priest Sends Them Consolation.

BY ROBERT EUNSON.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, May 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—A Japanese soldier carried a final Christian message from a German Catholic priest to two captured American airmen awaiting their fate near Madang, New Guinea, last July.

This story was told today by August Beuers, mission brother from Muenster, Germany, who was among the 100 missionaries liberated when the Americans seized Hollandia last month.

Beuers said he was bound hand and foot on the floor of a native hut when Japanese soldiers brought in two Americans. The Japanese untied Beuers and used the ropes to bind the Americans. Beuers described them as tall, one red-haired and the other dark-complexioned.

Kept Bound for Days.

Thru an interpreter, Maj. Arnold M. Maahs of Tilleda, Wis., Beuers related that the Americans were kept bound on the floor with no food and very little water for several days.

"One day a native brought us some bananas, but Japanese guards took them from him and ate them in front of us," said Beuers. "Finally, they took the Americans away. A few days later a Japanese soldier named Torino came in and said Maj. Natehara, our captor, had ordered the Americans executed. He told us the Americans had asked for a Bible but Natehara had refused.

"'I can't cut their heads off without giving them a Christian message or they will come back and haunt me,' Torino told us," Beuers said.

Gives Bible Message.

The German then related how Father Luttmer, a German missionary who later died in captivity, gave Torino the biblical phrases: "Let not your heart be troubled. Ye believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you. I will come again and receive you unto Myself, that where I am ye may be also."

Beuers said Torino, who spoke English well, memorized the message.

He described Father Luttmer as being sad about the impending executions and as wanting to give the Americans absolution, but Torino refused this request. Thereupon the missionary thanked Torino for conveying the message.

"Several days later the natives told us Torino had cut off the Americans' heads," Beuers said. "But we don't really know what happened."

Missionaries Beaten.

Beuers then told how he was captured on Karkar Island.

"When Japanese soldiers came for us, one of them beat me with a club. Another shot his rifle over my head and a third advanced towards me with bayonet fixed and put the blade against my stomach. They bound our hands behind our backs and tied all of us together.

"One time another German missionary and I were studying a map. Two Japanese soldiers came in and beat us. They accused us of being spies. We had previously proved we were Germans, but they told us that didn't make any difference.

"The Japanese treated the German missionaries worse than they treated American missionaries."

WAR PRISONERS IN PHILIPPINES TO GET U.S. AID

Japs O. K. Purchases by Y.M.C.A.

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—The state department announced today that the Japanese had given approval for the purchase of $25,000 worth of relief supplies monthly for civilian internees and prisoners of war in the Philippine Islands.

American government funds have been made available for the purchases to be made in the Philippines, the department said, quoting advices from the Y. M. C. A.

Meanwhile, American diplomatic officials are "continuing to press the Japanese government" for full reciprocity in granting permission for neutral inspection of civilian and prisoner of war camps by representatives of neutral organizations.

Notified Thru Stockholm.

The state department announcement of the latest developments in the long campaign to improve conditions of prisoners in the far east said:

"The war prisoners' aid of the Young Men's Christian association was recently informed by its Stockholm office that the Japanese authorities in the Philippine Islands had extended permission to the neutral delegate there of the war prisoners' aid to purchase locally relief supplies to an amount not exceeding $25,000 monthly for shipment to civilian internment and prisoner of war camps in the Philippine Islands.

"United States government funds have been made available for expenditure by the war prisoners' aid delegate for this purpose. These funds are in addition to monthly remittances of official funds which are being transmitted regularly thru Swiss government channels to the executive committees of civilian internment camps in the Philippine Islands under authorization obtained from the Japanese authorities in August, 1943.

"Altho information has been received that the American Red Cross relief supplies sent on the exchange vessels to Japan and Japanese occupied territories, including the Philippine Islands, have been distributed by the Japanese authorities, permission has so far not been given by the Japanese government for the inspection of civilian internment camps or of prisoner of war camps in the Philippine Islands by representatives of the Swiss government which represents American interests in the far east or by representatives of neutral organizations.

"The United States government is continuing to press the Japanese government to grant full reciprocity in this respect."

NAZIS AND RUSSIANS REPORT A CONTINUED LULL ALONG FRONT

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—The lull on the Russian front continued generally unbroken today, bulletins from both Moscow and Berlin said, altho the possibility of an upheaval along the lengthy eastern front remained imminent.

The operational bulletin broadcast by the Russians and recorded by the soviet monitor here said only: "During May 23 there were no essential changes on the fronts. During May 22 14 enemy planes were shot down in air combat or by anti-aircraft fire."

The Nazis' broadcast announcement was similar, saying, "On the eastern front there was limited local activity. Otherwise the day was quiet."

The Germans reported completing mopping up operations in the lower Dnestr in which they said they took more than 2,000 prisoners, 47 tanks, 71 guns, and much war material in addition to inflicting heavy casualties.

TWO OF BRITAIN'S NEWEST QUADS FIGHT FOR LIVES

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—The Moxham quadruplets—three boys and a girl—were reported in a temporarily satisfactory condition at the Southend Municipal hospital tonight, but the survival chances for two were described as precarious.

Dr. S. Gieman, superintendent of the hospital, said the babies, born last night to Mrs. Daisy Moxham, were "immature, not premature." He said they were getting the care and diet usually accorded premature babies. The mother was not very well last night, but is progressing, he said.

The father, an R. A. F. flying officer, was standing by with his other five children, whose ages range from 5 to 16 years, "trying to get used to this pleasant surprise." He has nt been allowed to see the quadruplets yet. The children are the second set of quadruplets born in England recently.

MIDWEST TRUCK EXPERTS GET BIG ROLE IN INVASION

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—In a secret beehive of American officers in London, plans are being pushed for organization of a widespread truck transport system to maintain the flow of supplies in continental Europe even tho the retreating Nazis blow up every mile of the railway.

Many middle westerners are serving with the United States army transport corps which in one year has set up a 150,000 mile network of roads in Britain. It carries more tonnage more miles than all the long distance trucking companies in the United States, say officers.

Milwaukeean Directs Plans.

Lt. Col. Gordon M. Olsen of 3234 S. Delaware, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the key men drafting plans for the extension of this system to the continent after the invasion.

Equipped with anti-aircraft guns to fight off strafing planes, the trucks will move in on the heels of the assault troops. The drivers will be trained in the use of the anti-aircraft weapons, rifles, and carbines, and in general combat tactics. Like the engineers, the transport corps is prepared to fight as well as work.

Day and night thruout Britain long lines of heavy trucks roll over miles of narrow, twisting, unfamiliar roads. Peering into the black-out, the drivers try to discern signs erected by reconnaissance units which have inspected the territory and marked out the best routes. Hastily drawn strip maps help the drivers who, like airmen, are carefully "briefed" before each "mission."

More Midwesterners There.

Maj. E. V. McFadzen of 1619 S. 80th st., Milwaukee, chief of the highway branch, coördinates convoy movements and eases overcrowded areas by directing alterations in routes. Lt. Henry Croft of New Albany, Ind., does the same type of work in one of seven transport regions into which Britain is divided. Capt. Cecil R. Walsh of Indianapolis, Ind., heads the return load plan branch which makes certain truck convoys do not return to their bases empty.

A big problem of using huge American trucks in England where road transports never have operated on a large scale is routing the convoys away from the small towns, where the narrow streets might create a traffic jam taking hours to untangle.

This happened before the country was well "cased." Driving on the left side of the road also creates an unfamiliar problem.

The number of vehicles now on the English roads would be equivalent to a convoy of 2½ ton trucks traveling at intervals of 60 yards stretching from New York to Denver, officials estimate.

Lt. Col. George L. Ammon of 177 16th av., Moline, Ill., commands a convoy truck unit which carries supplies thruout the United Kingdom.

BERNE, Switzerland, May 23.—A 62 year old farmer in Rottenburg, Wuertemberg, has been sent to a concentration camp for befriending an English parachutist who landed on his farm. The host and his wife liberally provided him food, drink, and a bed made hospitable with warm water bottles.

CONVOY OF 6 GERMAN SHIPS SUNK IN TRAP SET UP BY P-T BOATS

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—A German convoy of six ships loaded with ammunition and gasoline was destroyed in the Mediterranean by a British-American force after two American P-T boats took on two German destroyers and lured them from their protective positions, the navy disclosed today.

Describing the action of last March, the navy said the patrol-torpedo boats raced full throttle at the destroyers and at 350 yards released torpedoes. P-T 212, commanded by Lt. [j. g.] Harold B. Lerner of San Francisco, then began laying a smoke screen as the destroyers opened fire. Dodging in and out of the screen, it escaped. P-T 214, with Lt. [j. g.] Robert T. Boebel of Milwaukee, Wis., in command, after firing its torpedo, which Boebel said made a track straight to one of the destroyers, was hit by a shell from a destroyer, which wounded Motor Machinist's Mate [3/c] George F. Sintich of 9432 Ewing av., Chicago, and Motor Machinist's Mate [2/c] Joseph J. Frossman of Long Island City, N. Y.

The two P-T boats were directed on the operation by Lt. Edwin A. Dubose of Fort Worth, Tex.

CAPTURED PILOTS WILL BE PUT ON TRIAL, SAY NAZIS

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—German Peoples courts will try allied pilots shot down during fighter plane attacks on trains and communications in Germany, a German broadcast quoted by the Stockholm newspaper, Svenska Dagbladet, said today. Ever since the great allied fighter sweep over Germany Sunday, Nazi propaganda has charged the attacks were made mainly against trains carrying women and children, and that pilots shot down farmers in their fields.

The trial threat recalled the German declaration of Dec. 23 that British and American airmen held as prisoners of war in Germany would be tried as "war criminals"—in answer to the Russians' atrocity trials and executions of Germans at Kharkov. Apparently no trials were staged in Germany, altho a broadcast a month later said such action was "in preparation."

A Berlin broadcast today said, "The German supreme command thinks it necessary to put before the world a number of outrageous violations of international law by the Anglo-American air force. There were 20 cases between Jan. 24 and April 14. Since April 14, Anglo-American attacks on hospitals, etc., have recurred almost daily. In all these cases, the attacked targets are clearly marked with the red cross."

Britons' Beef Has Familiar Ring: No Meat Except Pork

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—Complaints by British civilians that they have had no meat other than pork for some time were answered today by Minister of Food J. J. Llewellin. He said that transport difficulties made it necessary to distribute home slaughtered meat in nearby areas. The service forces are getting more beef and mutton than ever before and "we are buying meat wherever we can get it, including lamb and mutton from Iceland, and beef from Madagascar," said Llewellin.

WAR LOAN CHIEF SEEKS 16,300 TO CANVASS HOMES

An appeal for volunteers to canvass from house to house during the fifth war loan, which begins June 12, was made yesterday by Frank C. Rathje, chairman of the joint office of civilian defense-war finance home canvass division of the Chicago and Cook county drive committee.

Success in meeting the city and county bond sales quota of $894,014,000 will depend to a large extent upon the size and effectiveness of the army of volunteer canvassers, Rathje said. Plans call for a minimum of 16,300 such workers, or one for each block, but efforts are being made to enlist several volunteers for each of the thickly populated blocks.

Rathje Calls Need Urgent.

"To make our quota it will be necessary to undertake the most intensive and comprehensive house to house canvass ever attempted in Chicago," said Rathje. "There is a critical and urgent need for canvassers, for patriotic men and women who will assume the duty of soldiers on the home front and who will assist in contacting quickly and thoroly every household in this area."

Men and women willing to serve as canvassers are asked to write to Rathje at war loan headquarters, 105 W. Adams st., stating their preference as to morning, afternoon, or evening work, and the length of time they can give to the canvass.

Organization of the second section of the officers and executive groups in the trades and industries division for the city and county war loan drive has been completed, Jay N. Whipple, division chairman, said. There will be 53 group committees in the division fully organized and ready for operation when the drive opens, he said.

Name Committee Leaders.

Names of the committee chairmen announced by Whipple are: Coal and ice, Stuyvesant Peabody; confectioners, George H. Williamson; dairy and poultry, Oliver A. Blackburn; drugs and chemicals, Harry E. Dunning; electrical, Whipple Jacobs; engineers, George S. May; finance companies, Fred Snite; food products, Joseph Friedlander; furniture and home furnishings, Lawrence H. Whiting; graphic arts, Ivan A. McKenna; hardware and sporting goods, C. J. Whipple, and heating and plumbing, Kent S. Clow.

FRENCH REPORT RAIL SYSTEM IN COMPLETE CHAOS

Nazi Radio Gives Gloomy View of Nation.

Invasion Weather

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—The weather of Dover strait tonight was clear and cool, with the water smooth and visibility fair. There was some low mist, after a mid-day shower. A northwest wind swung to the southwest at dusk, blowing lightly. A high barometer climbed a few more points. The temperature tonight was 41 and tending downward.

LONDON, May 23 (AP). — In a broadcast from the Nazi controled Paris radio, the French commentator Robert de Beauplan said today that as a result of the allied aerial offensive "the French railway system is in complete chaos."

"The allies have successfully pulverized whole marshalling [freight] yards," he said. "They have destroyed countless locomotives.

"Saboteurs also have put out of action the whole hydro-electric system in France. . . . The whole problem of transport in France is a desolate sight, and the temper of the population, especially that of Paris, is rising, because no food is available, nobody can travel, and there are restrictions in the use of electricity.

French Blame Nazis, He Says.

"Frenchmen are blaming the Germans for all this misery which has descended on France."

Observers here saw in this gloomy broadcast an attempt by the Nazis to create allied over confidence.

Today was the fifth anniversary of the formation of the axis military alliance and the Germans broadcast this message which they said Hitler sent to Mussolini on the occasion: "I want to express my unshakable belief that despite all difficulties that have to be overcome, at the end of this struggle the tri-partite powers will have victory."

Here in Britain still more passenger trains were canceled as timetables thruout the country were put on a virtual day to day basis to facilitate movement of troops. Six expresses were taken out of service in a 12 hour period as crowds stood quietly watching blackboard notices in the stations.

Asserts Invasion Imminent.

Invasion was mentioned in the house of commons as being imminent, altho it was done in the restrained language of officialdom. Asked about the clothing to be provided discharged soldiers, War Secretary James Grigg replied that all such matters had to be planned "consistent with preparing for future operations which are now imminent."

ARKANSAS STATE POLICE ASSIGNED TO ABBATTE QUIZ

Hot Springs, Ark., May 23 [Special].—Gov. M. E. Adkins today ordered state police to aid authorities of Hot Spring and Garland counties in investigating the death of Frank Abbatte, Chicago turfman.

Abbatte's nude body, a bullet thru the head, was found half buried in a roadside ditch 32 miles southwest of here April 22.

Authorities of the two counties have been at odds over who should take charge of the investigation. Abbatte was last seen alive in Garland county, but his body was found in Hot Spring county. It was indicated an Arkansas official would leave soon for Chicago to gather information.

MISS ANNA KUZEFF.

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 23 [Special].—The body of Anna Kuzeff, 20, a war plant worker, was found today in an oat field near the edge of the city. Police said she had been strangled after a terrific struggle and that the body had been raped.

Miss Kuzeff, a graduate of the Fort Wayne Central High school, was an employee of the General Electric supercharger plant here, working from 11 p. m. to 7 a. m., and her route from her home to the plant required her to pass the oat field.

Police said her purse and lunch basket were found 20 feet from the body, and that her shoes, which had been torn from her feet, were 50 feet away. Trampled oats indicated she had been dragged about 100 feet.

STUDENT FLYER KILLED ON EVE OF GRADUATION

Andrew P. Olsen Jr., 21, of 7536 Luella av., who was to have received his commission as second lieutenant in the army air forces yesterday, was killed Monday when his advance trainer plane, in which he was flying with his instructor, Lt. Clark of Dallas, Tex., crashed near Foster field, Tex., during his last flight before graduation. Lt. Clark also was killed.

A. P. Olsen Jr.

Olsen, a graduate of Hirsch High school, entered the air force reserve when he was a student at the Citadel Military college of South Carolina.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Olsen, and a brother, Earle, 17.

IOWA LOWLAND FAMILIES FLEE RIVER TORRENTS

Des Moines, Ia., May 23 (AP). — The flood swollen Des Moines river tonight continued on the rampage from above Des Moines to Ottumwa, 90 miles to the southeast.

The greatest danger appeared to be at Ottumwa, where an estimated 500 persons were driven from their homes and a five foot rise in the river was forecast by Friday.

Army engineers from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., with amphibious motorized equipment, were ordered to assist in rescue work. New rainfall added to the danger in the Des Moines valley.

Below Des Moines, farmers continued their battle to save a two mile levee, which protects thousands of acres of rich farm land.

The office of price administration yesterday declared an emergency exists in the Iowa flood districts and removed all rationed articles and commodities except automobiles from the ration lists in more than 40 counties. Rae E. Walters, regional administrator, said food will be used to aid evacuated families and gasoline and tires to facilitate rehabilitation of families.

WAUKEGAN YANK COVERS A TRAIL AND 22 JAPS DIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Pvt. Leonard J. Gordon of 219 Lake st., Waukegan, Ill., is a machine gunner, but he is equally adept at using a rifle or a grenade. He demonstrated his ability when he killed 22 Japanese on Bougainville Island in one short engagement.

Pvt. L. J. Gordon.

The story of Gordon's activities March 10-11 was released today by the war department. His campaign ended when he was wounded and carried out of action.

Gordon was first gunner of a light machine gun squad when his platoon leader, Lt. John P. Trauger of Lancaster, Pa., ordered him and his assistant gunner to take up a position on the northern top of hill 260. The Japs had captured most of the hill at dawn. Gordon's particular job was to cover a trail the Japanese were using.

Twelve Killed in Short Time.

Despite constant heavy enemy fire he and his assistant reached the indicated position and set up their gun.

In a short time Gordon had picked off 12 Japanese trying to slip along the trail and their bodies lay in sight thruout the day. When it grew dark, Gordon and his assistant moved their position to escape sharpshooters. They were just settled when Gordon spotted two Japs moving thru the brush.

At the right moment Gordon pulled the pin from a hand grenade and threw it. Then he tossed a second grenade. Both Japs were killed.

Wipes Out Two Gun Nests.

Gordon, Lt. Tauge said, works with "methodical efficiency." He demonstrated his efficiency the next morning when his company resumed its attack. When his squad leader was wounded, Gordon took over the command. During the advance he accounted for two Japanese machine gun nests, killing six more of the enemy. That ran the tally to 20, with uncounted others wounded.

Meanwhile, Gordon's machine gun was damaged by a bullet and, after making it useless to the enemy, he and his assistant crawled back to get new weapons. They located rifles and returned to the fight. Before he was wounded Gordon picked off his last two Japs.

MODEST YOUTH.

In a recent letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gordon, the Waukegan fighter disclosed he was in a hospital and dismissed his battle exploits with a sentence, "I got a couple of Japs, too."

Pvt. Gordon was graduated from Waukegan Township High school in 1941, spent a semester at the University of Illinois, then filled a civilian job in the marine corps at Santa Barbara, Cal., until he was old enough in April, 1942, to enlist in the army.

Friend of the Yanks

L. O. R. writes: "Before entering the navy I took and passed a government civil service examination for a pretty good job. My question is, when I leave the navy, will I have to take another examination?"

ANSWER: It will not be necessary for you to take another examination. Your eligibility will be revived if you make the request for revival within 40 days of date of discharge. Your name will be restored to the list on which it originally appeared, the list succeeding it, another appropriate list, or, if no appropriate list exists, to the first such list to be established. If your name was certified for appointment, or was reached on the list of eligibles for certification during your absence in service, your name will be placed ahead of the names of all other eligibles on the list.

O. S. K. asks: "Could you inform me as to how I can obtain help in paying for my husband's life insurance while he is in service? Would a loan on the policy make any difference?"

ANSWER: Under the soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act the veterans' administration is authorized to protect private life insurance of men in service by payment of premiums on up to $10,000 face value. This protection is extended to two years after the insured leaves service. The application for this assistance is available from any veterans' facility. Application should be made by the insured or by a person designated by him if he is outside the continental United States. Loans against the insurance do not bar protection.

M. R. G. writes: "In the May 15 Tribune there was a story about the maritime service which said: 'Men in the merchant marine have, under recent legislation, the same rights to reëmployment, insurance, bonuses, and other benefits enjoyed by men in the armed services.' Does this mean national service life insurance, income tax exemptions, etc.,"

ANSWER: The legislation mentioned did not make members of the maritime service part of the armed services—hence they do not qualify for the insurance and income tax exemption you mention. While aboard ship or under orders these men are protected by $5,000 free war risk insurance and they can purchase an additional $5,000. The war risk insurance pays disability, whereas national service life insurance does not. There is no special exemption on income tax for members of the maritime service.

MEASURE WOULD BAN SPONSORED NEWS REPORTS

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—Sweeping changes in the communications act, including one to prohibit commercial sponsorship of any news broadcast, were proposed to the senate interstate commerce committee today in a bill submitted by Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Acting Minority Leader White [R., Me.]. The proposals evoked a storm of protest at the closed meeting.

Action on the most controversial items, Wheeler told reporters, was postponed until next Wednesday to allow time to study the bill.

Wheeler said the provision to force networks or stations to stand the expense of news broadcasts by commentators and analysts was broad enough to ban commercially sponsored factual news broadcasts.

Papers Could Get Licenses.

Other proposals embraced in the measure would:

1. Prohibit the FCC from refusing new licenses to newspapers for radio stations.

2. Require networks and radio stations to grant equal and equivalent time for opponents to answer radio speakers who raise political or public issues.

If donated by the station for one side, time would have to be donated for the other.

3. Limit radio stations to 50,000 watts for broadcasting, except for experiment.

4. Prohibit stations from collecting for time allotted to discussion on religious, educational, or public controversial issues.

Would Cut FCC Personnel.

5. Reduce from seven to five the personnel of the communications commission and provide for rotation of the chairmanship. James L. Fly is the present chairman.

Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.] termed the ban on commercial sponsorship of news "drastic" and said it would not be liked by the public.

Among other things, the bill would split the commission into two divisions, one handling private communications, the other broadcasting, and would deny the commission authority to "censor, alter, or in any manner affect or control the substance of any material to be broadcast."

BE NEIGHBORLY TO NAZIS, PLEA OF CANTERBURY

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—The Archbishop of Canterbury, in a speech appealing for funds for post-war reconstruction, said today "it may be that the period of Europe's leadership in the world is near its close." Even should this be so, the archbishop said, "the tradition of Europe, its culture and its science must still count for very much in the post-war period."

He said the need for reconstruction work at home as well as in Angelican dioceses overseas, "especially perhaps in China," would be great, but added:

"Nevertheless, to Christians in Germany and in the countries Germany has oppressed, we must show the spirit of neighborliness, alike for their sake, for the countries in which they work and for the world."

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SPEEDS ENGINES FOR LSTs; WINS TRIBUNE AWARD

Ex-Salesman Succeeds on War Plant Job.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A former automobile salesman, who got a job in a war factory to do his part in winning the war, tonight will receive The Chicago Tribune War Workers' Award for April. He is Felix Sitterle, employed by the electromotive division of the General Motors corporation in its plant near La Grange. He is the 22d winner of the award—symbolized by a diamond studded gold pin.

Comdr. W. C. Eddy of the navy will make the presentation in a broadcast over W-G-N from 9:15 to 9:30 p. m.

Shaft Work Speeded.

Sitterle's achievement was the development of a way to speed production of control shafts and cam shafts for diesel engines used in LSTs [landing ships, tanks] and in railroad diesel-electric locomotives.

The shafts involved in the Sitterle development are vital parts of the diesel engines. The control shaft—two to an engine—operates the injectors which feed fuel into the engine. The cam shaft—also two to an engine—is a safety device which keeps an engine from breaking down in an emergency.

Fabrication of the shafts was a long and complicated operation. The shafts frequently had to be transferred from one machine to another. On two operations alone they had to be handled 24 times.

Method Saves Overlapping.

Sitterle developed a fixture which made it possible to concentrate the various operations in one place so that work progressed consecutively, with no retracing of steps.

Before the Sitterle method was adopted two men working full time, plus two night shifts a week, were needed to handle the shaft operations. Now one man does the entire job and he turns out approximately three times the number of shafts that the four men formerly did. The company estimates that approximately 80 per cent in time has been saved under the new method.

Sitterle was born in Chicago 45 years ago. He lives with his wife, Mabel, and his mother, Mrs. Anna Parris, at 5303 West 24th place, Cicero. He served in the first World war in the 308th tank battalion.

V.F.W. TO OPEN CONVENTION IN CHICAGO AUG. 22

Delegates representing almost 700,000 members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States will hold their national convention in Chicago, Aug. 22, 23, and 24, for the first time in 28 years. Carl J. Schoeninger, Detroit, national commander, said yesterday the 1944 encampment will be the most important in the history of the V. F. W.

Primary interest of the V. F. W. this year, said Commander Schoeninger, is compensation, medical care, reëmployment, and other aid for veterans of the present war. Thousands of V. F. W. members have sons in service and many thousand service men already have become members of the V. F. W.

"The V. F. W." Commander Schoeninger said, "is currently interested in passage of the G. I. bill of rights, which, as originally written, set up many benefits and some privileges for those who are fighting in the present war. We are going to fight for restoration of those features which have been eliminated by committees in congress." Business sessions of the convention will be conducted in the Morrison hotel.

WAR STEERS US TO NATIONALISM, SAYS DR. WOLFE

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Protestant One Worlders who think the war is being fought to establish a sovereign world state were declared wrong and were challenged yesterday by a famed New York preacher "to persuade the churches which are supposed to be motivated by the spirit of Christian love and coöperation to get together."

If the churchmen cannot become One Churchers, the Rev. Dr. Paul A. Wolfe asked the members of the Chicago Rotary club in Hotel Sherman how the sovereign nations could be led into a superstate no matter how desirable, theoretically, it might be.

"Let us be wary of those who lay all blame for this state of affairs on Winston Churchill, who will not liquidate the British empire, or on the United States senate that will not surrender American sovereignty," he said. "Does any one imagine that Stalin is fighting to surrender the sovereignty of Russia to an international state? If so, he is very shy about announcing the fact."

"Nationalism Here to Stay."

Dr. Wolfe, who was called from First Presbyterian church, Evanston, to the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, a few years ago, told the club: "Nationalism is here and this war will not destroy it. The war is teaching us the importance of established institutions, of patriotic sentiments, of cherished customs. It is the love of men for France, Belgium, Norway, and China—the love of men for their native lands—that is defeating Germany and Japan."

Dr. Wolfe asserted the war is not being fought "against fascism and dictatorship," nor is it, he said, "a war to establish democracy." Referring to a Russian author, Dr. Wolfe said the writer "makes it clear that what actually happened [during the bolshevik revolution] is that the Russians exchanged a stupid and ineffective czar for a clever and able one—Stalin took the place of Nicholas Romanoff."

"No Match for British."

"An American inferiority complex," Dr. Wolfe said, "is being demonstrated by American attitudes toward England—one of the curious hangovers of history. There are those among us who fear and hate Great Britain. Her statesmen are tricky, sure to outwit us; her business interests are astute, sure to exploit us. We poor Americans are no match for British cunning.

"There are the others who do just the opposite. They fawn upon Great Britain. They become sentimental about hands across the sea. They ape her fashions, her accent, her institutions. Britain is for them the last word. It is time Americans get over that inferiority. There is no excuse for it now. It is time for us to stand on our feet and believe in ourselves."

DUNHAM CHOSEN FOR 11TH TERM AS PARK LEADER

Commissioners of the Chicago park district yesterday legally elected Robert J. Dunham as president for his 11th one year term and named Philip S. Graver vice president for his eighth term.

The action was necessary because a vote taken at an earlier meeting brought only two votes for Dunham and two for Graver, each declining to vote for himself in a meeting attended by only three of the five commission members. Afterward it was pointed out that the law requires three votes to elect. Dunham and Graver continued as holdover officers until yesterday's vote.

Henry Schoenstadt, absent at the earlier meeting, was present yesterday and his vote made the officers' election possible, still without their own vote. Stephin I. Witmanski moved for nomination and election of each.

The board authorized sale of 5 million dollars' worth of tax anticipation warrants against 1944 taxes, at 1⅛ per cent interest, and approved expenditure of $25,000 out of an annual $200,000 appropriation for the city's four service men's centers for the period May 1 to July 31. Purchase of six police motorcycles for $2,548, without advertising for bids, also was approved.

Wounded Salvador Leader in Mexico on Way to U. S.

MEXICO CITY, May 23 (AP).—Dr. Arturo Romero, leader of the recent revolution in El Salvador, arrived in Mexico City today, en route to the United States. Dr. Romero said he would remain here two or three days, then seek medical aid in the United States for wounds suffered in the revolt. The revolution, he said, "was against a regime and not against a man."

"FRIENDSHIP trees," George Washington called those which friends gave him for Mount Vernon. The horse-chestnuts were a gift of Col. "Light-Horse Harry" Lee, father of Gen. Robert E. Lee. Thomas Jefferson gave pecan trees, which Washington himself planted. These trees all received Washington's most careful attention and personal supervision.

Friendships THRIVE ON ATTENTION

Just like trees, friendships grow best with care and attention. Neglect them, and they may even die. Remembering your friends with an always-welcome gift of Martha Washington's fine candies is one of the nicest ways to let them know you are thinking of them. And the old-fashioned goodness of these famous candies will be more of a treat than ever these days, when the war makes so many good things difficult to obtain.

REVEALS BRITAIN PUTS ARGENTINE TRADE TIE FIRST

U. S. Doing Pressure Job Rightfully England's.

[This is the fourth article in a series by a Tribune reporter who has just returned from a tour of Latin America.]

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON.

The United States' efforts to bring Argentina into active opposition to the axis ignore the fact that Great Britain's superior influence in that Latin American country makes her the logical source of such pressure.

While we are attempting to tell Argentina what she should or should not do, and attracting disfavor for our pains, Britain is taking care not to place any strain upon her long and valuable trade ties with recalcitrant Argentina.

Big Investor in Argentina.

British influence in the big pampas country is in direct relation to her investments there. Britain's investment in that country in 1943 was 1⅛ billion dollars, as compared with the United States' 311 million, and the rest of Europe's 900 million. Thus the United States had only about 11.5 per cent of the foreign investment in Argentina as compared with Britain's 55.5 per cent.

Britain owns the railroads, river transportation, and sea shipping facilities in Argentina. She is the principal agent not only in buying Argentina's exports but in filling that country's needs from all other parts of the world.

Last year Great Britain, acting as the allied nations' sole buyer, contracted to purchase Argentina's entire meat supply up to September, 1944, at the highest prices paid since 1926. The reason for the high price, in the light of Britain's record as a close bargainer and the fact that no one else bid or was in a position to transport the produce, is a matter of some speculation.

Keeps Out of Dispute.

It was to refrain from disturbing Britain's influence in any way, some Argentines believe, that Britain did not issue a note jointly with the United States when our state department withheld recognition of the new regime of Gen. Edelmiro Farrell in an effort to bring Argentina into a solid Pan-American front against the axis.

Lagging several days behind Washington's instructions to Ambassador Norman Armour at Buenos Aires to "refrain from entering official relations" with the new Argentine administration, British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden announced that Britain felt similarly about the matter. A statement on the subject Eden made in the house of commons came still later.

The result was that Argentines, in discussing the actions of the two big countries, observed that: "Our friends, the British, do not desire to take steps against us but, being allies, they have to follow Washington."

Study Argentina's Needs.

That the United Kingdom anticipates no trouble from the Argentine army group is indicated by the dispatch from England last September of a powerful business delegation whose members announced, upon their arrival at Buenos Aires, that they would study requirements of shipping, railroads, and other industries in contemplation of the greatly expanded trade they expected Argentina would enjoy with Europe in future years.

In the last year before the United States entered the war—1940—Argentina's exports were divided as follows:

Great Britain	36.4 per cent
Continental Europe	24.5
United States	17.5
Rest of world	21.5

The British colony in Argentina, several generations old, now numbers more than 70,000 as compared with fewer than 2,500 United States nationals in that country. The size of the British colony is sufficient to support the publishing of two English language newspapers, which also serve as efficient outlets for British propaganda brought to Argentina by Reuters. This British news service is considered a mouthpiece of the British foreign office. It is subsidized by the British government.

Nullified Trade Pact.

Indicating the shallowness of United States influence in Argentina and that the lower South American country looks to Europe for its business is the fact that the ink had hardly dried on our state department's "favored nations" trade agreement with Argentina several years ago before that country nullified the pact's effect in dealing with her "good neighbor" to the north.

The regime then in power restored discrimination against the United States by the simple expedient of giving the pesos—Argentina's monetary unit—a different value, dependent upon whether Argentines are buying or selling.

For the sale by Argentines of grain and grain products to the United States, the value of the peso is fixed at 3.3582 for each United States dollar. But the peso's buying power is lowered to 4.55 pesos a dollar in the purchase of automobiles, refrigerators, and various electrical goods, which are the United States' chief exports to Argentina.

In free trade the value of the pesos now is approximately four for one United States dollar. The effect of the changing values is to limit Argentina's purchases from the United States, its supposed good neighbor and friend.

FIND KIDNAPER OF GIRL GUILTY; GETS 10 YEARS

Charles Lapa.

A Criminal court jury of nine women and three men required only 45 minutes yesterday to find Charles Lapa, 34, an ex-convict, guilty of abducting a 5 year old girl, and to fix his punishment at 10 years' imprisonment.

Assistant State's Atty. Alex Napoli asked the jury for a life sentence. The 10 year penalty apparently was not unwelcome to the defense, for Lapa's lawyer, Thaddeus Toudor, said it would be a "vain gesture" to argue for a new trial. When bailiffs started to lead Lapa away, Toudor called, "Bring him back and sentence him." Judge Daniel P. Trude promptly imposed the 10 year jury sentence.

Lapa kidnaped the child March 24. He was traced soon afterward thru his automobile license. He did not testify. His wife and two young sons testified that he was drunk the day of the crime. Lapa faces trial June 21 on a charge of raping the child. His home is at 220 W. 113th st.

BANKER ASSERTS TRACTION PLAN IS CONFISCATION

Current plans for reorganization and consolidation of the Chicago Surface Lines and the elevated system were described yesterday by A. W. Harris, veteran banker, as moves to "confiscate" the properties of the surface lines.

Harris, who for 17 years has been active in protecting the rights of the owners of 72 million dollars of bonds of the lines, said that his information came from news reports which "no doubt reflect the attitude of the city and the [federal] District court" and added:

"It would seem that newspaper articles published in March, 1942, were quite prophetic. The final chapter of confiscation of these properties by forced merger, which was predicted then, is now being proposed."

The city has on foot a municipal ownership plan, under which the surface lines would receive 75 millions for its assets, including 27½ millions of cash, and would go into unification with the "L," on which a tentative 11 million dollar price has been set.

Judge Igoe of federal District court, who controls the lines in a receivership that is 17 years old, ordered that the bondholders consider a plan that would capitalize a merged company.

The first mortgage bonds have paid interest regularly for 37 years at 5 per cent. Judge Igoe threatened that he would throw the company into bankruptcy and cut off the interest payments if the security holders did not coöperate in a unification plan.

PERON MAY BE VICE PRESIDENT OF ARGENTINA

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, May 23 (AP).—The newspaper El Tiempo today said Col. Juan Peron, war minister and secretary of labor welfare in the Argentine government, will be named vice president tomorrow. The post has been vacant since Gen. Edelmiro Farrell became president of Argentina last February on the resignation of former President Pedro Ramirez.

All America Cables and Radio Co. said the Argentine government had canceled a decree suspending the company's operations for 24 hours, after the company explained the situation which provoked the suspension order.

It was understood here that the original decree was issued because All America delivered to President Edelmiro Farrell a cable from Mexico which was considered insulting to the president.

May 23, 1944.

A LITTLE house wren with big ideas is amusing everybody on the Wheaton farm. When this perky little bird went looking for a nesting site she paid no attention to the half dozen wren houses suspended from trees in the farm yards. She evidently wanted something on a grand scale, with hot and cold running water, plenty of windows, and furnace heat. Like so many individuals with definite ideas, she succeeded in finding just the spot she wanted—in the farm greenhouse.

Her nest is above a water pipe in the wall between the greenhouse and the connecting tool room. When she wants to go home, she doesn't bother about any three-quarter inch entrances, but flies right thru the greenhouse door; and the weather shouldn't worry her the least bit, because the gardener keeps the greenhouse thermometer at a moderate temperature regardless of spring chills or summer heat.

Rent Free for Mrs. Wren.

In addition to having all the modern conveniences at her disposal, this uppity wren doesn't have to worry about the rent ceiling. She should be a satisfied tenant.

There is no shortage of wildflowers and tree blossoms on the farms at this time of the year, but one of the most beautiful large trees on the Wheaton farm failed to flower this season. It is the horse chestnut that stands on the lawn of a farm home. Each May, customarily, this and other horse chestnut trees provide white candelabrum blossoms, some 10 to 12 inches high. These trees are in bloom now in the west suburbs, and there are many outstanding specimens in the Morton arboretum at Lisle, Du Page county.

Horse Chestnut Ailing.

The horse chestnut on the Wheaton farm apparently is affected with leaf blotch. The blossoms failed to appear, some of leaves have fallen, and leaves that remain are flecked with white. A series of sprays with bordeaux mixture may be necessary to prevent spread of this fungus disease.

★ The GARDEN ★

[This is the third of a series of articles on tomato culture.]

SOME gardeners believe that when transplanting tomato plants it is advisable to put six to 10 inches of the stem below ground with the roots, having the idea that this will give the plants extra anchorage and additional root growth.

Such deep planting slows the plants in starting growth, especially if any lower leaves are removed or buried in the process. It is advisable to put the plants in the ground about three inches deeper than they grew in the greenhouse pots or flats, but no deeper.

A deep, mellow seed bed should be prepared, then a planting hole eight to 10 inches deep should be made. Place three to five inches of loose top soil back in the hole before setting the plant. Press fine soil tightly around the roots and stem, then water liberally. A discussion of distances between plants will be published here tomorrow.

BRIDGES INSISTS ROOSEVELT TELL WAR AIMS NOW

Break Silence, He Says in Senate Speech.

thru horn rimmed spectacles, went on with his grave indictment.

He told of Mr. Roosevelt's announcements on the "four freedoms," told of the lofty ideals of the Atlantic Charter. But, Bridges said:

"Since Teheran, all these things have changed. President Roosevelt, the American people have a great admiration for any people who resist any and every aggressor, and our great and powerful ally, Russia, has superbly defended her soil and her very life. But let me remind you that the American people have not changed their minds about dictatorships. . . .

"We Americans still prefer, above everything else, the American way of life, and we openly disavow communism or communist nationalism. . . .

"The American people have not gone into this struggle for the purpose of turning over Europe to the control of any nation or group of nations, much less to substitute the terrors of one dictatorship for another."

Attacking Stalin directly, then, Bridges said the American people had not entered their present military alliances to have their principles dictated by either a prime minister or a dictator.

Cites Breaches of Past.

"With great dismay," he said, "we have observed the attacks upon the Atlantic Charter, the bold denials of this and that principle, and the reservations heaped one on the other.

"Mr. Stalin, immediately following the Moscow conference, launched a series of independent acts, every one of which was a violation of the principle of collaboration upon which he had agreed.

"First came the mutual assistance pact with the Czecho-Slovak government in exile. Then came the Kharkov trials. Then, in rapid succession, came the entry of Russian troops into Poland without any statement that they came as liberators and not as conquerors; Pravda's rebuff of Mr. Willkie; the rejection of our good offices in settling the Polish dispute; the Pravda report of a separate peace negotiation between Britain and Germany; the unprovoked attack on the Vatican; the change in the Russian constitution which established 16 constituent republics including the Balkan states; the recognition of Badoglio, and the demand for units of the Italian fleet, with every act straining the relations between the 'Big Four' powers."

Notes Churchill's Accord.

On Feb. 23, Bridges said, Churchill announced complete accord with Stalin's views on Poland. On April 3, Bridges went on, Secretary of State Hull hailed the Atlantic Charter as charting the course in establishing world security and preventing aggression, but added:

"The charter certainly does not prevent any steps, including those relating to enemy states, necessary to achieve those objectives."

"Does that mean, President Roosevelt," Bridges demanded, "that you have completely lost the initiative in Europe? Is that why you have permitted these attacks upon the very document which you helped to create to go unchallenged? Is that why you no longer talk about a peace which shall endure?"

Peace for Generation.

Bridges read from press reports that Mr. Roosevelt has said allied conferences were prompted by the general hope that another war could be prevented in the life time of the present generation. Bridges read from another article saying that both Stalin and Mr. Roosevelt are now planning for a peace which will last a generation.

"Does this mean, President Roosevelt," Bridges shouted, "that you, the President of the mightiest and most glorious nation ever to grace the earth, have been compelled to compromise the ideal of an enduring peace? There must be some mistake. . . . Let us hear you proclaim again that our highest motives, our noblest designs, are all for a peaceful world, where the 'four freedoms' shall be secured to each and every nation? . . .

"President Roosevelt, your continuing silence will give substance to our deepening fears that you have already surrendered our right to speak for ourselves; that you are no longer free to herald our ideals. Must we, as a free people, as a sovereign nation, wait upon the rulers of empires and certain totalitarian states for the opportunity and the occasion to reiterate our own ideals? Are we no longer free to speak for ourselves in moral matters?"

Pledges Free America.

Bridges pledged that America is determined to emerge from the war a free people, but warned:

"President Roosevelt, your silence in our behalf is precipitating greater and greater uneasiness and misgiving. Your silence has become embarrassing and humiliating. Mr. Stalin speaks and you are silent. Mr. Churchill speaks and you are silent. Gen. Smuts speaks and you are silent. Mr. Fraser and Mr. Curtin speak and you are silent.

"These men are speaking in such a manner that with every passing day the prospects of an enduring peace become more and more remote. Are you acquiescing in these rampaging demands, which will surely scuttle any peace if left unchallenged?

No Security in Policy.

"We know that Mr. Hull's announcement of American foreign policy will never secure the kind of peace we seek if it rests upon unity at any price with any nation, or clique of nations.

"We know that your risking our whole future and the future of the post-war world on the good will of Mr. Stalin will never be accepted by the American people as their only safeguard against war and the threat of war."

Sparing neither Russia nor Britain, Bridges continued:

"In all this welter of uncertainty, the people of the United States are convinced that any attempt to corner control of the international organization, about which we have heard so much talk, is doomed to failure at the outset if appeasement of a lawless and ostracized totalitarian state is made the cornerstone of such a policy. It is no longer ago than Dec. 13, 1939, that the league of nations expelled Russia for her unprovoked attack upon Finland.

Can't Reconcile Conditions.

"How can the American people be led to reconcile their ideal of a post-war world wherein the 'four freedoms' shall prevail with what their own [former] undersecretary of state, Mr. Welles, described as the 'predatory activities' of a nation which in 1939-'40 attacked five separate independent states in direct violation of her sworn treaty obligation, and whose subsequent policies have caused fear and trembling around the world?

"And there is no greater hope in an alliance with an empire which frankly confesses that its main concern for the outcome of this war is its own survival, come what may."

Urging President Roosevelt to tell the American people what he is planning, Bridges demanded:

"What are our peace aims, Mr. President, and do they bode good or ill? Do they promise hope to a suffering and grief-stricken world? Do they seek to inspire confidence in the future?

"Are they universal in application, binding upon us all, permitting no exceptions or reservations, tainted with no selfish or ulterior motives?

Bred a Monster?

"Or are they a patchwork of unprecedented and unpredicted necessities which will merely postpone the final issue of war itself to the not too far distant future?

"Why don't you take us into your confidence, Mr. President?

"Is it because you wish to overwhelm us with joy when you suddenly pull a patchwork peace settlement out of your hat? Or is it because the monster which you helped breed has broken its leash and is now at large?"

Bridges cited his own record as evidence that the questions he was raising were born of deep devotion to America. He said:

"From that day in March, 1937, when I, together with five of my colleagues, voted against enactment of the neutrality act, down to the present hour, I have vigorously supported every measure which would guarantee the safety of American ideals and the American way of life."

Bridges said he stood on that record in asking Mr. Roosevelt to proclaim his ideals again to the world.

"Now Is the Time."

"Now is the time," Bridges commented, "to reach an effective understanding with our allies concerning the ultimate peace aims which guide our common efforts toward winning this war. Now is the time to reach such a common goal.

"When the last blistering bomb has burst, there is little hope that what we could not attain and effect under the strain and incentive of a common fellowship in a common cause could ever be realized thru the cold and calculating concern of nations turned in upon themselves, brooding while they lick their wounds.

"President Roosevelt, I urge you to proclaim to the world a statement of peace aims which are in keeping with the universal principles of the Atlantic Charter and expressed in its plain and unmistakable language.

Warns Against Delay.

"Now," the senator continued, "while millions of our own men and women crouch in tense anticipation of the word which will plunge the human race into the most titanic and brutal battle of all time; now, when every nerve is strained to catch the first syllable of what will be for many of our men the last command they shall ever obey; now, President Roosevelt, while the American people, whose servant and leader you profess to be, are gathering themselves against the mighty shock of such a battle, lift up your voice in a clarion call proclaiming to the world that America has taken the moral leadership of humanity into its heart and hands.

"President Roosevelt, now is the time. This is the hour. Tomorrow may be too late."

QUISLINGS CHARGE RUSSIANS DEMAND A FREE HAND IN NORWAY

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 23.—The recent agreement between Norway and the allies regarding civil administration of that country after its liberation from the Nazis has been seized upon by the Quisling government in an effort to drive a wedge between the Norwegian people and their exiled king and government.

The fact that Russia was a signatory together with Britain and the United States is held up by the collaborationist press as evidence that the soviets have forced the western powers to give Russia a free hand in Norway. It has been suggested that northern Norway as far south as Narvik has been ceded to Russia.

King Haakon and his government in London have been denounced as traitors.

McSwain, and Theron Wright were elected to three year directorships.

NYE ASKS PROBE OF CIO ACTIVITY IN CAMPAIGNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Investigation of the congressional campaign activities of the CIO political action committee was demanded today by Sen. Nye [R., N. D.] in a telegram to the senate campaign expenditures committee.

The senate committee met today to consider charges by Sen. Langer [R., N. D.] that excessive sums had been contributed by eastern interests for Nye's campaign for renomination. Nye is opposed by Rep. Burdick [R., N. D.], Langer's political protege.

In his telegram, sent to Sen. Green [D., R. I.], chairman of the senate campaign committee, Nye said he had heard about Langer's charges and that he had no objection to an inquiry, but wanted the committee also to consider CIO activities.

CHICAGO FIRMS GIVEN QUOTAS TO MAKE FLATIRONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Seven manufacturers, four of them in Chicago and all of them in group one labor areas where the labor situation is rated critical, have been issued production quotas for the manufacture of 157,100 electric flatirons, the war production board announced today.

Man power restrictions on resumption of civilian production in the areas were waived because none of the plants will employ more than 100 persons in making irons.

The Chicago companies and the number of irons each will manufacture follow: Gilson Electric Manufacturing company, 5,000; National Stamping and Electric works, 8,800; Lawrence M. Stein company, 1,000, and Waage Manufacturing company, 4,800.

SIMPLIFIED TAX MEASURE IS SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—The streamlined income tax bill, designed to bring about "taxation without irritation" for 50,000,000 persons, was approved finally by congress today and sent to the White House.

The measure passed unanimously in both houses—the first time in the memory of lawmakers that a major tax bill has received such emphatic approval. It went to the President after the house accepted technical senate changes.

The legislation reshuffles the entire income tax structure, repealing the war time "Victory" tax and setting up new normal and surtax rates and exemptions—while keeping actual tax burdens at substantially their present levels for most people.

SEE MOSCOW O.K. FOR NEW PATRIOT RULE IN POLAND

ʼro-Russian Council Meets in Capital.

LONDON, May 24 [Wednesday].—The pro-Russian national council of Poland has sent representatives to Moscow from German-occupied Polish territory, the Moscow radio announced today, raising the possibility that the soviet union may recognize the council as the legal government of Poland.

The wording of the announcement broadcast under sponsorship of the union of Polish patriots in the soviet capital suggested that the U. S. S. R. had given up virtually all hope of conciliation with the exiled Polish government in London.

"In conditions which had arisen in Poland under the bloody yoke of the German invaders it has become necessary to set up a center which would organize the struggle against the Germans and which would coordinate all the efforts of the Polish people in the cause of liberation of their motherland from the invaders," the broadcast said.

Form People's Army.

It was announced that the national council at its first meeting had decided to form a united people's army [Lyudoviu Armiu] by merging all guerrilla groups, armed detachments and military formations fighting the Nazi invaders.

The broadcast said the representatives of the council came to Moscow to establish contact with the U. S. S. R. and other allied governments. It said "the national council of Poland was formed Jan. 1, 1944, in Warsaw by democratic parties and groups which are fighting against the German invaders."

Lists Council Groups.

Included in the national council, the statement said, are representatives of the following political parties and social groups:

"The oppositional section of the Peasant party, the Polish Socialist party, the Polish workers, the committee of national initiative, a group of nonparty democrats of an illegal professional movement, the Union of Young Fighters—'Valki Mlodykh,' groups of writers, coöperators, intellectual workers, artisans and representatives of illegal military organizations—the people's guards, the people's militia, peasant battalions, and a number of representatives of local military formations of the regional army, 'the army of Sosnkowski,' and several others."

The statement declared "that all hopes which the Polish people had in the emigre government in London have been shattered."

Claim Patroits Shot.

"The emigre government," it continued, "has not only not struggled against the invaders and has not only called upon the people to be inactive, but it came out against the Polish patriots who fought against the Hitlerites—not even stopping at the brutal annihilation of guerrilla detachments and the cunning murders of individual leaders and activists who were fighting for the national liberation of Poland.

"In the final analysis the activities of the emigre government and its 'delegates' played into the hands of the invaders and weakened the political position of Poland, undermining its friendly relations with the united nations."

COUNCIL FUNCTIONING.

The soviet sponsored union of Polish patroits announced Feb. 12 that a national council inside Poland already was functioning. It was called "a step toward consolidation of all national elements inside Poland." The union is headed by Wanda Wasilewska, whose husband is Alexander Korneichuk, foreign affairs commissar of the soviet Ukraine.

HINT STALIN BACK OF PLOT AGAINST ARMY'S RECORDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—A secretly appointed subcommittee will report to the senate military affairs committee tomorrow on the move—assertedly nipped in the bud—to destroy the army's records of investigations into alleged subversive and communistic activities of its military and civilian personnel.

Members of the subcommittee, it was learned, have had information from several sources that destruction of the records was asked by Dictator Stalin of Russia. Tho no comment was forthcoming on this angle, it was established that the subcommittee has been studying it.

While congress waited for the subcommittee's report, members of both houses said that preventing the destruction of the records was a major accomplishment. They added that the order itself, coming when it did, was of far reaching significance.

Uncovered by Bridges.

The plan to destroy the records was uncovered by Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.], who spent the week-end investigating. As a result, members of congress said the records have reappeared in the war department files after a mysterious disappearance.

The activities of the subcommittee are wrapped in silence, but it was established that Sen. Bridges is its chairman. Other members are Senators Chandler [D., Ky] and O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.].

It is understood that the subcommittee has obtained satisfactory assurances in conferences with war department officials that the records will be preserved.

Stimson Unaware of Move.

The committee is said to have been told that the order to destroy the records was issued by a high ranking general without the knowledge of Secretary of War Stimson.

Members of congress said today that the order actually was sent out over the name of Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff. Since Chief of Staff Marshall, like Stimson, is said to have had no knowledge of the order, there was lively speculation that the plan was not that of McNarney. Considerable conjecture took place as to who originally inspired the move.

As members of both houses demanded that the motive behind the order be determined, it appeared certain that the lid of secrecy would be blown off. There has been so much demand for a public inquiry that it was believed the situation would prove too hot for the committee to tackle behind closed doors.

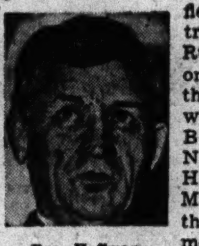
GETS YEAR FOR STABBING.

Manuel Torrez, 18, of 1012 Newberry av., was sentenced to one year in the county jail yesterday by Judge Harry P. Beam in the Boys' court on a charge of stabbing Charles Holder, 39, of 2252 Orchard st., during a robbery in front of 718 S. Halsted st., May 18.

TRANSFER OF U. S. FLEET UNITS TO RUSSIA CHARGED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Reports that units of the American fleet have been transferred to Russia exploded on both sides of the capitol today when Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.] and Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.] denounced the suspected move to strengthen soviet naval forces at the expense of the United States.



Rep. Hoffman.

Bridges told the senate information had come to him that "one or more" American naval vessels had been transferred to Russia, including one cruiser. Hoffman said the cruiser was reported to be the Milwaukee.

Hoffman attacked the reported transfer as an unwarranted weakening of the American navy during the war and demanded to know whether the vessels were turned over to the soviets with American crews.

Opposes Gifts of Ships.

"I am not disposed to criticize our making war materials available to our allies, but I am opposed to giving away naval vessels," Hoffman declared in a house speech. "I especially want to know if any of our men went with the ships and are going to fight under Russian command."

Rep. Hebert [D., La.], a member of the house naval affairs committee, interrupted Hoffman to say he had conferred with Navy Secretary Forrestal this afternoon and that Forrestal had told him no ships had been transferred to Russia.

Hoffman replied that he did not question Hebert's word, but asserted statements by government officials were not always accurate.

"I am thinking specifically of reports of our losses at Pearl Harbor, which at first were denied and later verified when the official facts were revealed," Hoffman said.

On Washington Tongues.

Bridges said he had tried unsuccessfully to verify the reported transfer, which has been a topic of conversation in Washington for three days.

"The American congress and the people of the United States are entitled to know the facts," Bridges asserted in his senate speech. "It is typical of the administration to allow suspicion to breed."

Bridges said he had been warned not to make his senate speech reporting the transfer and that individuals he did not care to name had brought pressure to bear on him to prevent the revelation.

"The United States is engaged in a death struggle with Japan," Bridges said, "yet Japan and Russia are at peace. In fact, they have signed a five year nonaggression pact which will not expire until April, 1946. We will need every vessel in our navy to fight our war with Japan."

NAVY'S 'FISH-EYE' CAMERA DEPICTS SUBMARINE WAR

Rochester, N. Y., May 23 (AP).—The navy today permitted disclosure of a hitherto secret camera by which steady and accurate "fish-eye" pictures may be taken thru the periscope of a submerged submarine.

The camera provides a picture record of hits and sinkings of enemy shipping by submarines. Both still and moving pictures are possible. There is no focusing or setting of the diaphragm.

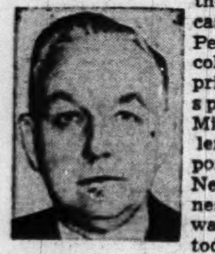
KELLEMS SMEAR BLAMED ON LEAK IN HULL'S OFFICE

Price Tells Probers Who Received Letters.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Byron Price.

Washington, D. C., May 23.—A leak in the state department led to the public broadcasting by Drew Pearson, smear columnist, of the private correspondence of Miss Vivien Kellems of Westport, Conn., anti-New Deal business woman, it was indicated today by Censorship Director Byron Price in testimony before a senate postoffice subcommittee investigating censorship.

Price disclosed for the first time the names of the agencies which received excerpts from Miss Kellems' letters to Frederick Karl von Zedlitz of Buenos Aires, Argentina. These portions of the correspondence, copied by the censor as of possible value to agencies connected with the war effort, were distributed to selected groups.

The state department and the office of strategic services were the only branches of the government that received all six "intercepts" publicized by Pearson on the radio and by Rep. Coffee [D., Wash.] in a house speech March 31. The OSS is a secret agency under the direction of the joint chiefs of staff.

Hints at State Department.

Price's own opinion of how Pearson obtained confidential "intercepts" came when he told the committee he was without investigators to pursue his own inquiry.

"And I could hardly put the FBI on the state department," he commented.

Pearson has frequently boasted of his state department "pipeline" despite the fact that Secretary of State Hull has denounced him as the author of "monstrous falsehoods."

The federal bureau of investigation, the office of economic warfare, the foreign funds control agency, and the coördinator of inter-American affairs received from one to three of the six intercepts, Price said. The British censorship received copies of all six under a reciprocal arrangement, he added.

All Deny Leak.

All the agencies were asked to make "urgent and unsparing inquiry" among their own personnel regarding the leak, Price said, but he received only denials of leaks and assurances that all intercepts were handled under a secrecy pledge given to the office of censorship. He expressed the hope that the committee would pin the responsibility where it belonged.

While the committee, headed by Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.], indicated a disposition to exonerate the censorship division, Price was subjected to some sarcastic questioning concerning the selection of excerpts.

"Is the phrase 'My darling boy' seditious?" asked Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.]. His reference was to Pearson's radio broadcasting of one of Miss Kellems' missives in which she saluted Zedlitz in this manner and signed herself "All my love, sweetheart, Vivien."

Brands Zedlitz Enemy.

"Zedlitz was an enemy, a German, who so far as I know, has never forsworn his allegiance to Germany," said Price. "It is my obligation to turn over every scrap of information which may be of value, not to judge whether anything is seditious."

"Maybe the phrase had a code meaning," suggested Sen. McKellar.

"A universal code, isn't it?" remarked Sen. Reed [R., Kas.].

Reed asked Price to investigate a complaint forwarded to him by the American Home Products corporation of New York City that private business agreements contained in correspondence sent to Mexico, which would be of value to business competitors, had been circularized among government agencies by the office of censorship.

Pearson Double Offender.

Price said he knew of only three instances in which the censorship intercepts, handled in sealed pouches and plainly marked secret and confidential, had been aired publicly. In two of these cases, Pearson was the offender, he said. In the third, the senate judiciary committee obtained copies.

The committee indicated it would eventually recommend legislation making it a crime to publicize such documents. It asked Price to instruct his legal department to prepare a bill for consideration.

Price said he had no doubt that Pearson obtained the excerpts from some government agency which had received them from the office of censorship. He based that opinion, he said, on the similarity of phraseology used by censorship and repeated by Pearson and by Rep. Coffee.

Could Have Been Filched.

The excerpts delivered to the state department were signed for by George P. Shaw, assistant chief of the division of foreign activity, Price testified. He said that several persons in the same office could have had access to them.

The office of censorship examines daily 1 million pieces of civilian mail entering and leaving the country, Price said, but opens no domestic mail. It does not censor mail to and from soldiers and sailors overseas, that function being performed by the army and navy.

Less than one-tenth of 1 per cent of the mail carries information which is copied, he testified.

"Agencies given the material are required repeatedly to give the most positive assurances that the material will be used only for war purposes," he asserted. "We are constantly narrowing the scope of distribution and we believe we have done everything within our power to protect this information from public disclosure or other abuse."

DEWEY IS INDORSED BY MARYLAND G. O. P. STATE CONVENTION

Baltimore, Md., May 23 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York won the indorsement of Maryland Republicans today as the party's Presidential candidate, altho the state's delegation to the national convention remained uninstructed by mandate of the voters.

The Republican state convention unanimously adopted a resolution recommending to the members of the delegation that they vote to support Dewey in the Chicago convention June 26.

The law requires that the delegation go unpledged because Republican voters so decided in the May 1 preferential primary, in which the only issue was whether the group should be uninstructed or pledged to Wendell L. Willkie.

The convention also presented "to said delegates for their consideration and support . . . for Vice President," Rep. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who keynoted the meeting.

and pledged its delegates to Chicago to "work and vote for" the renomination of President Roosevelt.

It also adopted resolutions blaming the split on alleged arbitrary usurpation of authority by "certain officials" of the state Democratic executive committee. Packing of the convention with delegates who are actually Republicans masquerading as Democrats was charged, and the regular convention was described as "undemocratic in forms and principle and contrary to the sentiments of the Democrats of Texas."

Beaten in Two Tests.

Proof that the convention was controled by Democrats opposed to an instructed Roosevelt delegation came on a test vote shortly after today's session started in the senate chamber. Alvin J. Wirtz, former undersecretary of the interior, sought to amend the executive committee's report by substituting James V. Allred, former governor and Roosevelt favorite, for Moody as the convention's temporary chairman.

Wirtz' effort was defeated by a vote of 940 7/12 to 774 5/12.

A short time later another test came on a proposal by Wirtz that no Presidential elector be named unless he first took a pledge to cast his vote for the Democratic nominee. This amendment failed, 951 5/12 to 695 7/12.

Announcement of this vote was the signal for an uproar. Mrs. Alfred Taylor of Austin mounted the senate rostrum and called upon "every true Democrat in this hall to follow me across the capitol to the house of representatives."

Meet in House Chamber.

The bolting Roosevelt supporters held a caucus in the house chamber with Rep. Lyndon Johnson [D., Tex.] pleading against hasty action and urging further efforts at a compromise.

Later in the afternoon, when it became apparent the regular convention had no thought of reconsideration, the bolters adopted a motion by Wirtz to establish themselves as a separate convention.

Mayor Tom Miller of Austin was elected temporary chairman and Woodvale Rogers, San Antonio attorney, was named secretary.

Among resolutions adopted by the regular convention were measures condemning strikes by employers and employes, opposing federal legislation to take over any functions of the states, instructing national convention delegates to oppose any proposal to bring about "social equality," disapproving the Supreme court decision permitting Negroes to vote in Texas primaries, and condemning creation of additional boards, bureaus, and commissions.

DIVIDED REPUBLICANS OF GEORGIA SELECT TWO DELEGATE LISTS

Atlanta, Ga., May 23 (AP).—Georgia's Republican party split today into two organizations, with rival state conventions electing delegates to the June 26 Republican national convention in Chicago.

One group, predominently white, named four uninstructed delegates-at-large—all white. The other group, predominantly Negro, elected 14 delegates—seven white and seven Negro—all instructed for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

The break climaxed a struggle for Republican party control in Georgia, involving possible patronage dispensation in event of a Republican Presidential victory, and disagreement over extent of Negro participation in party affairs.

People are talking about the WAR FICTION in the new Post

Mystery of a Jap Destroyer on the American Side

YOU may swear it isn't fiction—but it is—this blood-tingling story of a Nipponese phantom ship manned by Americans.

She was the Jap destroyer Hokaidokaze—and according to record—the first combat surface ship captured since the Spanish War.

How she came into the hands of a green American crew—and gave the Jap High Command the jitters, blasting Jap transports to kingdom come—is one of the most thrilling stories war has inspired.

To read it is to experience at close range the thrill and the excitement and the emotions of the men who carry naval warfare into the very shadow of the enemy's guns.

BOOMERANG

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Action fiction from a man of action

BILL CHAMBLISS went to sea at the age of four with his father, a sea captain who recently completed a round trip to Murmansk, Russia, at the age of 79.

Lt. Commander William C. Chambliss, author of "Boomerang", is now Aide to Admiral Harry E. Yarnell in Washington.

Those years between his first sea voyage, and now, have been years packed with action. Born 1908—Jersey City. A. B. and LL. B. at Columbia. Naval Aviation at Pensacola, 1929. A year of active duty on the Cruiser Marblehead.

1940 saw him on active duty again—a member of Admiral Halsey's Staff Tactical Unit. He was aboard the "Wasp" at Guadalcanal. He was aboard the "Wasp" when she was sunk in the Coral Sea Battle.

It was to be expected that the first piece of fiction from the pen of Commander Chambliss would be a great story. It is. You feel he has lived what he writes about.

HANNEGAN PUTS FAITH IN F. D. R. FOR FIFTH TERM

Predicts President Will Run This Year.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, yesterday supported a belief that New Dealers envision not only a fourth term but a fifth term for the only President to violate the two term tradition.

In a long press conference at the Stevens hotel convention headquarters, Hannegan was asked whether he would favor Roosevelt for a fifth term if there were another "emergency" in 1948, suposing the President gained a fourth term.

"Yes, in the event there is a comparable emergency and the Republicans again have a candidate of relatively little experience," Hannegan said. "The people would overwhelmingly favor keeping the President in office."

Expects Roosevelt to Run.

Saying he "hopes and believes" that Roosevelt again will be a candidate, Hannegan reported that in his recent travels thru 26 states he has been getting the same answers everywhere: that "they all want Roosevelt for a fourth term."

"We don't talk about the fourth term," Mayor Kelly admonished him. "It's just a question of his being the man the people want."

"Well, I think he will win by an overwhelming majority, both in the convention and election," Hannegan said.

Vice Presidency Open Issue.

He was not so positive about lengthening Vice President Wallace's stay in office. For Vice President, he said he had heard various regional mention of Wallace, Sen. Barkley of Kentucky; Speaker Rayburn of the house, a Texan; Sen. Truman of Missouri, Gov. Broughton of North Carolina; Gov. Kerr of Oklahoma, and National Committeeman Quigley of Nebraska.

"Everything is open," he said.

Kelly Nominates Hannegan.

On the list of convention keynoter possibilities, Hannegan placed Sen. Jackson of Indiana, Sen. Mead of New York, and Sen. Lucas. Sen. Wagner of New York and Gov. Schricker of Indiana were mentioned for permanent chairman. Kelly, the first to support Hannegan for national chairman, interjected that Hannegan would be a good permanent convention chairman.

The mayor said that the Illinois Democratic convention July 3 would adopt a state platform: the national platform. Altho the national convention is not until July 19, the Illinois Democrats will ratify its platform in advance, he said.

Hannegan, when asked about the prospects of Illinois, threw the question to Kelly, who replied: "It's a cinch."

CALDWELL IS VICTOR IN FLORIDA'S RUNOFF POLL FOR GOVERNOR

Jacksonville, Fla., May 24 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Millard Caldwell, 47, of Tallahassee was nominated governor of Florida in yesterday's runoff Democratic primary, unofficial returns showed early today.

Reports from 1,282 of 1,472 precincts gave Caldwell a lead of 31,499 votes over Congressman R. A. [Lex] Green of Starke. The totals were: Caldwell, 184,253; Green, 152,754. Democratic nomination is equivalent to election in Florida.

Reports from 137 of the 166 precincts in the newly created 6th congressional district indicated Dwight L. Rogers, Fort Lauderdale attorney, won the nomination from L. L. Stuckey of Pahokee.

WHERRY TERMS 4TH TERM PERIL TO A FREE U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Warning against a fourth term for President Roosevelt, Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] declared tonight that American freedom "is being jeopardized by the threat of life tenure by those who seek to further their own selfish gains."

Wherry and Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.] opposed a fourth term, while Rep. Outland [D., Cal.] and Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] urged Mr. Roosevelt's reëlection in a radio debate on the American forum of the air.

The Nebraska senator said the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt will assure a return to "government under the Constitution." The fourth termers' concept, he continued, is "the totalitarian philosophy where the people are ruled by the dictatorship of one man, or a so-called elite, or self-perpetuating clique, where the people are slaves of the master government."

CHAPLAIN SAYS NAVY MEN PLAN TO CLEAN HOUSE

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—Capt. Robert D. Workman, chief of navy chaplains, said today at a press conference that navy men overseas expect to "clean house when they get back home," but he added that he expected them to do it in a "democratic way."

Just back from a tour of fighting fronts in the Atlantic and European areas, he made his comment after being asked, "What is the chief gripe among bluejackets?"

"They don't see," he replied, "why people back home have to take vacations, and when I speak of vacations I mean ganging up and all walking out. Strikes are a thing you can't explain to a bluejacket."

LAWYER'S ERRING WIFE SAYS LIND EXTORTED $5,000

Washington, D. C., May 23 [Special].—The blonde and admittedly unfaithful wife of Robert I. Miller, who was sitting beside Dr. John E. Lind when Miller shot and killed him last Feb. 21, came spectacularly to her husband's defense today with testimony that Dr. Lind had been blackmailing her:

Smiling tenderly at the 67 year old husband she had wronged, Mrs. Marguerite Miller, 42, asserted Dr. Lind, 56 year old society psychiatrist, obtained more than $5,000 from her in five years by threatening to tell Miller of their illicit romance.

Lind's Gun in Auto.

With tears welling up frequently in her blue eyes, Mrs. Miller, called as a defense witness in her husband's murder trial, flatly contradicted the state's charge that Miller attempted to "plant" a gun beside Dr. Lind after the shooting to bolster a showing of self-defense.

The revolver encased in a white envelope found on the seat of Dr. Lind's car was not placed there by Miller but was habitually carried there by the physician when he went out with her as protection against "Bob," she said, adding that Dr. Lind reached for the gun before Miller shot.

Tells of Threat to Shoot.

Her version of the shooting was that Miller came up to the car in front of a downtown department store and said, "Marguerite, you get out of this car." When she had entered the car, she said, she had noticed the gun on the seat in its white envelope holster.

Her husband tried to drag her from the car, taking hold of her arm and knee, while Dr. Lind shouted to her to "stay where you are," she testified.

Then she said, Dr. Lind went for his gun, shouting, "I'll shoot that gray headed old —— head off."

It was at this point, Mrs. Miller said, that "Bob shot him twice."

Feared Exposure by Lind.

Mrs. Miller freely admitted she had been "running around" with Dr. Lind for five years, but said the association had been an expensive one for her.

"It was money, money, money all the time," she sighed. "He had a lot of judgments against him, and he owed a lot of people money. When they'd put pressure on him, he'd put pressure on me. He threatened to expose me, to tell Buddy [her pet name for her husband] about us every time he wanted money. He never had any money. I only knew him three weeks when he asked me for $100."

Money Came from Husband.

Under cross-examination by Daniel B. Maher, government prosecutor, her testimony was:

Q.—Where did you get all this money? A.—I got it from my husband. Mr. Miller was always very generous with me. Anything he had, he'd give me.

Q.—And you gave it all to Lind? A.—I sure did, Mr. Maher.

Q.—Did you give it to him by check? A.—No, I gave it to him in cash.

Warned of Lind's Gun.

Mrs. Miller said her husband did not know about her gifts of money to Dr. Lind until she told him after his arrest. She stated, however, that she and Miller had "a terrible fight" over Dr. Lind one night in June, 1943, and that she warned Miller to be careful because Dr. Lind had a gun.

"He asked me to stop seeing Dr. Lind and to stop phoning him," she said. "I was very sassy and ugly to him and I said a lot of things I shouldn't have. Bob carried on terribly. He cried all that night."

Earlier, Defense Atty. H. Mason Welch, in a statement to the jury, described Miller as so overwrought by his love-life problem that he "lit candles in his office, and walked back and forth, his head in his hands, in the attitude of a supplicant, calling upon his God to come down and help him."

Cross-examination of Mrs. Miller will be resumed tomorrow.

THE TEHERAN ISSUE.

None of the participants in the Teheran conference has yet given a satisfactory account of what happened there. A recent series of articles by Mr. Forrest Davis in the Saturday Evening Post seems to present the state department's version of what occurred. He uses a good many columns to say little more than that Mr. Roosevelt wished to avoid any decisions of consequence and meanwhile to keep everybody in reasonably good humor.

Mr. Henning in a recent dispatch from Washington gives it as his informed opinion that the conference did carve Europe into spheres of influence. Britain gets the right to organize western Europe and Russia gets the right to organize eastern and central Europe from the Baltic to the Black sea. When it comes to the occupation of Germany English troops will hold the territory west of the Elbe, and Russia the territory to the east of the river. American soldiers will occupy Bavaria and Austria. Our troops will be expected to remain in these provinces for a number of years.

We do not know what basis Mr. Davis may have had for his statements, but we do know that Mr. Henning's fit the known facts. It is unlikely that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill journeyed half way around the world to engage in idle conversation and speculation. More especially, events since the Teheran meeting have indicated that decisions were reached. Russia is acting as if Stalin had received the green light at Teheran for the permanent occupation of the Baltic states and half of Poland and for hegemony in the Balkans. The British imperial conference has met and Marshal Smuts has had a good deal to say about the organization of Europe. The story of the tripartite occupation of Germany continues to be heard and has never been effectively denied. The behavior of the American Communists in refusing to name a Presidential candidate of their own and in throwing their full support to Mr. Roosevelt indicates that Mr. Stalin got what he wanted.

The Teheran agreement is destined to play an important part—perhaps a determining part—in the Presidential election this year. Of course, if the Republicans are taken into camp this year as they were in Philadelphia four years ago and nominate a candidate whose policies for all practical purposes are indistinguishable from those of Mr. Roosevelt, there can be no Teheran issue. If, however, there is no repetition of the sell-out, the American people will have a chance to defend their national interests and welfare against the schemes of the European intriguers and their American dupes.

Americans who do not wish their sons to remain in an army of occupation overseas for an indefinite term of years are looking to the Republicans to prevent this from happening. Americans who do not wish their country to underwrite an unstable and dishonorable peace from which new wars will inevitably spring are also praying for a Republican candidate and a platform which will permit a choice between alternative foreign policies. Teheran should be an issue in the forthcoming campaign and it will be if the Republicans rise to their opportunity and their duty.

GOVERNMENT AS THE ENEMY.

Government as an enemy of society has reappeared on the world stage. It has greater powers now than it has had in many centuries. Consequently it is making greater demands. The development in armament has made it less resistible. A few colonels can rule any country in South America. The men who control the guns control the people.

We are supposed to have seen what atrocities were the result of the reëmergence of autocracy in Europe, beginning with the Lenin government in Russia, followed by the Fascist government in Italy, and the Nazi government in Germany. In these forms government was recognized as man's greatest enemy. We have no reason to console ourselves that the phenomenon was confined there or that it will disappear with the entry into Berlin.

People in many countries, our own included, invited this enemy to enter. They were deluded. They began to lose faith in free institutions and to look about for a magic which would take nothing from them while increasing their advantages and their security. The fable of the log and the stork never had a better illustration. It is natural at times for people to feel that in collective effort applied to most of their activities they can do better than in what they may come to think is a lawless free-for-all. When they trust themselves to government they forget its innate character. Government is by nature despotic. It changes the character of the men who enter it.

Authority which, to achieve ends considered desirable, has been relieved of checks and extended into all activities becomes intolerant, intolerable, rapacious, quarrelsome, arbitrary, and imperious. It becomes insatiably greedy and robs the land. It performs its work badly because there is profit in waste and not in accomplishment. To preserve itself it suppresses criticism. It blocks the channels of information. It oppresses the mind. It extinguishes free thought and free speech. That is the nature of government, and wise people have always feared its growth.

The era of vast governmental powers is not being put to a test of survival on battlefields now. That's our illusion. The real issue will be raised when the fighting is over.

THIEVES' HAVEN.

A New York housewife called the office of the United States employment service for a part time maid and employed the maid sent to her by the service. The maid worked a short time and then absconded with her employer's purse, containing $18.

The housewife asked the employment service to give her the maid's name and address that she might prosecute the theft. The employment service refused, citing one of its own regulations which provides that the names and addresses of persons registered with it may not be given out. The New York police, to whom the housewife complained, met a similar refusal. The federal bureau of investigation also was refused the information.

This opens a new and fruitful field to the slot machine Democrats in Tammany hall, Hudson county, Chicago, and other metropolitan centers. Each of the pay rollers they install in the local office of the employment service can recruit his own gang of prowlers and sneak thieves. They can be sent to the homes of applicants for domestic servants, and when they make off with the silverware or the grand piano their sponsor in the employment service can cite the regulation to prevent their apprehension. Considering the current shortage of maids, this might easily be developed into a source of campaign revenue second only to maintenance of membership and the CIO slush fund.

The employment service apparently holds that it need merely promulgate a regulation, or get an executive order from the President, to place itself and its employes beyond the operation of state laws. The appearance of the FBI in the case is puzzling. Theft of a purse is not a federal crime. Has the theory arisen that one federal agency is answerable only to another federal agency?

It is the obvious duty of New York authorities to summon the employment service employes before a grand jury and demand that they produce the records that will identify the suspected thief. If they refuse, they should be jailed for contempt of court, as any other recalcitrant witness is jailed. Burocrats must be taught that they are subject to the same laws that govern the common citizens over whom they seek to set themselves.

TAXES AND POLITICS.

Assessor Clark's 100 per cent assessment policy invalidated a large part of the tax rate limitations which over the years have been enacted to keep local governments from overloading the taxpayers.

The restoration of these useful safeguards is simple legally. The leading business and civic organizations of Chicago have formed a joint committee of legislative action, and this group has drafted a series of bills whose general effect will be to limit future tax levies to the sums levied for 1942, regardless of any other statutory permission to levy larger sums. A special session of the legislature was sought to enact these bills.

When the committee approached Gov. Green he indicated that he would not call the session unless Mayor Kelly, as head of the Chicago Democratic machine, agreed to coöperate in the program. Lately the governor has indicated that he will not call the session, asserting that the matters can safely be left for action at the regular session next January.

This the joint legislative committee disputes, pointing out that before action could be taken in the regular session most of the Chicago governments would have passed their 1945 budgets, and in passing them would be free to take advantage of their present statutory powers to gouge the taxpayers.

Members of the committee, at the governor's instance, called on Mayor Kelly and on State Sen. Richard J. Daley, the Democratic leader in the senate. The committee agreed that in the case of the county government the status quo will not be preserved. The county will be given additional revenue and thus escape punishment for the extravagance which made it impossible to operate with the revenue available before Assessor Clark boosted the assessments.

In an open letter to the governor, the committee asserts that the mayor and Sen. Daley have agreed to coöperate with the program of restoring the status quo. This is only part of the truth. There was agreement on the tax limitation bills, but the mayor and his senate leader indicated that if the session is called they will press legislation to have all or part of local governments' present share in the relief burden transferred to the state government. The Democrats have also indicated that they will introduce measures to cut the rate of the sales tax, a proposal which was debated at the last general session and rejected by the legislature.

Neither of these issues is germane to the present problem of restoring the tax levy limitations. Neither has an emergency character such as would qualify it for consideration in a special session. The Democrats, in raising them, are seeking to use the special session for political purposes in the coming campaign.

While Gov. Green, in writing the call for the legislation, might be able to prevent the enactment of such measures, nothing in the call would prevent the Democrats from introducing the unauthorized bills as a basis for campaign propaganda. The only thing that can stop them is for Mayor Kelly, as the leader of the Democratic machine, to pledge that its members in the legislature will stick to the emergency issue, which is tax limitation, and not introduce extraneous matters.

Without such a pledge, Gov. Green cannot be blamed for reluctance to call a special session. He is assured in advance that it would be turned into a political circus. In justice to taxpayers, both in Cook county and downstate, tax limitation legislation should be passed. If it is not passed because of the refusal of the Democratic organization to stick to business, the taxpayers will know where to place the blame.

WHAT KIND OF TREE?

In blossom time a botanical urge comes over this column, and we stir with curiosity about the names, habits, and legends, if any, of the trees that are putting on a good show. After Sundaying at the Morton arboretum, where the vegetation is labeled, we are now on speaking terms with spring's loveliest strip-teaser, the redbud or Judas tree. Most of the year it is inconspicuous, but during a week or two it surprises city dwellers, whose enlightenment in such matters generally extends only to the difference between an elm and a lilac bush.

* * *

The redbud blooms stark naked. Before it puts out a leaf, its branches and twigs become frilled with blossoms whose color ranges from pink to purple. Its massed color effect in sunlight is magenta, a rare tint on the dendrological palette. A blooming redbud has a quality of strangeness. It seems like an exotic, transplanted from some enchanted garden in Xanadu, but the tree belongs to our native landscape and is widely distributed.

* * *

This is a small tree, rising from 25 to 50 feet, and it has a way of seeking the companionship of larger forest growths; hence it often seems shrubby. It has a broad, flat head of angular branches, and its leaves are broadly heart-shaped or oval. In any normal spring it will blossom in April before the leafage of its environment has started.

* * *

The American redbud has a slightly larger cousin in southern Europe and Asia Minor whose flowers, which have an agreeable taste, are mixed in salads or cooked in fritters. From such a tree, according to a Greek legend, Judas Iscariot hanged himself; hence the redbud's second popular name, which is a libel on its charming appearance. There are two other European trees which are supposed to have served as Judas' gallows: The elder, mentioned by Shakespeare, which has excrescences on its bark called Judas' ears, and the marsiglio, mentioned in the romances of Charlemagne's paladins.

IN GRATITUDE.

I am a debtor who can never pay
 For one dawn painted on the eastern sky.
The sunlight in one second any day
 Has golden value I could never buy.
The sight of trillium like a bridal veil
 Trailed thru the woods in early days of spring,
The splendor of the south wind's bugle gale,
 The cheerful song the nesting robins sing,
These are too beautiful for wealth to claim
 Sole ownership. Earth's poorest pilgrim sees
Forsythia branches flaunting golden flame
 And shining miracles on wakened trees.
What debtor's coin could ever fully pay
For one brief moment's loveliness in May?

Pipe Smoke Rings of the Past.

At State and Randolph sts. there is an advertising sign with the picture of a man blowing smoke rings.

I looked at it and the streets ran away into the past, and I with them until we reached the little town of Custer Park, Ill. Just outside the town there was a farmhouse with a huge kitchen, and who do you think was sitting there? "Myself when young" and his big brother. What were we doing? I was sitting on the floor and brother was blowing smoke rings.

They would start out small and grow in size until they were the size of grapefruits. Over my head they would sail, and I would reach for them, but I was too small and they were beyond my little world. It was excellent training for me in later years.

Sometimes the floor would be freshly scrubbed and would still be wet. I can remember that floor so well, full of knots, boards six inches wide, but white as any floor ever had been. There is something about a wet floor that attracts smoke, and brother would direct his smoke rings toward me and they would drift downward and roll across the floor to me. Then was I in my glory, for I would take my thumb and pull it thru the smoke ring.

Brother said when I grew up I could blow smoke rings, too, but here am I, as grown up as I ever shall be, but I can not blow smoke rings.

Ah, well, some day it will rain, Randolph st. will be wet, and . . . why, it is raining, an odd sort of rain, altho the streets are dry, and here comes a big, fat smoke ring rolling down the sidewalk. It passes around me and is gone.

Gone is the smoke ring; gone is the dream; gone is the farmhouse, and gone is the smoker of pipes that I could have sworn I had seen.

DANDELION LOW-DOWN.

O, Madam Dandelion is fair
 And beautiful without a doubt,
But her reputation, I declare,
 Is that of a thief and gadabout.
She and her relatives en masse,
 With their inherent urge to roam,
Call on the charming Mrs. Grass
 And take possession of her home.
Her children go from place to place
 To hoist her conquering banners,
Yes, Madam has a lovely face
 But the most atrocious manners.

Civilization vs. Goose Island.

Forty years ago the special park commission, of which I was secretary-president, included the south end of Goose Island in a report of recommended sites to the city council, but nothing was done about it. That body of public-spirited idealists laid out an athletic field there and built a fieldhouse with some equipment. But the native roughnecks, vandals, and bums who ganged up on Whisky row, the one-sided street, came out of their grog shops at night when the police were off the beat and made a wreck of the place. So the boys from the crowded Division st. district stopped crossing the bridge, the St. Paul railroad reclaimed its property, and the dream ended.

THE COMING OF INSECT HORDES.

It is not too early to talk about the insect problem. Flies and other "varmints" can spread enough disease to destroy the population of the world. Were it not for the enemies which they encounter, they would dominate the earth.

Of course, some species are friendly to man. On the other hand, there are types which can introduce venom, toxins, or parasites directly beneath the skin. Certain creepers, crawlers, and buzzers are equipped with weapons by means of which noxious agents can be added to the circulation. This explains why we regard mosquitoes, flies, ticks, and lice as dangerous to health.

Now, infected saliva or venom in itself may be extremely poisonous. Collapse may ensue from a minor bite because the reaction of the body is so severe. The black widow spider, for example, produces a chemical so potent that its effects are as prostrating as that of the cobra. Less hazardous is a bee sting. In this case the "critter" carries a saber, at the posterior end of the body, with which to make the incision. The results may be violent or relatively mild, depending upon the sensitivity of the victim.

Along with these biting forms, we must not forget burrowing mites, which are responsible for scabies. This little eight legged "beastie" penetrates the epidermis, where it bores a tunnel parallel to the surface. Unless it is routed out, each female will lay 30 or more eggs per month. The young will hatch in from four to six days and will either establish new runways or develop laterals. The intense itching which characterizes their presence is due to the excretions, which are extremely irritating.

It won't be long before we encounter chiggers—tiny, red, spider-like mites. [This is not the chigoe which occurs thruout the tropics.] Such intense inflammation occurs in the neighborhood of the "nip" that the cuticle is usually broken by scratching, thus introducing pus forming germs.

Our chief concern will soon be the ordinary house fly [Musca domestica]. It conveys to our food, clothing, hands—anything it touches—all the filth that exists in the neighborhood perhaps for many blocks around. It loves garbage and manure and will carry on its legs, mouth, and wings everything that it contacts including millions of microbes. We know that it can transport typhoid, dysentery, cholera, and a score of other microbes. One fly can transform a perfectly clean and sanitary working kitchen into a hotbed for the propagation of disease. Sight is not keen enough to identify their tracks. If bacteria were as large as marbles and were colored red, there would be a trail of scarlet globules thruout the room.

The time to prepare against pollution of food is before the hordes arrive and we may well look to the screening of windows and doors, the stopping of all inlets, and the elimination of breeding places. It is easier to keep them out than to drive them away. But the battle must be sustained, particularly if young children are about. The momentary pause of one of these winged carriers on a moist teaspoon, which is then placed in the mouth, may be responsible for the onset of diarrhea.

Every one about the home must be an expert swatter. Liquid poisons are no longer utilized widely. There is too much risk for our little ones. But, whatever the method employed, it must be effective.

SKIN BEHIND EARS.

C. W. writes: What causes scales to form in back of the ears?

REPLY.

This may be psoriasis altho impetigo should be thought of. Consult a skilled dermatologist. Sometimes individuals are sensitive to the materials used in the manufacture of frames for spectacles. In such instances an eruption will be followed by scaling.

FLUID NEEDS.

D. Y. writes: How much fluids should be taken daily?

REPLY.

The amount varies from 2½ to 5 quarts, depending upon activity and climate. We must not forget, however, that water is contained in all food substances. Edibles which are more than 70 per cent water include asparagus, berries, eggs, veal, etc.

NOSE DISEASE.

P. R. writes: Is ozena related in any way to allergy?

REPLY.

No. It is essentially an atrophy of the mucous membrane within the airways, due to infection. The curious and helpful role of female sex hormones in the treatment of this ailment is not understood.

BONE DISORDER.

D. P. writes: Is osteomalacia the same as rickets?

REPLY.

Sort of. This condition is usually seen in adults. The bones soften because calcium-phosphorus metabolism is below par. Pain, weakness, and increasing flexibility lead to deformities.

SIZE OF INTESTINE.

C. M. writes: How long is the alimentary canal?

REPLY.

Approximately 25 feet.

Thru a Glass Darkly.

That was an intriguing little news item early this month that told of the unveiling of a stained glass window in a little church in the Midlands of England. Conflicting stories are told of the window's origin. Some say it was given by American troops stationed in that area. Some say it was not. Nonetheless, it was a startling departure in the treatment of stained glass for religious purposes, for the only angel in it was one blowing the Atlantic Charter thru its long, heraldic horn. From beneath the angel's snowy vestments protruded the snouts of three eight inch battleship guns, and beneath the snouts sit, strange inhabitants of a stained glass church window, Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill. Mr. Churchill is clutching a cigar butt in one plump hand.

It's none of our business, of course, and we probably will never make a pilgrimage to the Midlands to see the window, but we had a vague idea that the only persons to be glorified in stained glass were those who already had joined the celestial host and so were entitled to put a St. [not for street] before their names. In 82 years' study of stained glass windows we have never before encountered any in which a business suit of 1941 cut, complete with cuffs and a four-in-hand, seemed the appropriate dress, nor armchairs the appropriate resting place—the stained glass occupants of our acquaintance disdain chairs; they float on their own power—but styles apparently are changing.

Still, change is always exciting, and now that St. Andrew's in the Midlands has opened the door, churches in the United States can be brightened considerably. Away with moss violets, lilies, halos, and little bluebirds flying up into the great unknown. Away with radiant martyrs and opened graves. Away with all these reminders of life eternal. Let us brighten our worship with side glances at stained glass depictions of those who brighten our lives here on earth.

Before starting on suitable suggestions, this department wishes to say no thought will be given to glassing up Mrs. Roosevelt with a Maori. Her family is already taken care of. Nor will Sewell Avery be depicted with a halo sitting like a fakir on a bed of bayonets. Neither halos nor martyrdom have any place in the new window crop. And don't suggest a dollar sign because some mischievous architect worked that into the portal of a Fifth avenue Episcopal church some years ago and almost lost his contract fee because of it.

Our suggestions deal with modern benefactors. Consider Mae West. She gave her name to a lifesaver. St. Mae not only would increase the ranks of church-goers, but she would fill a window with no trouble, and no angels need be worked in to close up the gaps. Then there is Harold Ickes, the modern exemplification of the beatitude, "Blessed are the meek." His high offices and kind deeds are so varied that they will provide a gay window full of galloping Indians, spouting oil, eggs, and, of course, St. Ickes, wearing a beatific smile rather than that look of noble pain he wears on the street.

Then there is St. Ruml, that thoughtful soul who first dreamed up the pay-as-you-go plan. He can be portrayed floating on clouds of cunning, simple income tax blanks. And St. No-Name, the anonymous benefactor who invented those red and blue rationing tokens that no one loses. And St. Mme. Perkins, the lady in the tricorne, who saw to it that the United States went thru World War II. without a single labor strike. And St. . . . O, dear, that's the trouble. Once you get this thing started you get into dreadful messes, as a gentleman named William Jennings Bryan once learned. You've forgotten Mr. Bryan's stained glass window? Mr. Bryan tried very hard to forget. Col. Jim Guffey, Lucky Jim of Standard Oil, gave it to him as a token of love and esteem back in 1905 for his Fairview, Neb., home, and no one learned about it until 1908, but that was one reason Mr. Bryan never had a Pres. before his name or stained glass made into his face.

ROOSEVELT "REPUBLICANS."

Chicago, May 21.—When Earl Browder made a motion to disband the Communist party he said there are Republicans for Roosevelt clubs springing up all over the country. To date, I have never heard of them, but you can be sure there will be some. A great deal of money will be spent to put them over. That money will come out of the CIO political slush fund. The clubs will be formed and filled with the Communists who have dropped their party name until after the November election. MRS. W. H.

NO CARBON COPIES WANTED.

Lake Bluff, Ill., May 18.—It is time the Republican leadership realizes the growing objections to Gov. Dewey's candidacy. The satisfaction expressed by the Democrats in having him as the opponent is so marked that that in itself should be sufficient warning. The internationalists have accepted the New York governor.

The Republicans are going to lose in November unless they present a new program and sell it to the people. Any candidate who is a copy of the President is doomed to failure. Mr. Willkie's mantle has fallen to Gov. Dewey, whose Anglo-American alliance speech a year ago definitely renders him unacceptable to a great number of Republican voters. The Democrats could carry several of the large normally Republican states if the Republican candidate carries the blight of European approval, as Mr. Dewey evidently does.

The prospect of two favorite sons and governors of New York, one from Hyde Park and the other from Tuxedo Park, as candidates of the two major parties does not sit well. The New Deal has a New York President at the helm and four New York cabinet members. We want a real change or we don't vote at all.

TURNABOUT?

Chicago, May 17.—Now I read that some 60,000 union strikers in Detroit—doing not unessential but strictly essential war work—have opposed the government and have war production tied up.

Here is Roosevelt's chance to be consistent. Let him send in the soldiers to union headquarters and carry the leaders out and deposit them on the sidewalk. Then let him send out his New Deal attorney general to argue that his power to do so is unlimited.

WANTS TO BE SEIZED.

Donovan, Ill., May 19.—Now that the Montgomery Ward-government feud is over and no one killed, I, an Illinois farmer, after working 15 hours a day on the farm and still not being able to get the work done, say please, O Mr. Government, carry me off of this farm as gently as you did Mr. Avery and run it until we can adjust our labor troubles. FARMER JOHN.

FOR MILITARY EDUCATION.

Elmwood Park, Ill., May 18.—To Mr. Bogolub, who contributed the article "Against Military Training," I reply, as an ex-service man of this present war, I can assure you that the training I had during my late teens was of great benefit to me, more than is easy to understand, in fact. As he said, there isn't any red-blooded American son of liberty who isn't willing to suffer loss of limb and even life itself to preserve our great nation. Ask those young men who must take the post-war military training for their vote of confidence on the subject. But give them some explanation of its purpose and the benefits to be derived. If it is properly explained to them I am positive that their own votes would be a great majority for it.

As long as men live, they will fight. Free men should never have to face a foe who has an advantage on us in every phase of warfare. Entirely too many men already have lost their lives because the urgency which was at hand was so great that adequate preparation could not be made. Was that a fair shake for those early sufferers? Would you deny any man what little chance there is to survive mortal combat by denying him the opportunity to learn the things that may mean the difference between his early slaughter and his survival?

JAMES E. KEATING,
Ex-Sergeant.

WHAT HURTS UNIONS.

Chicago, May 19.—In The Tribune of May 17 L. W. B. says that there is no such thing as a good labor union. That's rather ambiguous. Labor unionism today is suffering, like the entire nation, from "Newdealrhitis." The United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Medical association, the American Bar association—these are all unions as far as their motives are concerned. Yet no one would say they do not serve a good purpose in our Republic. True, there are some unions that are not much more than rackets; the New Deal theories have provided a splendid breeding ground for these fellow travelers to try their un-American ideas on the nation.

I am a union tradesman. I have condemned the Ward seizure, as all true Americans have, because it is contrary to our Constitution and Bill of Rights. Honest American unionism did all right for itself long before we ever heard of a Wagner law. It will do so again, once it can rid itself of the burocrats who have done nothing for labor, capital, or any one else, except to feed on the taxpayer. C. J. H.

GISSIBL TELLS SEDITION TRIAL OF BUND'S START

Testimony Delayed by Defense Objections.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Peter Gissibl, 43 year old German-born Waukegan, Ill., tailor, who went from Germany to Chicago in 1923 to set up the organization that later became the German-American bund, was the first witness today in the mass sedition trial.

Amid constant and myriad objections from the defense that the prosecution was asking leading and irrelevant questions of its witness, the short, wavy haired, ruddy faced Gissibl described the German inspired movement to spread the national socialism philosophy in the United States.

Wearing a double breasted gray suit and a flowing blue and white polka dot necktie, Gissibl, who has a brother in Germany holding high office in the Nazi party, grinned nervously as defense objections delayed his answers to every question.

Started in Chicago.

Gissibl testified he and two of his brothers, Fritz and Andrew, set up the National Socialists Society of Teutonia in Chicago in October, 1924, to teach young German immigrants the National Socialist philosophy and to get them to participate in the Nazi movement.

He testified that the name of the organization was changed in 1932 to the Friends of the Hitler Movement. Dues were collected from the membership to help finance the rise of Hitler in Germany, he said.

When Hitler set up the third reich in 1933, financing was no longer necessary and the name of the organization became the Friends of the New Germany. In 1936 it became the German-American bund.

The Teutonia and succeeding organizations, Gissibl testified, were patterned after the national socialist labor party movement [NSDAP] in Germany, even to the extent that the organizations in the United States had their own secret police units.

Purpose Always the Same.

He said that altho the name of the organization underwent change, its purpose—to spread propaganda and teach the philosophy of national socialism—was constant.

Three of the 29 sedition case defendants—who are charged with having conspired with Hitler and the Nazis to undermine morale of American military forces with propaganda as an aid in establishing a Nazi form of government in the United States—were identified in Gissibl's testimony. They were Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, August Klapprott, and Herman Max Schwinn, who he said were one time members of the bund.

Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher of the Federal court for the District of Columbia, who is presiding at the trial, produced a surprise just before Gissibl was put on the stand. He refused to strike from the record a charge by Henry H. Klein, a defense attorney, that the trial is a political persecution started "to cover up the crimes of President Roosevelt."

Rogge Had Objected.

O. John Rogge, prosecutor, had objected to this and statements by other defense attorneys and defendants that this was a political trial brought to smear persons opposed to the New Deal. Rogge objected to repeated references to the death during the proceedings of Elmer J. Garner, an octogenarian, who had only 40 cents in his pocket when his body was discovered in a local rooming house a few weeks ago.

These and other objections by Rogge, including one to references to the death of defendant George Sylvester Viereck's son with the American army at Anzio, were overruled by Justice Eicher.

PHONES THREAT TO E. K. WALKER, U. S. OFFICIAL

A telephone threat was made yesterday to United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, but the purpose was not apparent. The call was made at 1 p. m., and received by Miss Jennie Ciccarelli, assistant clerk in Walker's court. The man speaking told her, "You'd better tell Commissioner Walker to let those three people go." Miss Ciccarelli immediately tried to trace the call, but it was untraceable. Commissioner Walker later said the call was a mystery to him.

Testify at Army Officer's Trial

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

WIFE TESTIFIES OFFICER TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF

Mother Says He Had Mental Lapses.

Camp Anza, Cal., May 23 (AP).—Counsel for Lt. Beaufort Swancutt, trying to show he was not mentally responsible when he allegedly turned multiple killer here March 5, resorted to medical testimony at his court martial today in their effort to prove him insane.

After Swancutt's wife, mother, and sister had testified his youth and earlier manhood had been marked by frequent mental lapses and that he had suicidal tendencies, his lawyers called on four doctors, three of them army officers, to testify regarding his mental condition.

Threatened Mother.

Swancutt, accused before a general court martial of the murder of four persons and the wounding of four more in a burst of shooting starting at a dance at the Officers' club, gave no sign of recognition when his mother, Mrs. Caroline Swancutt, and his wife, Gertrude, entered the courtroom and smiled and nodded to him.

Swancutt's mother of Detroit testified he had suffered from spells of delirium and amnesia as a child, and that he once threatened her with a poker.

Swancutt's wife testified he had attempted suicide on four occasions, and that once he had choked her into unconsciousness.

Medical Men Testify.

The medical men called to testify are Lt. Col. Hyman D. Shapiro, Torney General hospital, Palm Springs; Lt. Oscar Sugar, Santa Ana Air base; Maj. Garland H. Pate, Birmingham General hospital, Van Nuys, Cal., and Dr. Karl O. Von Hagen, Los Angeles.

Col. Shapiro, testifying he made a neurological report on Swancutt after the shootings, asserted he found no definite indication of organic disease. He quoted Swancutt as saying he had drunk alcoholic beverages since he was 19 and said the lieutenant's case history was suggestive of an epileptic condition.

Lt. Sugar also testified an epileptic condition existed, while Dr. Von Hagan said Swancutt's mental reactions were fairly normal and that he believed Swancutt is sane. Von Hagan later testified he believed Swancutt was suffering from epilipsy at the time of the shooting.

TAKING OF TESTIMONY IN HAUPT TRIAL MAY BE STARTED TODAY

Taking of testimony in the second treason trial of Hans Max Haupt, father of Herbert Haupt, executed Nazi saboteur, is expected to get under way today before Judge John P. Barnes in federal District court.

The jury is expected to be completed shortly after court convenes this morning. Testimony will follow opening statements by prosecutors and defense attorneys.

At adjournment yesterday, a panel of seven women and five men was in the jury box, and the defense had used eight of its 20 peremptory challenges. The government had exercised five of its allotted six.

A previous treason trial resulted in death sentences for Haupt, Walter Froehling, and Richard Wergin, and sentences of 25 years and $10,000 fines for their wives. The sentences were set aside by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

SAY WALKOUT COST NAVY 1,200 INVASION CRAFT

Granite City, Ill., May 23 (AP).—A strike of machinists at the Granite City Steel company already has cost the navy 1,200 invasion craft, it was estimated today by officials of the plant which produces steel plates for LCT and LST boats.

The 160 AFL machinists walked out 12 days ago in a jurisdictional dispute with millwright members of the CIO Steel Workers of America. Breakdowns in a mill later forced the company to suspend operations, throwing 1,800 employes out of work.

Clyde Huffstutler, subdistrict director of the CIO union, said his men are not on strike and are ready to participate in parleys to work out a settlement, and will return to work whenever called.

Lloyd Weber, business agent of the AFL union, the International Association of Machinists, said he was urging the management to work out a settlement thru separate conferences with each faction and that he was doing everything possible to end the walkout.

STOP THROWING MILK IN SEWERS, FARMERS URGED

The dumping of milk into sewers by farmers and dairies was termed "deliberately wasteful and unnecessary" yesterday by Paul Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers.

"A careful canvass of the market by our organization, the Pure Milk association, and a coöperative organization in Wisconsin shows there are only rare instances of milk being dumped," he said. "Those doing it say peak production gives them a surplus they cannot handle because of federal regulations against Sunday deliveries and low quotas.

"Dealers and brokers in the Chicago area are doing their utmost to handle the tremendous volume of milk now pouring into the city. Cows out on fresh pasture are giving the city 6 per cent more milk than last year. We are hauling skim milk as far as 250 miles to avoid dumping it."

Theater Fire Drives Out Patrons at La Grange

Smoke from a fire in the storeroom of the La Grange theater, Cossit av. and La Grange rd. in the suburb, last night drove several hundred patrons into the street but caused little damage, according to Fire Chief Harry Oakes. An earlier fire in an office of the theater was extinguished before its presence became known to the audience.

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—The house rules committee today again rejected proposed legislation to authorize expenditure of 15 million dollars in smaller newspaper advertising to promote the sale of war bonds. Chairman Sabath [D., Ill.] said the action left little doubt in his opinion that the bill had been shelved.

WARD'S SEIZURE TERMED FAULT OF LABOR BOARD

Probers Told of Delay in Ordering Election.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—A charge that the administration itself laid the groundwork for the armed seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co's Chicago plant by refusing to take steps which would have avoided the seizure was made today before the special house committee investigating the government action.

Gerard D. Reilly.

Representatives Curtis [R., Neb.] and Elston [R., O.], committee members, made the allegation during testimony by Gerard D. Reilly, member of the national labor relations board, on the NLRB's part in the case.

The committee will question Atty. Gen. Biddle tomorrow on what members of congress contend is the basic constitutional issue in the case—the legal authority, if any, for the seizure.

During today's questioning of Reilly, Elston said the witness' own testimony showed that the NLRB could have obviated the necessity for taking over Ward's by acting promptly on the union issue instead of using delaying tactics.

Election Stalled Off.

Reilly's statements showed, Elston continued, that the NLRB failed to hold an election to determine the CIO union's status at the Chicago Ward plant until six months after the company demanded such an election and 12 weeks after the union itself sought it.

"Yet the lack of an election proved to be the sole reason for the seizure," Elston told the committee, "for the government turned back the plant to Ward's the day the election was held, even before the result was known. Now the Ward case is right back where it was before the company was taken over, except that the union election has been held."

Curtis, questioning Reilly on the NLRB's delay in holding the election, drew from Reilly the admission that it could have been held by March 15, more than five weeks before the April 26 seizure, if the board had given the case the right of way. The election actually took place May 9.

Deserved Priority Attention.

The Ward case seemingly deserved priority treatment, Curtis continued, inasmuch as Chairman William H. Davis of the war labor board told the group yesterday that it was the keystone of the nation's war time labor policy.

Reilly told the group the NLRB could not order an election on a request from the company, because the board's rules provide that such requests must come from the union, not the management. He acknowledged this may be a "defect in our regulations" and said the NLRB now is considering a proposal to give management the right to petition for an employes' election where a bona fide doubt exists as to whether a union has a majority.

The witness explained that the board delayed its decision on the union's plea for an election at Ward's partly because the latter request was in such "unusual" form. The union petition, he explained, actually was an application for "union certification," but the board finally did construe it as a petition for an election. Moreover, Reilly continued, the national significance of the Ward dispute was not apparent to NLRB members at first.

Discussed Case with Vinson.

Reilly disclosed that NLRB and WLB members met jointly with Fred Vinson, economic stabilization director, in Vinson's office on April 16 to discuss the Ward case.

"Did anybody at this conference suggest that the NLRB order an election and thus end the trouble?" Elston asked.

"No," Reilly replied. "The discussion dealt with the impact of the proposed seizure on the case."

Elston then asked whether the conferees considered invoking "sanctions"—withholding of government priorities to Ward's—as a means of forcing the company to accept the terms laid down by the WLB. The reply was negative.

Blames Ward Labor Policy.

"Was there any discussion at all," Elston persisted, "of how government seizure of Montgomery Ward's could be avoided?"

"No," replied Reilly.

Reilly told the committee the local CIO union's "resentment" against Ward's stemmed partly from a background of "unfair labor practices" by the company. This, he said, "played a large part in causing the union to strike" on April 12.

The NLRB, Reilly said, previously had found Ward's guilty of operating a system of employe "espionage" and discriminating against union workers in some of its branch offices.

Questioned by Elston, the witness denied that these factors were directly responsible for the federal seizure of the plant.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. H. H. Kellogg, 401 Vail st., Michigan City, Ind.]

THE QUESTION.

What amusing or embarrassing experience did you have when you first started taking care of patients as a student nurse?

WHERE ASKED.

St. Luke's hospital, 1439 S. Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS.

Virginia Bojewicz, South Bend, Ind.—I had donned my uniform for the first time and was supposed to look prim, trim, and strictly professional. As I was putting a man into a wheel chair, my pin came off and my collar flew in the other direction. As I put myself together I prayed that a supervisor hadn't seen me.

Margaret Broderson, Clinton, Ia.—There were six patients in my ward. I was caring for a patient when I heard some one call "Nurse" several times. I looked around to see why the nurse did not answer and then it occurred to me that I was the nurse. I dropped what I was doing and rushed over to the patient.

Jane Eitel, 69 E. Division st.—The first day I wore my uniform I was assigned to a seven bed ward. I thought to myself, "Boy! Am I good! They must have a lot of confidence in me to let me have seven patients the first day all alone." I arrived at the ward to find seven empty beds I was to make. It was quite a blow to my ego.

Helen Elfverson, 8216 Langley av.—A patient of mine spoke rather broken English. I was feeding him and he was trying to tell me that something was missing from his tray. He repeated the word several times but I couldn't understand him. Finally he changed his tactics and said "Cow." He was trying to tell me that he wanted a glass of milk.

Barbara Heininger, 405 6th av., Mendota, Ill.—It was my first day in the wards and I wanted to make a good impression on the patients, so I pretended that I had had a lot of experience. I thought I was going along great until one of my patients said, "How long will it be before you're a full-fledged student nurse?"

Marilyn Osborne, Downers Grove—When you take a patient's pulse you count the pulse rate and the respiration for one minute each. By the time I had finished counting a man's respiration I forgot what his pulse had been, and it took me almost five minutes to finish. My patient accused me of trying to hold his hand.

SKULL SPLINTER FOUND IN SEARCH FOR RICH WIDOW

Diver to Seek Body on Lake Bottom.

Durham, N. C., May 23 [Special].—A splinter of bone adhering to an elderly woman's bloody clothing found in the $75 a month house rented last week in East Durham by Edward Jewett Martin, 24, has been identified by pathologists at Duke university as a portion of a human skull, W. H. Murdock, Durham county prosecutor, disclosed tonight.

Edward J. Martin.

Bought Dry Ice.

Martin, grandson of Mrs. Edward M. Jewett, 67, wealthy widow of Boonville, Mo., who has been missing since May 10, is being held in the city jail here on an open charge while a search for Mrs. Jewett is being carried on. He has been held since Saturday when authorities found blood stains and pieces of decaying flesh in the trunk compartment of Mrs. Jewett's Packard sedan, which was in his possession.

Murdock said a carton found in the rented house led to the discovery that Martin purchased 50 pounds of dry ice from a local dairy last Thursday.

Dragging operations in Eastwood lake in Orange county, eight miles from here, were carried on from dawn to dusk today without result.

H. E. King, Durham chief of police, said a diver has been employed to aid in the search of the lake and will start operations tomorrow morning. The diver, R. H. Butler, of Newport News, Va., has promised to locate any body that may have been thrown into the lake within three hours, the chief said.

Eastwood lake is an artificial body of water covering 60 acres and reaching to a depth of 20 to 30 feet. If diving operations are unsuccessful, the lake will be drained.

Find Boat and Tire Tracks.

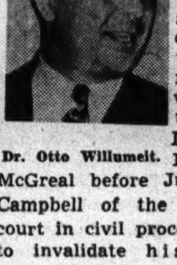
Attention of authorities was directed to the lake by a drifting motor boat and by tire tracks leading to the beach near where the boat had been moored.

Murdock holds a court order authorizing him to open a safety deposit box which Martin rented last week in a Durham bank. He said he will probably examine this box tomorrow.

Mrs. Jewett disappeared from a hotel in Boonville while on an automobile trip with her grandson to inspect her property holdings in Boonville. Three days later Martin appeared with her automobile at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lewis Patton, in Charlotte, N. C., and deposited $6,000 in a Charlotte bank.

DR. WILLUMEIT SURRENDERS HIS U.S. CITIZENSHIP

Dr. Otto William Albert Willumeit, former head of the defunct German-American bund in Chicago, is no longer a citizen of the United States.



Dr. Otto Willumeit.

He voluntarily surrendered his citizenship yesterday a few minutes after he was placed on trial by Assistant District Atty. Francis J. McGreal before Judge William J. Campbell of the federal District court in civil proceedings intended to invalidate his naturalization. Judge Campbell approved the request of Willumeit's lawyer, Joseph T. Harrington, adding that the charges against Willumeit will be "taken as confessed."

Dr. Willumeit is already under two consecutive sentences of five years each, the first for espionage, the second for conspiracy to advise resistance to the draft. He was brought to Chicago from the federal detention home in New York.

Dr. Willumeit came to America in 1925 and was naturalized April 28, 1931, in Hammond, Ind. He was made leader of the Chicago bund in 1938.

2 MEN SOUGHT HERE FOR CLEWS IN TRAIN DEATH

Chicago authorities last night were asked to search for two men who boarded the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway's Dixie Flagler at Evansville, Ind., Wednesday with Mrs. Barbara Zager, 27, of 5118 Dorchester av., whose body was found the following day along the tracks near Watseka, Iroquois county.

The request was made after Sheriff Phil M. Brown and State's Atty. Fred Kendel of Iroquois county questioned crew members of the train at the Dearborn st. station. The questioning revealed that Mrs. Zager, wife of a soldier stationed in Georgia, was with the two men in the club car until it closed at 10 p. m.

When the train reached Chicago late Wednesday night the two men reported to a station policeman that Mrs. Zager had vanished from the train. The policeman, Mark Tomich, said they refused to divulge their names.

2 Die in Dance Hall Fire; Many Leap from 3d Floor

HAMILTON, Ont., May 24 [Wednesday]—(AP).—At least two persons were killed, three others were believed dead, and about 50 were injured tonight when fire swept thru a hall where a dance was being held. Many of the dancers jumped from third story windows when the flames spread.

BAN ON TAVERN NEAR HIGHWOOD CHURCH LOOMS

The Highwood Methodist church yesterday broke its silence regarding the tavern owned by Harold Snavely, brother-in-law of Ald. Fidel Ghini, who, as mayor pro tem, authorized the tavern's licensing.

The Rev. Lloyd Lafler, pastor of the church, informed Mayor Charles Portilia he had received a letter from the state liquor commission informing him that a state license had been denied Snavely because the tavern's city license had been improperly issued.

"When I hear from the liquor commission in a few days," Portilia said, "I will instruct City Atty. Bernard Juron to abate this nuisance."

Ghini and Snavely contend the tavern is 110 feet from the church—10 feet beyond the legal limit.

"They must have used a rubber tape," Portilia said. "The actual distance is 86 feet. We measure in straight lines in Highwood, not in circles."

Regarding Chief of Police John De Smidt, who resigned while Ghini was acting mayor, Portilia said:

"If he wants to be chief he can be, and we'll regard his two weeks' fishing trip as a vacation."

The mayor disclosed that the illness which sent him to a Rochester [Minn.] hospital was about conquered. "I'm beginning to feel like my old fighting self again," he said. "These lawbreakers around here had better watch out."

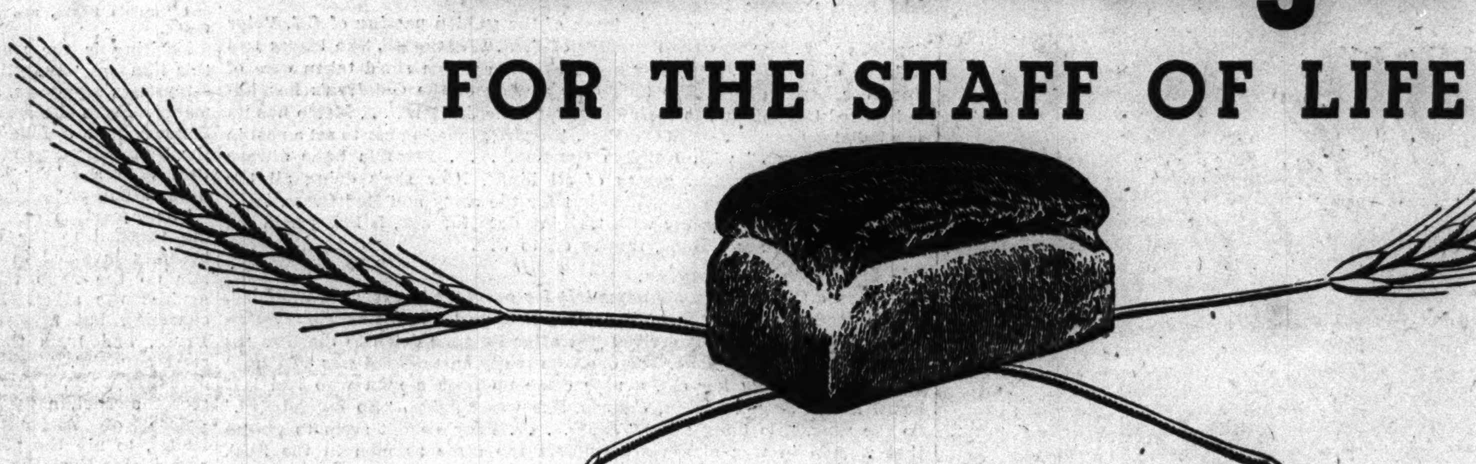
More Strength

FOR THE STAFF OF LIFE



History has shown that bread means food, and food means bread. Bread is the universal food, the great sustainer of human kind, the best-liked food, the food most widely eaten in the western world. Here in the United States bread gives us a third of the total food energy in our diet.

A typical old gristmill that ground a nutritious flour—but it had some drawbacks.

To most of us bread means white bread—a well rounded loaf, brown-crusted outside, creamy white, light-textured inside, fresh from the oven, with a flavor that hungry men dream of! What a happy fact it is, then, that today's flour makes the best white bread that has ever been known!

An extravagant statement? Wait a moment before you say so. Let's look at what has happened.

Down by the Old Millstream . . .

In the old days, when the American was mostly a country man, the farmer tied a bag of wheat behind his saddle and rode down to the mill. The miller ground the grain into flour, using stone burrs run by water power. The whole grain went into this stone-ground flour: the bran and the oily germ—with their minerals and vitamins, too, though nobody could see them, and nobody had heard of them.

This flour was rather dark in color. It had a "speckled" look. It quickly got "musty"; couldn't be shipped very far.

Then, soon after the Civil War, flour milling was revolutionized with the high-speed roller process. The new method produced the whitest white flour that had ever been seen . . . a flour of great strength and fine texture that made a bold, large-volumed, well-risen loaf of bread. The taste was delicious, the "sales appeal" tremendous. This flour could be transported for long distances, stored indefinitely, and its bread-making strength remained as good as ever.

Flour millers vied to get greater whiteness, greater brightness in their flour. But as they were separating out the bran and the wheat germ, out went precious nourishment values, too. A few hardy souls questioned this practice. But they were ahead of the times. They couldn't prove their case. Most people contentedly ate their white bread and continued, as they still continue, to prefer it.

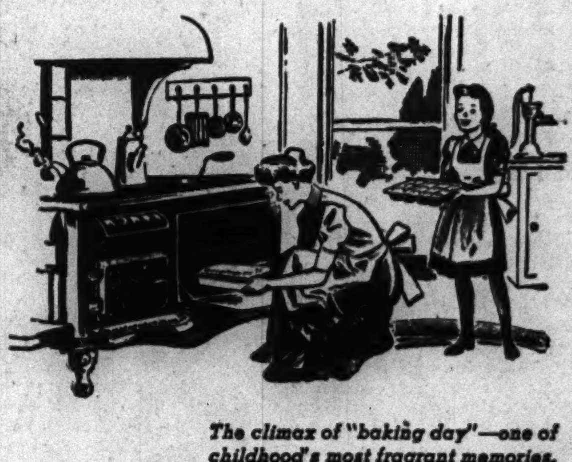
Science Sifts Out the Facts

Between World War I and World War II the knowledge of human food requirements advanced rapidly. As scientists patiently spelled out the story of vitamins and minerals, syllable by syllable, leaders in the milling and chemical industries labored together to find ways of restoring to American flour and American bread those missing elements of vitality which nature had originally put in the wheat grain.

The result was enriched flour, well illustrated in our Best Foods flour brands—Ceresota, Aristos, and Heckers'—which were restored in the spring of 1941 with Vitamin B_1, iron and niacin, in amounts naturally found in the whole wheat kernel . . . then once more stepped up to still higher levels, in the fall of 1943, in cooperation with the U. S. Government. Riboflavin (Vitamin B_2) was also added then to further the national goal of a healthy, happy people.

Do you see what this means to every home using family flour? It means that today and tomorrow, and always, it is possible to enjoy all the daintiness and appeal of white bread, plus the nutritional benefits of vitamins and minerals of the whole-wheat grain for which man's body hungers.

Never, we venture to say, have the findings of science been applied more promptly by industry for the greatest good of the greatest number.



The climax of "baking day"—one of childhood's most fragrant memories.

Heckers' FLOUR
Ceresota
ARISTOS ENRICHED FLOUR
Presto CAKE FLOUR

Each one of these three famous flours has been the "stand-by" of generations of good cooks. All are milled to help you avoid costly, wasteful baking failures. Their "stay-up" secret is protein-gluten—just the right kind in just the right amount, kept uniform in bag after bag. And they are all "stepped-up" flours—up in Vitamin B_1, up in iron, up in niacin, up in riboflavin.

Presto is that quick self-rising cake flour that saves—saves sifting, mixing time, ingredients. Don't add baking powder and salt. They're already in self-rising Presto—blended . . . "married" . . . with the flour at the mill.

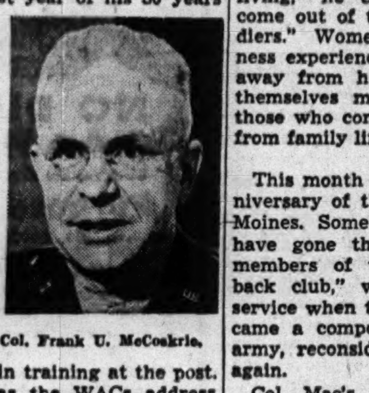
Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson



Col. Frank U. McCoskrie.

Col. Frank U. McCoskrie, who has spent the last year of his 30 years of soldiering as commandant of the WAC training center at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, told a press conference yesterday what it is like to be the commanding officer of approximately 4,000 WACs, on duty and in training at the post.

Col. Mac, as the WACs address him, meets all recruit trains arriving at Fort Des Moines. It is a form of welcome the women like. His office is open to trainees at all times. If they become emotionally distraught [but few of them do, the colonel said], they're likely to stand at attention before him and burst into tears.

"You were a woman before you were a soldier," he tells them. "Go ahead and cry."

* * *

The Fort Des Moines WACs' favorite colonel makes them stand "white glove" inspection at some time during the last phase of basic training. His gloved hand passes over all equipment in the barracks in a search for dust, but WACs are good housekeepers. Only seldom does a company have to wash the colonel's gloves after inspection.

Women need more talking to and reasoning about why they're in the WAC, the colonel said, than do men about why they're in the army. This probably is because the women are volunteers, the colonel conceded, and have the choice to make.

"The WAC teaches women group living," he continued, "and they come out of training as proud soldiers." Women who have had business experience, or who have lived away from home, generally adapt themselves more rapidly than do those who come into camp directly from family life, he added.

* * *

This month marks the second anniversary of the WAC at Fort Des Moines. Some of the thousands who have gone thru the training are members of the colonel's "come-back club," women who left the service when the women's army became a component of the regular army, reconsidered, and signed up again.

Col. Mac's mail is tremendous. WACs who leave the fort for assignment write him from every part of the United States and from various war theaters. One of them, 1st Lt. Sally Dean, who enlisted from Chicago, now is on the staff of Adm. Louis Mountbatten, supreme allied commander in southeastern Asia.

WAC classification systems at the fort are 95 per cent accurate, Col. McCoskrie said. Personnel directors have had exceptional success in fitting the woman to the WAC billet for which she is best suited.

* * *

Today in the Fiji Islands, 1st Lt. Eleanor E. Charles of Chicago, army nurse on surgical duty, is marking the second anniversary of her arrival at the base hospital there. She has been an army nurse for 2½ years.

Lt. Charles' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christ Charles, have been visited several times at the family home, 1428 E. 63d pl., by soldiers who have been attended by their daughter in the battle area and who have praised her charm and ability. "I was a pretty sick fellow," one of them said. "She was wonderful."

Lt. Charles, who had her civilian nursing training at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Aurora, has a sister also in the army nurse corps. She is 2d Lt. Ruth Charles, stationed at Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis. Another member of the family, Robert Charles, an army private, is in England.

College Girls Design Smart Flying Attire

Columbia, Mo., May 23 (AP).—Flying college girls, who insist on being smartly dressed without bumping perched hats on cabin roofs and tripping high heels on controls, have designed, with expert aid, flying styles of the future.

The girls—64 of them will receive pilots' licenses—will present their ideas in a style show as part of the 111th anniversary commencement exercises next Sunday at Stephens college, where 500 of them are studying aviation.

* * *

Harassed by flounces and frills, and disgusted with the mannish appearance of slacks and coveralls, the girls set about to devise their own clothes.

With Muriel King, Hollywood and New York designer, as director, they laid plans for a new wardrobe, designed especially for flying.

Models of many garments, from "monkey suits" to evening dresses, will be shown. Split skirts, boleros, hood fitting hats, and snoods are some of the devices used.

Hats, designing of which was directed by Mme. Lily Daché, were a problem. The high perched bird cages had to go and so did the wide brimmed summer straws. The new models are smart and close fitting.

Ordinary shoes hurt the instep of the girl pilots so a new shoe with a top line treatment of gored elasticity and medium heels is one result.

* * *

The girls found that, with certain changes, the bolero jacket was ideal for some costumes. All garments have been constructed with action free backs and shoulders. Pleats and flounces are out. Some of the garments are of four and five pieces, enabling the woman flyer to convert an afternoon dress into an evening gown.

All in all, it's a streamlined wardrobe designed to take little space yet make the wearer a smartly dressed woman when she steps from her plane at the end of a trip.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 23.—Eddie Golden, producer of "Hitler's Children," and now "The Master Race," looks like an everyday working Santa Claus. He tells me the idea of "The Master Race" is that now people from the European underground are coming out in the open to fight, while members of the "master race" who are still alive when war's done, will go underground to plot the next war. . . . The marriage of Paulette Goddard and Burgess Meredith should be successful. Paulette's such a good housekeeper and Burgess such a good actor. The marriage, at David Selznick's, took place directly across the street from Charlie Chaplin's, where Paulette lived for many years. Charlie and Oona were not present, but Paulette did invite Judge Jafsie O'Connor, who presided at the Chaplin-Berry case, to marry them. He couldn't—he's a federal judge.

She'll Be a Busy Girl.

After seeing what Travis Banton did for Rita Hayworth in "Cover Girl," Tallulah Bankhead would like him to design her clothes for "Czarina." Talloo does one week of "Private Lives" at Stamford, Conn., then arrives here July 1—if she can find a house. . . . On Metro's call sheet for "Ziegfeld Follies" was this: "Baby Snooks set"—so a nurse and school teacher went over to investigate. . . . There's talk that Susanna Foster may go to Russia with other entertainers for a personal appearance in Moscow. . . . Anne Baxter gets the feminine role in "Winged Victory." . . . Martha Tilton sings two of her own songs in "Swing Hostess." One is "Texas Polka," the other, "I'll Walk Alone." . . . June 4 marks the sixth wedding anniversary for Frances Langford and Jon Hall. . . . If Bill Goodwin doesn't sell that radio show he's recorded some agency heads must be slightly deaf, 'cause it's good listening.

Anne Baxter. Susanna Foster. Frances Langford.

I Love the Title.

"The Day to Forget," which Charles Jackson is working on, will be one of the most ambitious Metro pictures this year. Five or six top writers will work on it. There'll be from 12 to 14 stars in it, including Greer Garson, Hedy Lamarr, and Walter Pidgeon. . . .The round table at the Algonquin was revived on the "Laura" set, and sitting there eating, just as they did in New York a couple of years ago, were Clifton Webb, then playing "Blithe Spirit"; John Wilson, who produced it; Gene Tierney, who was doing "Male Animal"; Vincent Price, from "Angel Street," and Judith Anderson, from "Macbeth." All they needed was Frank Case walking by to tell them a story. But I go back to the beginning of the round table, when the only woman who was allowed to sit there was Peggy Wood. The men were Alexander Woolcott, Times drama editor; his assistant, George Kaufman; Harold Ross [before the New Yorker]; Marc Connolly, the late Heywood Broun, Deems Taylor, and Franklin P. Adams. A cry of anguish went up the day they admitted Peggy. You see, Alex adored her. That was before Eleanor Roosevelt and her day.

Sad News from England.

Her friends will be sorry to learn of the sudden passing of Col. Peter Cazelet's wife. She was the daughter of P. G. Wodehouse. She leaves two children of her own, and 60 crippled children whom she'd taken care of since the London blitz. She took over a wing of the Children's hospital and moved the patients to their beautiful home in Kent. . . . Metro has its own ballet dancer now—Cyd Charisse. They're grooming her to act a part in "Brighton Beach" with Kathryn Grayson. . . . Priscilla Lane always hated social life, bridge, games of all kinds. Now she's doing all the things she disliked at Victorville—but for the army and Red Cross. . . . "Rip Goes to War," dealing with training dogs for war, is being held up. As soon as dogs are trained, they're off to war.

It's Up with the Eagles.

When a C-47 bearing my name left for overseas to evacuate wounded, it contained a good luck stone in the shape of a cross, sent by Mrs. George Brownwell of Chicago. It arrived just after I'd gone down to the Douglas plant to christen the plane. The one who really entertained was Charlotte Greenwood. During her act, a note came up from a man who had last heard her in Saskatchewan, Canada. She was singing, "So Long Letty." So she sang, "So Long Letty" again. . . . People don't seem to realize that women in war plants are soldiers the same as men in the field. And when they're asked to take on an added number of planes, that means overwork, with everybody on the job. Absenteeism among older women is slight, since most of them have sons in the services. By being on the job, they know they're helping their boys. You can't much blame a young woman of 18 or 19 who's never worked before if, when her husband or sweetheart comes to town, she stays away two or three days; yet in doing so, she slows up the whole thing. Consequently, when these folks get entertainment away from the beaten track, they appreciate it as much as soldiers in army camps.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Thru the Looking Glass

We have a hunch that women would be far more satisfied with the final effect of their makeup if they were more exacting in their choice of a powder shade and if they realized that the shade that was good in 1942 may not be so good for them in 1944.

The advance of the years, even of the seasons, imposes a necessity for minor or major changes in the individual styling of oneself. The mature woman accepts the fact that the line, at least, of the clothes she selects is quite unlike what was becoming to her when she was 17. She may cling to the same colors but surely she has changed the style.

* * *

She might even have changed her taste in colors. Perhaps her hair is graying, which opens up whole new avenues of color choice. She most certainly has changed her style of hair arrangement as the years went by—partly as a bow to the changes of fashion but even more so an acknowledgment of changing contour for which adjustments must be made.

But very few women, we have discovered, change their shades of face powder very often. The rachel, let's say, they chose at 17 is their standby at 30. And that is quite wrong. Skin tone changes, subtly but surely, as one grows older and these changes must be taken into account when you select the powder with which to veil your skin. Skin tone often changes with the seasons, too. A sun tan hangover means that both your sun tan powder and your winter powder shades are useless for the time being.

* * *

Then, there is the matter of costume color. Variety in your wardrobe demands changes in your face powder. Your usual pink powder is going to look peculiar when you wear your buttercup yellow blouse, for example; your too creamy shade is going to be flat with rich, warm costume colors.

Keep at least four shades of powder on hand at all times. And, for special occasions, don't hesitate to do a bit of blending that will give you a powder shade that harmonizes with, tones down, or even accents an unusual color in your clothes.

Film Introduces Dr. Gillespie's New Assistant

"DR. GILLESPIE'S CRIMINAL CASE."

A Metro Goldwyn Mayer picture, directed by Willis Goldbeck, starring Lionel Barrymore with Van Johnson, Donna Reed, and Margaret O'Brien, and presented at Tivoli, Harding, and Granada theaters.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

When young Dr. Kildare stepped out of the Blair General hospital, Dr. Gillespie was up a tree. Who was capable of becoming his assistant?

Young Dr. Randall Adams [Van Johnson], put thru a course of sprouts as only Dr. Gillespie knows how to do such, wins the coveted post and in this number serves at the right hand of the brilliant, aged diagnostician, who becomes involved in some of the most unpredictable happenings of a long and colorful career. Insanity and erysipelas rear awful heads. A penitentiary beckons. Death at one time seems not far away. . . . But fate smiles on a lot of folks for the finale.

* * *

Vying with Adams for the honor of working with the great Gillespie is the clever Chinese intern, Dr. Lee [Keye Luke]. He also is much in evidence as the events of this cinema spin their course.

Donna Reed is very charming as a heroine in distress. Lionel Barrymore is, as ever, a human, brilliant, crotchety medico—dogged by pain but never too sick or too busy to focus his entire attention on solving a problem for one in distress. Familiar faces greet you from the hospital staff and the director did a nice job of rounding out an interesting story into an arresting movie.

See you tomorrow.

Never a Dull Moment

"ACTION IN ARABIA."

An RKO-Radio picture, directed by Leonide Moguy, featuring George Sanders and Virginia Bruce, and presented at the Grand.

Exciting is the word for it, for this film has "everything it takes"—mystery, espionage, action, and romance. From the arrival of George Sanders and a fellow reporter at the Damascus airport to his departure with a lovely bride, there is never a dull or lagging moment.

The American correspondent, being recalled to the United States, becomes involved in a spy plot to stir up the Arab tribes to revolt against the allies. He meets the charming but mysterious Virginia Bruce, and from there on things start apoppin'. There's some fancy detective work, a dashing ride to a secret airport, a flying trip to the palace of Abd-al-Raschid, Arab leader, to nip the plot in the bud, and a race thru the desert to stop the war-like Arabs.

Leading characters, including Lenore Aubert as Abd-al-Rashid's daughter, fulfill their parts, and the sets are crammed with atmosphere both enchanting and believable.

Billed with this film is "Weird Woman." The title might lead one to believe it is a dime-novel thriller, which is not the case. Its leading characters, Lon Chaney, Anne Gwynne, and Evelyn Ankers, with the help of an intriguing plot, present an entertaining co-feature.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Camilla.

When Marge Sammons went from Chicago to Butte, Mont., a couple of years ago to mingle with the miners in one of the country's most successful industrial relations programs, we thought she had hit the top for unusual careers for women. Now she has exchanged her miner's helmet temporarily for a bonnet and is with us briefly on her way to Connecticut brass mills to get stories for her publication, Copper Commando, and to check with Washington, D. C. She brings us the extraordinary biography of Camilla Gage of Twin Bridges, Mont.

Mrs. Gage, described by Montanans as the one-man chamber of commerce of Madison county, has just hung up the record for her county of the biggest per capita waste paper salvage in the United States.

Mrs. Gage landed in Montana by accident and stayed there by preference. She spent 18 years in Paris, France, before going to Montana with her husband to examine some mining properties which he later bought. When he died two years ago, his wife [who looks very much like a gal a man would turn around to notice on Michigan av.] took over the mines and has run them successfully ever since. She is a product of Branksome Hall in Toronto, one of Canada's finishing schools, and was educated further in fashionable institutions in continental Europe. As a result she speaks several languages fluently. Today Camilla Gage probably is the only woman operator in the mining industry.

An interesting experience is in the offing—a meeting with her sister, Kathleen Cannell, formerly fashion editor in Paris of the New York Times and a member of the contributing staff of the New Yorker. When Paris was invaded, Kathleen was held by the Nazis. Recently she returned to New York on the Gripsholm. She expects to join her sister soon in Montana, where she intends to write a book on occupied Europe.

These two sisters, who have not seen each other for seven years, should make a team when they meet and really get to talking.

Crilly Ct. Neighborhood Gets Ready for Hot Summer Days

BY JUDITH CASS.

SIGNS of summer are appearing in the Crilly ct. neighborhood, where residents are out in full force evenings and week-ends preparing for warm summer days—and nights—on back porches and in gardens. "The White Cliffs of Dover" is the name friends have given to the William P. Churches' pristine white back porch where Mr. and Mrs. Church have been busy washing and painting in preparation for outdoors enjoyment.

The Robert J. Piggotts also have been busy, with white and green as the theme of their summer porch decoration, and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cushing have been out on hands and knees in their oldest clothes brightening up the space where they will spend the hot summer nights. The Paul G. Wares were the first to put up a garden umbrella and get out their comfortable blue and white garden furniture that matches the umbrella's canvas. The attractive little pond in their yard has had a coat of sea green paint, and colorful pansies are nodding cheerfully in a border around the garden.

The Jarvis Hunts often gather friends beneath their big garden umbrella, and the Frederick L. Spencers are looking forward to the addition of a little fountain for their miniature back yard.

The junior Robert C. McNamaras' rainbow hued umbrella strikes a colorful note in the center of the row of back yards and ties together the color scheme that makes the over-all appearance so gay. The oleanders that soon will be blooming in the gardens of the Robert Leningtons and Earl J. Perreault are shown with particular pride. The Daniel O'Connells were the first to brighten their porch, which is in the rows that look down upon the gardens.

Many of the families in the neighborhood are busy again with war gardens, with Mr. Piggott serving as head of the informal garden committee. The garden plots are on a nearby corner that otherwise would be an empty lot.

Wedding News.

Of interest is the announcement that is being made of the marriage yesterday of Miss Jane Lucey, daughter of Mrs. John Lucey, to Carl E. Wittbold, son of Mrs. Louis Wittbold of Barry av. The ceremony took place at 5 p. m. in the Sheridan rd. apartment of the bride's mother, in the presence of the immediate families. Robert D. Peacock III. served as best man. The bride was unattended.

After a short wedding trip Mr. Wittbold and his bride will be at home on the north side. The former Miss Lucey is a director of the Service club, in which she has been active for several years.

Ensign and Mrs. Milton H. Jannone, who were married at 5:30 p. m. Monday in St. Chrysostom's church, will be at home in Miami, Fla., while he is stationed there. The bride is the former Mary Bachmann, daughter of Mrs. Harrold Bachmann, who gave a small dinner at home for the bridal party and members of the family following the ceremony.

The former Miss Bachmann, who was given in marriage by her brother, Peter, was attended by her sister, Joan, as maid of honor, and their cousin, Miss Martha Corbett, as bridesmaid. Here for the ceremony were Ensign Jannone's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Jannone, and his sister, Ilene, who came from Waterville, N. Y.; his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Horner of Beverly, N. J., and another uncle, Anthony Jannone of Newark, N. J., who served as best man. Ensign Jannone just has returned from sea duty with the navy, and his bride returned to Chicago last Thursday after completing her first year at Wells college.

Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Jernberg of Park Ridge announce the engagement of their daughter, Annette, to Lt. Comdr. George N. Stembridge Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stembridge, also of Park Ridge. The wedding will take place when Comdr. Stembridge returns from duty in the Pacific.

New Sunback House Coat Is Trim and Cool

BY REA SEEGER.

Clever sunback house coats, designed to help you get a sun tanned back while you work around the house or dash out to the garden or backyard, are here. Long skirts attached to regulation halter-tops give you a word picture of what these new arrivals really are. Add a word about cool, crisp, white cotton material and effective striped models and you have all the shopping data.

The striped models come in snappy red and white and deep blue and white material resembling cotton pique with a crinkled texture. The stripes are neat and narrow, the fake pockets and halter top are trimmed with white eyelet embroidery frills. The same white frills decorate the cool, all white number too. Skirts are simply gathered to the band at the normal waistline. Full length skirts flare around the anklelines, making the usual house coat silhouette. Price marks are exceptionally easy on a summer clothes budget. For $10 or thereabouts you can own a bright new house coat that will tub and stay crisply fresh all summer long.

Other cotton house coats with the usual short sleeve, tailored bodice top, and gathered full, long skirt, star the cool charm of eyelet embroidery, not only in white but also in candy pink, sky blue, and yellow. Others come in cracker-crisp popcorn white pique and in bon bon shades of colored pique. Super coolers in striped rayons feature white and green, white and red, and blue and white. Both long, wide, loose sleeves and elbow short sleeves are available.

PTA Told Need of Improving U. S. Education

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—Physical deficiencies and illiteracy revealed by the draft, with the implication that changes are needed in the educational system of the country, were discussed today before the National Congress of Parents and Teachers by Brig. Gen. Walter L. Weible, the war department's director of military training.

At the beginning of the draft, rejections by the army for physical disqualifications were at the rate of 25 young men out of every 100, Gen. Weible told the delegates on the second day of their three day conference on childhood and youth. Nine to 10 of these were disqualified because of dental defects. All infected with venereal disease were rejected. Two out of every 100 were turned away for illiteracy.

High speed training programs and services have changed the picture in many aspects, Gen. Weible disclosed. Last year the army accepted 100,000 men who had venereal diseases, and cured them. Dental rejections are now only one out of every 1,000. No illiterates not mentally deficient are rejected; within eight weeks, army training is raising these men to the educational level of a fourth grader.

The army is making an "exceptional showing" in training men for their fighting jobs, and the results are "inspiring," Gen. Weible asserted, while deploring the fact that the military is obliged to take valuable time from technical training to give prerequisite basic education and mental discipline. He expressed the opinion that after the war military training should be coördinated with the educational system.

By reason of their training and experiences, youths of 18 and 19 will be returning to their communities as adults, Gen. Weible said. The boy who has piloted a $250,000 Flying Fortress is not going to want to ask for the key to the family car, nor permission to be out all night, he warned.

"What the men want," he said, "is not gratuity, but opportunity; not misinformation, but accurate and useful information."

John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education, in a discussion of problems of post-war education, advised the members of the parent-teacher organization to work for a "unified and aggressive educational leadership in the states, with well conceived plans for post-war educational improvement." New needs forecast greater participation of the federal government in the financial support of educational programs, and the leadership in community or state, or lack of it, would determine between centralized or decentralized control of education in America, he said.

G. L. Maxwell, assistant secretary of the educational policies commission, warned that the educational system of the country was threatened with the fate of the White Knight in "Alice in Wonderland," who couldn't retain his seat on his steed because of his overload of useful but unrelated items—mousetrap, bird cage, shark spurs.

Pressure groups, all with good intent but with the specialist's limited view, are bringing about this situation with continuous demands for added courses to the curriculum, he said. The greatest need of the teaching profession, he asserted, is for "statesmen" in education—the "generalists," who can see the picture as a whole and keep it in balance.

Posing her comment as a question, Mrs. Harry M. Mulberry called attention at a symposium of "The School" to the recent transfer of Dr. John De Boer from the Teachers college faculty to a junior high school in Chicago. Mrs. Mulberry, a member of the national parent-teacher board and president of the Woman's City Club of Chicago, described the De Boer transfer as an "example of the denial of academic freedom."

Good Idea for Tomato Juice

Vitamin-rich! Ruby-red easy treat!

TOMATO JELLY SALAD
(Serves 6; uses ¼ pkg.)

1 envelope Knox Gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups tomato juice
1½ cups diced or shredded vegetables
1 tbsp. mild vinegar
1 tbsp. onion juice

Season tomato juice to taste with salt and a little pepper. Heat to boiling point. Add gelatine which has been softened in the cold water; stir until dissolved. Add vinegar and onion juice (extracted by grating onion). Cool. When it begins to thicken, fold in vegetables. Turn into mold that has been rinsed in cold water. Chill. When firm unmold on salad greens; serve with any desired dressing.

DELICIOUS, real tomato flavor, with lots of Vitamin C. That's what you get in this easy salad made with Knox Gelatine. Try Knox with real fruits and juices, too. Once you've discovered this real taste difference, see if you'll ever go back to artificially flavored mixtures again.

FREE—write to Mrs. Charles B. Knox, Box U S 7, Johnstown, New York, for a copy of her new 40-page recipe book, just off the press.

Miss Abel Is Unable to Meet All Tests of a Song Recital

Among the stubborn incompatibles of the music world are the amateur recital, not to be confused with the début recital, and the professional standard of reviewing—and never the twain shall meet. Wilma Reynolds Abel, who sang at Curtiss hall last night, has an attractive lyric soprano which, properly exploited, might have developed unusual range and luster. Instead, it relies on a highly impromptu technique by no means dependable enough to support a taxing program reckless enough to include the Bell Song from "Lakmé." Miss Abel was more successful with a gentle song like Schumann's "Der Nussbaum," but Robert Macdonald's accompaniments furnished the evening's only professional contribution. C. C.

Under a great many different circumstances it is wise to open a trump, but this most certainly does not apply in such a case as the following.

East, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.
North-South 40 on score.

NORTH

♦ K Q J 10

WEST

♦ A 8 5

SOUTH
♠ K 8 2
♥ 7 5 4
♦ 6 4 3 2
♣ 6 4 2

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	Pass	2 clubs	3 clubs
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	4 clubs
Double	4 diamonds	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

West, figuring that there was no point in opening a suit that North obviously could ruff, led the trump nine. East could have made matters more difficult by ducking, but he thought there was a good chance that West might have the spade king, so he went up with the trump ace and led the ace and low spade, trying for a ruff. Declarer, needless to say, now drew the trumps and claimed the rest of the tricks, thus making the doubled contract with an overtrick.

If West had not been afraid of the very thing he should have welcomed—an immediate shortening of dummy's trumps thru the necessity of ruffing clubs—the result would have been more satisfactory to his side. Dummy would ruff the club lead and declarer then could afford to lead one round of trumps, but if East properly held off, declarer himself would then have to start the spades. East would win the second round and force dummy again with a club. Now declarer would be on the spot. If he led another trump, East would win and cash a club and the trump eight; if declarer didn't lead a second trump, he would be at the mercy of spade and heart ruffs from both sides.

Devote Spare Time to Child, Mothers Told

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Mothers whose husbands have been drafted sometimes are forced to take positions in order to have enough income to keep their homes going and their children properly fed and clothed.

These mothers are not the ones to whom I write when I say, "Don't leave your home every day and turn your children over to some one else to care for, if you can possibly avoid it, since caring for a home and doing a fine job of rearing your children well is part of the fine patriotic American duty." It is to the mothers who could or should stay home with their sons and daughters that I give that advice.

The following letter is from a mother who is deeply aware of what it means for a young son to be deprived of her guidance and companionship:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Your article, in which you stated that a 'sense of security is one of the child's most vital needs,' was indeed interesting. I happen to be one of the mothers who has to work. It is a necessity in my case, and I do realize how much my little son of 7 really needs me at home with him, even tho he has the very best care available. I would appreciate any suggestions you might have to offer."

The only suggestions I could give in this brief space are: First, in the time you do have at home [evenings and week-ends], try to understand your little boy—his ways and his growing needs. And no matter how tired you may be, don't let that betray you into impatience and unnecessary discipline.

Second, make this only spare time you have together count in companionship and the joy of doing things together.

30,000 March in Memorial Parade Sunday

An estimated 30,000 veterans of past wars and of the present conflict will parade in Michigan av. from Chicago av. to Roosevelt rd. next Sunday in the annual Memorial day tribute to heroes who have fallen in battle.

Sponsored by the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial association and coöperating veterans' units, the parade will include a handful of civil war veterans. Last year there were seven; this year, five have indicated they will attend. One of these, James H. Lewis, 103, Negro, of 5401 S. Wabash av., will be driven along the line of march in an ambulance. Despite failing health, he insisted on participating, Walter Jasper, adjutant general of the parade, said.

Another civil war soldier, Capt. Thomas Ambrose, 96, of 4358 Drexel blvd., will serve as grand marshal of the parade for his sixth consecutive year. Others scheduled to attend are William Lockwod, 97, of 4457 Magnolia av.; James Crugom, 94, 7229 Rogers av., and James Harvey, Negro, of Robbins.

Three hundred veterans of the present conflict are expected to march with veterans' units. Adjutant Jasper announced that members of Red Cross units will parade in the memorial for the first time, and that the Great Lakes naval station and Navy pier bands also are scheduled to march.

Army and navy attaches, city and state officials, and disabled veterans will occupy the reviewing stand. The parade, the adjutant said, is to be held on Sunday rather than Memorial day to avoid drawing veterans from war plants. It will begin at 2 p. m., rain or shine, he said.

Ravinia Club Holds Its Annual Garden Market on Saturday

North shore suburbanites will have an opportunity to stock their vegetable gardens on Saturday, for that has been set as the date for the annual garden mart sponsored by the Ravinia Garden club in the Ravinia Village park. Numerous varieties of perennials, annuals, bulbs, and vegetable flats will be offered at the sale, proceeds from which will go, as in former years, toward maintenance of various civic projects undertaken by the club since its founding. Mrs. Remy Hudson, food chairman, has announced a complete picnic luncheon will be available to shoppers. Mrs. Ralph Archer, general chairman, is being assisted in arrangements by the president, Mrs. Hugh Riddle, and Mrs. Deforest Colburn.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. R. O'Rorke, 222 S. Kenilworth, Oak Park—When I have rubber bands I find that by keeping them in a covered jar in refrigerator they last longer and stretch farther.

Mrs. Fred B., Chicago—I use a spatula to lift suds from upholstered furniture when cleaning it the dry-suds way. Cleaned a needlepoint footstool this way last week—with a light touch and a circular motion, and it came out beautifully. Don't use enough moisture to streak or soak!

Mrs. Ed W., Peoria, Ill.—If you aren't an experienced seamstress, here's a way I've found that's easy for sewing on snaps. I sew the bottom one on first, then cover top of it with chalk and press chalked top where the other half of the snap must go. In this way no mistake is made in getting the exact spot—and very little effort is required.

If Girls Won't Date You, Try to Find Reason

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

on the SOLID side

Just in case your dating average isn't as high as you'd like it to be, even with the man power shortage or all the honeychiles turn down your date offers on weekends to catch up on next week's homework or to help their mothers make strawberry jam, there may be a reason. Here's a list of woes sent in by gals who find their current dates, for some small fault, fall short just this side of Victor Mature.

Check the list and see where you stand:

1. After having dated a girl a few times, too many fellows begin to disregard "manners"—such things as holding open a door, waiting till a girl is seated, letting her go first after the usher in a movie, helping her on or off with her coat—and those courtesies mean a lot to a girl.

2. A really smooth date doesn't spend one evening talking about all the other girls he's taken out that month. Girls are broad minded but they don't like to hear about "cute Jane" or "that Marie, she's a card!" all evening. Boys should concentrate on the business at hand.

3. Too often boys don't have "time" to make friends with a girl's family. While waiting to pick up their date, they sit without talking or trying to be friendly. It may be shyness or self-consciousness but that impression is hard to wipe out no matter how hard a girl tries to convince her mother and dad that her current hunk of man is wonderful.

4. Maybe it's the approach that's wrong. No girl likes to be called on the phone and asked "you're not busy Friday night, are you?" in a voice that implies that the fellow is sure she isn't and he wouldn't be calling her if he hadn't checked on that fact with the boys beforehand. Give her some credit for being desirable date bait.

5. Too many joe blows think it necessary to put on a show of great amour at the end of the evening, just to give it a final manly touch, when the girl would much prefer a kindly pat on the head and a fatherly "be good." It makes a doorstep crisis embarrassing to both.

If you gals have any other "little boy blues," or vice versa, send them in. We'll be glad to print your gripes of wrath.

Iturbi Quits as Conductor of Rochester Philharmonic

Rochester, N. Y., May 23 (AP).—Jose Iturbi, Spanish born conductor and pianist, resigned today as conductor and musical director of the Rochester Philharmonic orchestra. L. Dudley Field, president of the city's Civic Music association, in announcing the resignation, said Iturbi's action was prompted by the requirements of current movie contracts. Iturbi served as guest conductor of the Philharmonic from 1934 to 1936 and in 1937 took over the post on a permanent basis. Field said the orchestra, for the coming season, will be led by a group of guest conductors.

SYNOPSIS—Joseph Higgins delivers seven letters accepting service in Heron's Park military hospital. Dr. Gervase Eden hopes to escape from a fashionable practice. Jane Woods, dress designer, gives up her career to become a nurses' aid. Esther Sanson, against the wishes of a neurotic mother, offers her services. Dr. Moon, whose only son was killed, hopes to escape loneliness. Dr. Barnes, exonerated for the loss of a life under the anesthetic, welcomes a change. Frederica Linley, whose wealthy father remarries, prefers nursing to home. Nurse Marion Bates is in search of romance. Within a year, one of the writers of these letters will die, a self-confessed murderer. Dr. Eden tires of his flirtation with Sister Bates. It's love at first sight for Dr. Barnes when he sees Frederica. During an air raid Esther remains on duty to help Frederica. Joseph Higgins is brought in with a fractured femur. Esther looks after him. A second victim arrives. During a lull Dr. Barnes comes to the booth to see Freddi. He is followed by Dr. Eden, who kisses her. Sister Bates, finding him in the booth, creates a scene. To protect Freddi, Woods lures Gervase into a flirtation. Esther takes Higgins to the operating theater. Dr. Barnes gives the anesthetic, under which Higgins dies. On the night Higgins was admitted, a masked figure took the key to the operating theater from its hook. Inspector Cockrill asks Dr. Barnes to demonstrate his anesthetizing apparatus. At a hospital party Sister Bates declares she has proof of the murder. She is found by Woods in the operating theater, murdered. Cockrill summons six persons, Drs. Moon, Eden, and Barnes, Freddi, Woods, and Esther.

RESPECTIVE WHEREABOUTS.

"I went after Sister Bates," said Eden. "I thought she was much too whistled to go across the grounds by herself, and that she'd soon repent of her refusal to let me see her to her quarters. She must have run like a lamplighter, because I never caught her up; I went by the path around the hospital right across to the sisters' mess, and waited there for about five minutes, but she didn't turn up, so I supposed she must have gone in. I came back the other way, in case she should have gone up the avenue and thru the hospital."

"So she did," said Maj. Moon. "I met her legging it up like a kid afraid of the dark. She said something was following her; of course I thought it was all imagination; she'd obviously had a little too much to drink."

"And now it turns out that it wasn't imagination," said Freddi.

They glanced at each other uneasily, and hurriedly looked away. One of them had followed her up the avenue, crept after her, poor fluttered, terrified, panic stricken girl, like an animal, in the dark.

Barney, shuddering, put out his hand to Freddi: "At least you're safe, darling; at least it couldn't have been you! You were on the ward, and nobody can question your movements."

"Except that they consisted largely of sitting in the booth, darling, with everybody sound asleep all around me and not having the faintest idea of what I was up to!"

"And the operating theater so handy, just across the hall," said Woods, grinning.

Barney's face fell. "This is beginning to look rather awkward," said Maj. Moon. "I went back to my room in the mess, after I met Sister Bates in the avenue; but I can't prove that. Where were you, Barney, my boy?"

Barnes looked uncomfortable. "I'm afraid you'll think it was cheek, Eden, especially as you've just said that you did go after her—but I thought it was wrong to let the girl go off on her own. I'd taken Esther to the party, but she said she'd find Woody and go back with her, so I went along to see if I could catch up with Bates; only I took a few minutes explaining to Esther, and I must have missed her."

"Which way did you go?" said Eden.

"The same way as you went; along the path round the hospital."

"I didn't see you," said Gervase.

"Well, for that matter, I didn't see you, old boy," said Barnes.

"What did you do after that, Barney," asked Woods. Barnes replied that he had come straight back to the mess, and gone to bed.

"Well, I think this is fun," said Woody. "Every single one of us was lurking about the grounds last night except Freddi and she wouldn't have had to lurk. What about you, Esther, darling? I suppose you looked around for me, decided that I'd gone on with—some one or other—and went over to quarters all by your little self?"

"Yes, that's exactly what I did do," said Esther, wearily.

"No one saw you come home, I suppose?" suggested Moon.

"No, of course not; Freddi was on duty and Woods was in the hospital, making her great discovery."

"So there isn't one of us that couldn't have been the murderer!" cried Woody, gaily.

Esther moved restlessly on her hard office chair. "You've established that any of us could have murdered Bates, you and Frederica between you; that's about all the good so far."

"Not all of us; Maj. Moon couldn't have done it, now that I come to think of it," said Woody, smiling at him.

"Thanks very much," said Maj. Moon. "But why not me?"

"Because you had no motive."

"What motive did the rest of us have?" said Eden, irritably.

"Well, that's obvious. She knew who had murdered Higgins, and she had the proof and she was going to tell the detective."

"You don't for a moment believe that any of us did it, Woody," said Esther, "or you wouldn't be talking like that about it."

Woods laughed, wagging her head, half defiant, half ashamed. "Well, I do and I don't; my logic tells me that one of us must have; my sentiment tells me that it's quite ridiculous that any of us could have; and my curiosity makes me go on probing about to find out which of us did! Now, for example, we all heard Bates saying she had proof about the murder."

"Except Freddi," said Barnes.

"She dropped into the ward to tell me all about it, darling," said Frederica, laughing.

"Yes, so she did!—well, I mean, she could have; we don't know that she didn't. But we do know that Maj. Moon wasn't at the party when she made her speech. He was doing his round."

"Actually he was talking to me in the booth," said Freddi.

"Well, all right, darling; it doesn't matter where he was; the point is that he didn't hear what Bates said about her having discovered the murderer."

"As it happens, I did hear it," said Moon mildly, "I heard it from her afterwards; she told me when I met her in the avenue. I thought it was just nonsense."

"So did we all think it was just nonsense," said Gervase.

"Only of course it wasn't nonsense, after all," insisted Woods, "and the murderer knew that, and he followed her up the avenue and got ahead of her and hid in the theater . . ."

"How did he know she was going to the theater?"

"My dear, she told us she had it hidden in the theater! When she went in and got it, he—well, he stabbed her, poor little thing; and took it away . . ."

"And where is it now?" said Frederica.

"The proof was at this moment in the operating theater, right under Cockrill's nose, if he and they had but known it," Gervase said. "You're being very clever and constructive, Woody, my dear, but there's one thing you haven't explained. What were you doing, going to the theater at midnight?"

"I discovered the murderer," said Woody uncertainly.

CHICAGO DROPS BIG 10 SPORTS TILL WAR ENDS

Lack of Athletes Is Cause of Action.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The University of Chicago yesterday notified the faculty committee of the Western conference and the directors of athletics of the member schools that it would be unable to put teams into formal Big Ten competition next year. The announcement was made at this time the university said because the conference basketball schedule for 1945 will be drawn Friday at the meeting of coaches and directors in the Sherman hotel.

Aaron J. Brumbaugh, dean of students at Chicago, wrote the notification letter after conferring with Kyle Anderson, acting director of athletics, and Lt. Comdr. Nelson Metcalf, on leave as director of athletics.

Will Resume After War.

Chicago withdrew from football competition in 1939. Yesterday's abandonment of all other sports leaves the university without formal association with the Western conference for the first time since the intercollegiate association was formed in 1896. Chicago, however, is not withdrawing from the conference, since Dean Brumbaugh said that the university would resume competition after the war in all sports except football.

According to Dean Brumbaugh, Chicago will be unable to enter into formal competition because of the lack of athletes. While the total registration of civilian students, undergraduate and graduate, for the spring quarter is 3,850, only a few hundred are eligible for intercollegiate competition.

Offers Its Facilities.

Dean Brumbaugh emphasized that the action is strictly a war measure. "Our decision has been dictated by conditions arising out the war," he wrote, "and is concerned solely with the war period. As soon as conditions are normal, the university will resume its usual participation in the conference. Meanwhile, any of our facilities which the conference may wish to use for its championship events will continue to be available to it."

Chicago's withdrawal simplifies the work of the conference basketball coaches in arranging the league's 1945 schedule. Last winter Chicago had only eight games while other conference teams played 12. The Maroons did not win a game and ran their string of consecutive conference defeats to 40.

May Threaten Records.

Altho Chicago will not have team representation in the conference until the war is concluded, a Big Ten director yesterday pointed out that if Chicago wishes, it may enter one or more individuals in such conference meets as golf, tennis, and track. The Maroons entered 12 men in the indoor track meet last March and are expected to be represented in the 44th outdoor meet Saturday in Champaign.

While all conference records are considered safe from the challenge of this year's competitors, there is a possibility that Ross and Bob Hume of Michigan may approach the conference mile mark of 4:10.8 which was set by Don Lash of Indiana in 1936. The brothers ran a dead heat last Saturday in winning the mile in the meet at Purdue in 4:16.4. If they go all out this week, instead of attempting another tie, Lash's record may be broken.

MICHIGAN BEATS BRONCOS, 9 TO 0, IN TENNIS FINAL

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 23 [Special].—The University of Michigan tennis team swamped Western Michigan, 9 to 0, today. This gave the Wolverines a final dual meet record of eight victories and one defeat.

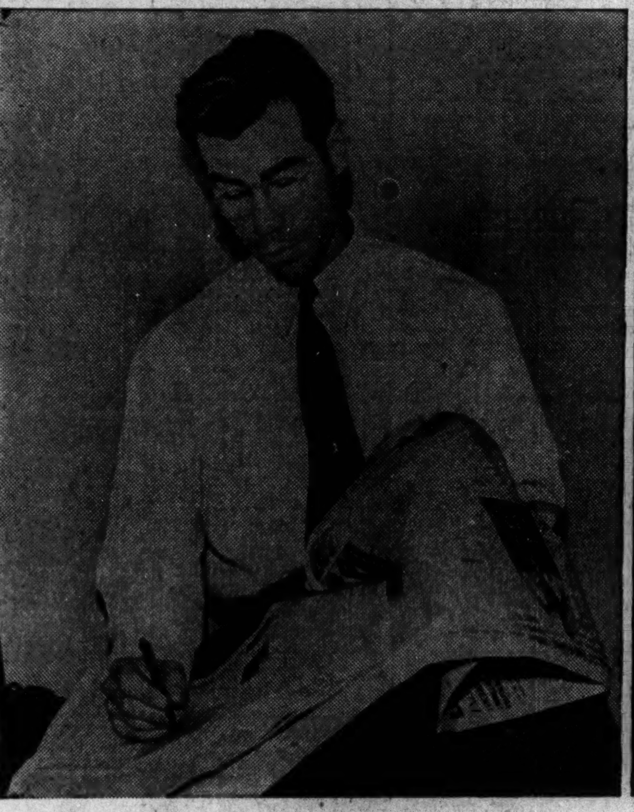
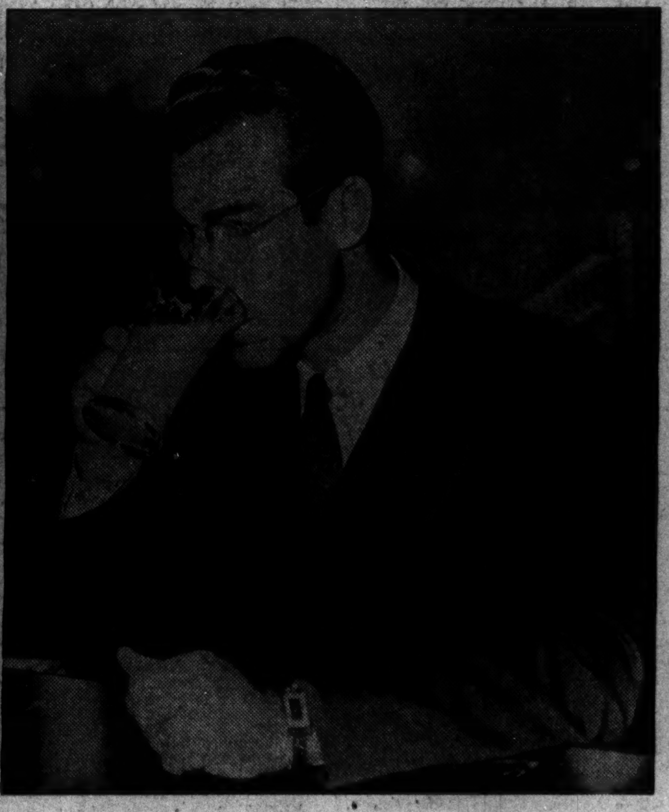
BESPECTACLED TUCKER MAKES SOUTH SIDE FANS GOGGLE-EYED



When the Sox meet the Yanks tonight under the Comiskey park lights, the 30,000 fans will give a big cheer for Thurman Tucker, league leading hitter, whose play in center field also has been spectacular. He checks current .395 average.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

At least one White Sox fan, Thelma Gettner, 5538 Cornell av., couldn't wait until tonight's big doings to get a glimpse of the bespectacled outfielder. Always obliging, Thurman signs Miss Gettner's autograph book in the Broadyiew hotel, where the Sox star and his family stay during the season.



Tucker soaks up orange juice—for vitamins and base hits. In four recent games against the Yankees in New York, three of which the Sox won, the Texas league graduate lifted his average to .413. He tripled to win the final contest in the 10th.

LINCOLN FIELDS' BETTING UP 50%

$651,774 Wagered on Eight $1,500 Races.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

A good week day crowd of 11,258 went to the Lincoln Fields races at Hawthorne Park again yesterday and, while the day's betting was considerably short of the preceding afternoon when $736,186 poured thru the mutuel windows, it still was enough to exceed by approximately 50 per cent the business done on the corresponding day of last year.

The day's wagering on a program of eight $1,500 races, none of which drew any standout thorobreds, reached $651,774, being the fifth time the handle had gone over the $600,000 mark in the seven days of the Lincoln Fields meeting. The seventh day of the 1943 session showed total betting of $392,816.

Strength Wins Feature.

Otto Grohs, John Marsch's contract rider from California, brought in W. W. Crenshaw's Strength, 7 year old son of High Quest-Peggy Wrack, in the featured sixth race, a claiming affair for 3 year olds and upward after working out of a bad jam in the stretch. R. Lerner's Gooseberry, a son of Equipoise, ridden by Claude Hooper, took the place from G. E. Lewis' fast closing Snowfly. The winner paid $9.60.

Strength's triumph gave Grohs his second in a row for he was aboard E. Rea's Gypsy Lass in the preceding race, a claiming event for 3 year olds and upward in which H. W. Ostle's Epizar, the favorite, took second and Mrs. E. B. Shipp's Commencement lasted for third. Gypsy Lass paid $9.20.

Daily Double Pays $207.60.

The daily double refunded $207.60, the highest of the meeting, when J. N. Dioguardi's Keenan, an 18 to 1 shot, took the first race and F. O. Sanders' Madam High captured the second. Keenan paid $39.60 for a $2 win ticket and Madam High's price was $6.60.

The River Divide farm's Brief Sigh and the Brolite farm's Challenge Me, two thorobreds which had their moments as candidates for the recent Kentucky Derby, are probable starters among 37 nominated for the Francis Peabody Memorial stakes, feature of the Lincoln Fields Memorial day program next Tuesday at Hawthorne Park.

Bluejackets, Trucks Beat Red Sox, 3-1

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Behind the two hit pitching of Virgil Trucks, former Detroit Tiger hurler, Great Lakes' baseball team scored its sixth straight victory at the naval center yesterday, defeating the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 1.

Trucks struck out 12 of the major league batsmen while pitching his first full game of the season, issued only one walk, and contributed a double. Yank Terry, the Boston pitcher, yielded eight hits.

May Leads Attack.

Merrill May, former Philadelphia Phillies' third baseman, led the Sailors' batting attack, getting three hits in four appearances at the plate.

The Sailors scored in the first inning on two hits and an error. Al Glossop, first man up, was safe when Manager Joe Cronin juggled an infield grounder. He went to second on May's single and scored on a double by Billy Herman, former Chicago Cub and Brooklyn Dodger infielder. The game was tied in the fifth inning on Bobby Doerr's infield hit, Trucks' error, Skeeter Newsome's sacrifice, and Bill Conroy's infield out.

McCullough Scores.

Clyde McCullough, former Cub catcher, scored what proved to be the winning run in the eighth inning. He singled, went to third on Trucks' double, and scored on Glossop's single. The pitcher later scored on Herman's fly to right field.

The Game Is On.

Each day of our lives there's a game we all play
And none are mere spectators here
Who sit on the sidelines apart from the fray
To cavil and boo, or to cheer.
There are few stellar roles in this contest called life,
But there's something that each one can do;
Never think of small moment your part in the strife
For the team is depending on you.

There are times when the outlook is not very bright
And our spirits are heavy with dread,
But the least extra effort may win for the right
When the issue just hangs by a thread.
Our goal may be stakes that are worthy and high
And each day with new chances is rife,
To boost for our team with a sturdier try,
As we play in this game of life.

2 Dodger Runs in Ninth Beat Giants, 3 to 2

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 23 (AP).—Johnny Rucker's error on Lloyd Waner's fly ball after colliding with Charley Mead gave Brooklyn two runs in the last of the ninth inning and a 3 to 2 victory over the New York Giants tonight. A crowd of 22,145 turned out for the first night game in the metropolitan area since 1941.

Pinch Runner Hal Gregg and Frenchy Bordagaray scored when Rucker was unable to hold the ball and was charged with a two base error.

MOUNT CARMEL HONORS 22 AT SCHOOL BANQUET

Twenty-two monograms, 12 of them to members of the Catholic league and All-City senior champions, were awarded last night at the annual Mount Carmel basketball banquet in the school gymnasium.

Speakers included the Rev. Ambrose Casey, O. Carm., principal; the Rev. Terrence Fitzgerald, O. Carm., athletic director; Basketball Coach John Tracy, and Football Coach Wally Fromhart, who will enter the navy next Monday as a lieutenant [j. g.].

Members of the team voted Jim Gleason captain of the 1944-'45 senior team and Jack Kelleher was named junior captain for next year.

Senior monograms were won by Capt. Ed Rose, George Benigni, Frank Lake, Willie Thomas, Joe O'Brien, Jack O'Leary, Bill O'Halloran, Ed O'Rourke, Walter Miller, Jack Walsh, Lou Blankmeire, Dick Danahan, and Manager Ed Roche. Junior award winners were Capt. Maurice Ahern, Jim Gleason, Joe Clair, Ernie Horvath, Bob Carroll, Jack Rohan, Jack Kelleher, Chuck Doherty, and Frank Healy.

CUBS BID FOR 5TH IN ROW TONIGHT

Erickson or Passeau to Pitch in Philadelphia.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charley Grimm will start showing off his Cubs tonight in the eastern portion of the National league, Philadelphia to be exact, and, while they are basement addicts, the Cubs nevertheless have something to display. Don't they own a four game winning streak and, in addition to this, didn't they let loose a double header roar last Sunday which mounted into 29 runs and 31 hits? If the Cubs can hit even half that well it shouldn't take them long to move their belongings out of the cellar.

On the showing of the Cubs this far it now is fairly evident that those who said the National league's strength, Chicago excepted, was in the west, weren't wrong by much. The fans should have no trouble recalling the experiences of their pals while they were on a diet made up exclusively of Cardinals, Reds, and Pirates. The eastern meat proved far more palatable for the Cubs. Now they are to have some more of the same and, if they don't grow weary, could make a rapid ascent to something like fifth place.

It's Passeau or Erickson.

When the tour opens tonight under the Shibe park lights Boss Grimm won't know until the last few minutes whether he's going to start Claude Passeau or Paul Erickson. Herr Grimm prefers Passeau, but the condition of his back, where a cold recently settled, won't be known until Claude has a chance to warm up. If Erickson pitches it will be his first 1944 start and under the lights he may be a success. With his speed and customary wildness, a deadly combination at night, the batters will show more concern about safety first than base hits.

Ed Hanyzewski, the other crippled member of Grimm's limited staff, is expected to be able to work in the Phillies' series. He pulled a muscle in his working elbow last week and his exercise since then has included everything except throwing. He's going to try a little of the latter tonight, either by serving in batting practice or just warming up. If there is no pain he'll know the answer.

They're Winning for Charley.

Having won seven while losing eight since he relieved Jim Wilson as boss, Grimm naturally thinks he has found the proper combination. In fact, he has two of them, one with Ival Goodman and Dom Dallessandro in the outfield against right handed pitching, and Ed Sauer and Andy Pafko against southpaws. Both setups include Bill Schuster at short in place of Len Merullo.

Before quitting town last evening, the Cubs announced that Outfielder John Ostrowski, native Chicagoan, had been returned to the Los Angeles club.

FRESH START IN RACE AIM OF DYKES' TEAM

Grove vs. Bonham in Comiskey Park.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago, home of the I Will spirit and tail end baseball clubs, will have its first 1944 night game in Comiskey park tonight. It will be the world champion New York Yankees, league leaders at the moment, versus Jim Dykes' do-and-don't White Sox, retossed into the American league cellar when they flopped in four straight games in Boston last week-end. The boys in the Comiskey park counting room say more than 30,000 will be on hand.

Altho baseball statistics say the White Sox are the American league's worst right now, there is evidence in rebuttal when one thinks of face-to-face competition against the Yankees.

On May 16, 17, and 18—last Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday—the White Sox made the Yankees, including their leading pitchers, look like panicky sandlotters. On those dates the Sox, powerful and eager, with no hint of their normal drowsiness at any time, whipped the champs, 10 to 4, 4 to 0, and 8 to 4.

Something Happened in Boston.

The great show of spirit was expected to carry on into Boston, where the Red Sox were the cellar occupants as the White Sox moved out of New York for Boston. What happened there needs no detailed repeating. Suffice it to say that Manager Dykes, who lost his grip on the team in Boston, is out to revive the genius of leadership he displayed in priming his lads for their successes in New York.

Those 30,000 plus in Comiskey park tonight should get their money's worth and they have an excellent chance to see Orval Grove and the Sox whip Ernie Bonham and the Yankees.

In any event it will be worth the price of admission to most real Sox fans to see Thurman Tucker, the American league batting pace setter, do his stuff.

The goggled Texan had a great series in New York. During the set in Yankee stadium he lifted his season batting mark to .413 and made several catches that had New York fans sobbing aloud as they were reminded anew of the absence of their Joe Di Maggio.

Yankee Fans Like Thurman.

New York, always keen to appreciate visiting talent as well as the Yankee brand, really went overboard for Tucker. And if he plays a similar series against the Yankees during their current four day visit the Sox fans will forget they are stuck with a cellar outfit and will form Tucker marching clubs. Such things couldn't happen to a finer, a more modest, a more earnest fellow than Mr. T.

The Yankees themselves remember Tucker as a great outfielder, of which they have found themselves virtually fresh out of, and they also remember the farewell caress Tucker gave them in the tenth inning of the final game in New York—a triple with the bases loaded, two out, and the score tied, 4 to 4.

Fans also will get a look at Eddie Carnett, who made his debut as the regular left fielder at the start of the first victorious game in New York. He has been doing a lot of hitting and has a knack for getting on base when he doesn't hit 'em to safe terrain.

This Is an Outfield!

And they also will be able to welcome hustling Wally Moses, who rounds out the outfield that really made the Yankee outfielders, Ed Levy, Johnny Lindell, and Bud Metheny, look terrible in the New York series.

In fact, the Chicago fans may actually see a better team representing Chicago than the one playing for New York, the 5½ game difference between the lead and the tail end notwithstanding. This providing that Dykes again can get his players interested in baseball, as they were in New York and weren't in Boston last week.

WHITE BASS RUN LURES ANGLERS TO WOLF RIVER

Expect Good Fishing to Continue Thru Week.

BY BOB BECKER.

Despite peculiar spring weather, the white bass in Wolf river in Wisconsin are staging their annual migration in the same old way and they are furnishing many a meal to anglers who are visiting that famous stream.

When we were on the river last week we were lucky in hitting a very warm evening . . . the kind that is just right for the "stripers" which each May travel upstream from the lakes. Fishing with George Dobbins of Weyauwega and Tony Massoras of Fremont for a few hours at our favorite spot below the Fremont bridge, we found the fish definitely in a hitting mood, and they gave us a pretty lively time until almost dark.

Expect Run to Continue.

Residents on the Wolf river expect that the run of white bass will produce good fishing thru this week, and very likely into next week. Just how long the run will last and how well the fish will hit always is in the lap of the weatherman. Because camps are rather crowded along the river, we advise fishermen going to the Wolf to make sure they have accommodations before they leave home.

While in the Wolf river country we teamed up with Fred Bauer and explored the Crystal river and the Radley, two streams in which there are brown trout. The Crystal is a beautiful little singing stream that bounces over a rocky bed and is wide enough for fly fishing, so we tossed all kinds of patterns at 'em but with no luck. The Radley where we hit it [beyond the little hamlet called Rural] is largely a bait stream. It's clear, but quite small. There are a few rainbows in this stream, and we hooked a small one 5 minutes after we had started to fish.

Farmers Control Traffic.

The farmers in that vicinity have a reasonable way to control the traffic thru their pastures to the Radley. They make a small charge for fishing. The farmer who waved us thru his barnyard gate said it was 25 cents for a day, or he'd give you a ticket good for the whole season for $1. Which is fair enough.

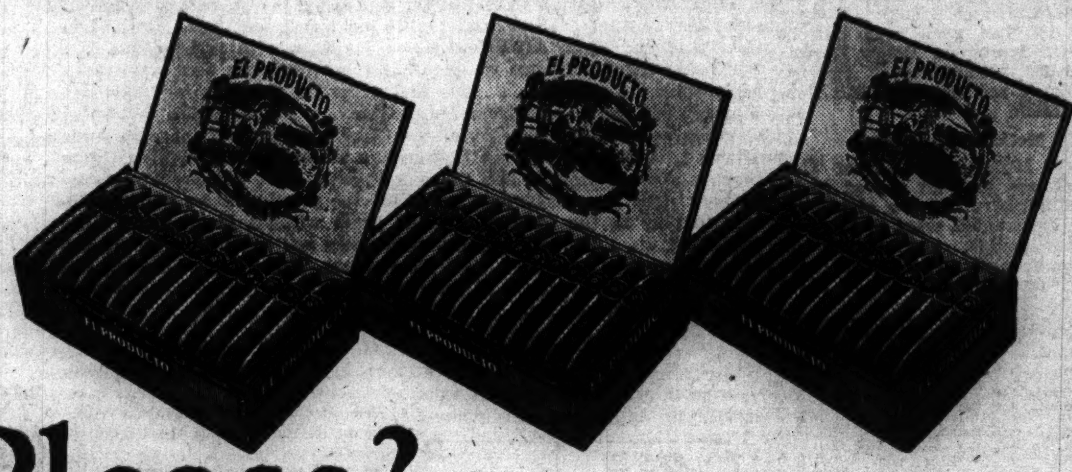
What Size, Please?



For many years, you have seen this famous little El Producto sign on cigar cases all over the country—your invitation to real enjoyment.
Today, too frequently that little sign must add—"El Producto is out of stock—please ask again tomorrow."
THE REASONS? The needs of the armed forces; war labor conditions; a civilian demand that is greater than ever. The best brands are the scarcest.
We are making all the El Producto possible, without sacrificing quality. We are trying to distribute the supply fairly so that no territory will be out of El Producto for long. Be patient—your dealer is doing his best.

PICK MICHIGAN TO WIN BIG TEN TITLES AT N. U.

Northwestern university will be host to the Big Ten golf and tennis tournaments this week-end for the second consecutive year. The golf tournament will be held at the Medinah Country club Saturday and the tennis meet on the university courts in Evanston, Saturday and Sunday.

Michigan is expected to win both events. The Wolverines swept thru an undefeated tennis campaign while the golf team suffered one defeat in six starts. The lone loss, at the hands of Ohio State early in the season, was avenged later in a return match.

Eight Schools Entered.

A field of 37 players will tee off in the golf tournament, which will be played over Medinah's No. 1 course. Every school except Chicago and Iowa will be represented. The tournament will consist of 36 holes of medal play with the scores of the first four players figuring in the team total.

The battle for individual honors is wide open. Among the outstanding contenders are Bill Marcellus of Michigan, Jack Culp of Purdue, Louis Lick and Jim Harris of Minnesota, and Warren Williamson of Northwestern.

Two Buckeye Veterans.

Michigan's tennis team is led by the Veteran Alden Johnson who is also expected to make a strong bid for the individual title. Ohio State has only two holdovers from last year's championship team, the Franklin brothers, Aris and Alex. Northwestern, which dropped close decisions to Michigan and Ohio State last week, will pin its hope on the Veteran Harrie Hall and a group of newcomers, Dave White, Bill Roper, Frank Clawson, Art Meyer, and Lane Fortinbury.

Chicago Area Clubs Await Golf Season

[This is the first of a series of articles on the plans for the third war year of member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association. Other articles will appear from time to time.]

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

What do the member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association, only center in the game to sustain it on a full time basis since Pearl Harbor, propose to do in this third war time year? How has the man power shortage affected the operation of their clubhouses and maintenance of their courses? How are they combating the dearth of golf balls, most serious famine in the game this year? What is their answer to transportation difficulties? How is the caddie problem being solved? Has club membership fallen off or increased?

These and a number of other pertinent questions are included in a survey which is being circulated among presidents of C. D. G. A. member clubs. The same type of questionnaire was mailed to presidents last year, and proved quite successful in that it enabled them to discover how clubs of membership and financial status comparable to their own were teeing off on war time problems.

Show Increase in Membership.

Among the first replies to the 1944 survey were the following:

RIDGEMOOR—Club has a full membership and a waiting list of eight. Ninety-five new members have been taken in since last year. Location of club is attractive to caddies, and, barring a nominal increase in fees, there has been no problem. Dining room will be open all week with exception of Mondays. A bus line operates within two blocks of club entrance. Eight regular members are in service, and 40 to 50 members' children. Many members have a share-the-ride plan. Club continually urges members to turn in old golf balls, asking them to make this a personal job. Annual jabber walk tournament will be held Aug. 16. No club victory garden planned, since members prefer to operate in their own territories. Thomas D. Griffin is president.

SKOKIE—Club membership shows increase over 1943, with 25 new members. Approximately 30 members are in service. Club using older men employes who are not suited to war work. Caddies are younger boys and are being provided with amusements, such as basketball and baseball. Dining room will be open as usual, except on Monday. Nearest points of transportation are Park av. station of Northwestern railroad in Glencoe, or Harbor st. station of North Shore electric, one-half mile from club. A great number share rides. On golf ball shortage, club is circularizing members to turn in old ones and cautioning them to be careful in their use. The annual Skokie Kilties day will be held as usual. Robert Stupple will remain as professional. Club will run a victory garden. President is O. P. [Cap] Alford.

Operate Victory Gardens.

TAM O' SHANTER—Membership is 13 per cent over last year, with 61 new members. Twenty-four regular members and 58 sons of members are in service. Club reports no trouble on man power to date. Class A caddies are being paid $1.50 for 18 holes, and class B $1.25. The club dining room will be open every day for all meals. Touhy av. bus runs within quarter mile of club. Club has no car pooling plan. Professional Bill Gordon has 3,000 reprocessed balls in stock. The annual Doon-the-Burn day is set for July 21. Thirty-three members are operating victory gardens on club property. George S. May is president.

SOUTH SHORE—Membership is up 10 per cent over 1943. Approximately 15 per cent of regular members and their children are in service. Three dining rooms will operate all sumer. Transportation ideal, with Illinois Central electric at front gate. Club asks all members to turn in old balls. Annual invitational will be held. John Bird and Jim Herd remain as professionals. Club will not run victory garden, since its soil is not adapted to cultivation. Frederick Herendeen is president.

High School Boys Help.

LA GRANGE—This club, which is entering its 45th year, has a full membership, with a waiting list. Fifteen regular members are in service. Using less maintenance help, with high school boys relping out in summer period. House employes work overtime to maintain complete service. Caddie committee plans to have sports equipment to keep boys interested when idle. Dining room open all week except Monday. Burlington railroad affords excellent transportation. A campaign is being conducted for return of old balls, and the water in the creek has been allowed to run off so that the number of lost balls will be reduced. Club will hold an invitational and will be scene of Chicago Women's district tournament. Maurie White is in his seventh year as professional.

Chicago Latin concluded its season with a 3 to 1 victory over Wheaton academy on the Latin diamond yesterday to gain a share of the Private School league title. The league race ended in a four way tie between University High, North Shore, Concordia, and Latin, each with five wins and two losses.

For the second consecutive day Lindblom defeated Farragut, 3 to 2, in Byrne field. The victory moved Lindblom into the Central section lead in the City league baseball race.

Squeeze Play Works.

Farragut scored both its runs in the third inning. Lindblom scored one in the fourth, and tied it up in the fifth inning when Left Fielder Albert Yarocki walked, stole second, advanced to third on a fly ball, and stole home. The winning run was made in the sixth inning when Richard Stefanisin doubled, moved to third on a sacrifice, and scored on a squeeze play.

Crane Tech continued its close race with Marshall in the West section by defeating Steinmetz, 2 to 1, in Altgeld park in a postponed game. Gene Revell, the winning pitcher, allowed Steinmetz only one hit.

Kelly Bats Twice!

In a freak game played in the Central section, Kelly scored 12 runs in the first inning and 16 runs in the second inning against Phillips in McKinley park. Kelly did not bat from the third inning on, allowing Phillips to take its turn at bat until its remaining 15 outs were made.

I need no reassurance of your love
Because I know
That surely as stars shine above
And spring winds blow
It is as much mine as the dress I wear;
The flowers in my hair,
Your heart belongs to me

I know past doubt and tears and pain
Love will not come to me like this Again.

OLYMPIA FIELDS GOLFERS ATTAIN GOAL OF $300,000

The fight of members of the Olympia Fields Country club to save a part of the club's property as a golf course appeared to be near success yesterday when Olympia officials said that the sum of $300,000 necessary for a proposed reorganization had been raised.

The matter now will go to the club's bondholders for final approval. The club filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy last Dec. 31 and immediately several offers for the property were made with the idea of using it for purposes other than golf.

Members formed a reorganization committee, headed by W. E. Crocombe, and submitted a plan for continuing operations on a new basis. Under this plan, approved by Federal Judge John P. Barnes on May 5, 340 acres of the club's property, which amounts to 667 in all, will be offered for sale and parts of the Nos. 1, 2, and 3 courses of the present layout will be reconstructed into a single 18 hole course. The present No. 4 championship course will remain unchanged.

NEW OPA RULES EXPECTED FOR WORK CLOTHING

Spokesmen for the office of price administration said yesterday they expected the OPA soon would inaugurate a new set of price controls in the work clothing field designed to halt rising prices of clothes and textiles, to stop a decline in quality, and to make more low priced clothing available to the public.

The program is expected to be based on recommendations contained in a report submitted yesterday by the OPA's consumer advisory committee, of which Miss Hazel Kyrk of the University of Chicago faculty is chairman.

There may be more ice cream this summer but it will not be any cheaper, the OPA said. Recently it authorized a 10 per cent increase in materials to manufacturers, but yesterday extended current price ceilings until Aug. 23.

Edwin F. Janssen of St. Paul, Minn., president of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, is conferring with OPA officials in Washington, D. C., in an effort to induce the agency to remove its ban on the sale of beef tenderloin to buyers other than hotels and restaurants, the association headquarters in Chicago said yesterday.

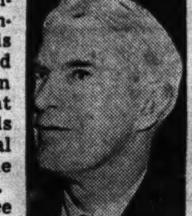
DUMPING OF WAR SURPLUS GOODS PROBED IN HOUSE

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—W. L. Clayton, surplus war property administrator, told the house military affairs committee today his three months old agency has taken steps to prevent further scandals in the disposal of goods by the army and navy.



W. L. Clayton.

The committee was considering legislation to create a board to supervise surplus property disposition.

"We hear many tales and rumors," said Rep. Harness [R., Ind.] in propounding a question. "There's the rumor of the sale of several hundred pairs of nylon stockings for 5 cents a pair. Then there were some shovels with handles damaged by a fire and sold for junk at 1½ cents a pound. There have been similar stories about automobile batteries and machine tools. What is your office doing to prevent such incidents?"

Admits Some Stories True.

"We've investigated some of these stories and found some of them true," Clayton replied. "We have issued an order to the government owning agencies requiring them to turn over their surpluses to the newly designated disposal agencies, including the treasury department and the Reconstruction Finance corporation. We have set a policy for fair prices."

The nylon stocking rumor was not amplified.

In discussing the functions of his job, Clayton said he has asked the army and navy to dig out their surpluses and to declare them as surplus while the market is good.

"While the war is on," the administrator continued, "the civilian market is hungry for goods. The taxpayers can receive a good price for the property to be sold. The war time sales tend to arrest inflation."

Tells of Treasury Sales.

Clayton said the treasury department, which handles consumer goods only, was selling surplus property at a rate of 10 to 12 million dollars worth of merchandise monthly.

"I've heard a figure as high as 40 million," said Harness.

"That's a gross exaggeration," Clayton replied, "RFC is selling less than the treasury. The 40 million might be right if it were to include the redistribution between governmental agencies. Also, contractors are selling much material at the termination of war jobs."

"Have you any plans for peace time use of 16 billion dollars worth of government owned plants?" asked Rep. Johnson [R., Cal.].

Post-War Freezing Plan.

"An able committee will have recommendations within the next 10 days or two weeks on how these plants might best be used after the war," said the administrator.

"Are you considering any plan to freeze some of the billions of dollars worth of war goods that will be on hand when hostilities are ended?"

"We'll freeze only those goods that the military wants to retain for security reasons," said Clayton. "Of course a primary consideration in the post-war release of the surpluses will be to protect the market, to protect employment and the civilian economy from undue disturbance. We're also studying methods of preventing American made goods from being sold abroad or to foreign agents and thereafter imported into the United States."

JURY CONDUCTS QUIZ ON ESTATE OF M. E. WHITE

Subpenas for records of an insurance company and two banks were issued by Chief Justice Benjamin P. Epstein of the Criminal court yesterday in an investigation by the grand jury of an alleged fraud against four children and seven grandchildren of the late Michael E. White, a paving and sewer contractor. C. Vernon Thompson, assistant state's attorney, has charge of the investigation.

Officials of the Mutual Insurance company and the First National bank were asked to produce an insurance policy, in which the White children were to be beneficiaries, plus a policy loan note and cancelled checks.

The Oak Park Trust and Savings bank was directed to produce the joint checking account of Graeme H. and Eleanor Smith up to March 41, 1941. Smith is an insurance man. The elder White died in 1942.

The 35th strike called by members of local 1014 of the CIO Steel Workers' union at the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation was settled yesterday when the 14 striking cranemen returned to their jobs.

The strikes have caused the loss of more than 450,000 man hours and of thousands of tons of steel needed to build war equipment, company officials said.

The cranemen, who left their jobs Sunday night, refused to unload coal and ore from ships.

30,000 ASKING EXCESS PROFIT TAXES REFUNDS

Years of Litigation Held Probable.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

Accountants and corporation tax men said yesterday that the flood of petitions for excess profits tax refunds had reached such proportions that years of litigation would be required to settle all the claims. Already about 30,000 claims for refunds approximating 3 billion dollars have been filed with internal revenue agents thruout the country, a large share by corporations in the Chicago area.

Chicago internal revenue officials were unable to estimate the size of the claims pending in this district, but said the total was substantial because of the area's wide variety of war production. Extra accountants have been put to work processing the claims and there is no bottleneck in the Chicago office despite the general lack of man power, officials said.

Await Court Interpretation.

Most of the claims have been filed under section 722 of the internal revenue code, which has not yet been given judicial interpretation by the federal tax court, holding sole jurisdiction under relief provisions of the law.

Tax authorities said the flood of petitions had been swelled by a "nothing to lose, everything to gain" attitude motivating many corporations in meeting an original deadline of Sept. 15, 1943. Altho the deadline has since been extended, many petitions were hastily drawn and probably will be thrown out for lack of merit, it was said.

Others said the process of handling the petitions was being delayed by the exacting demands of internal revenue officials, supercautious to avoid a repetition of congressional criticism which followed their handling of refunds during World War I.

Seek Larger Tax Base.

Whereas the internal revenue authorities were charged with determining a fair level of profits on 1918 business, the law now governing refunds places on the taxpayer the responsibility of proving discrimination or hardship under relief sections of the revenue code.

All of the petitions are designed to obtain higher excess profits tax credits for the base years 1936 thru 1939, and thus lower the amount of taxes for subsequent years. Many are based on the fact that losses were incurred in one or more of the base years, or on other extraordinary developments covered in the relief provisions of the code.

Smaller companies unable to obtain refunds promptly are at a marked disadvantage in their competition with larger corporations holding substantial cash reserves to tide them over, it was said. The complaint often has been made that present tax laws penalize expansion and effectively prevent growth to the stature of "big business," because the tax collector would take all of the additional profits derived thru business developed beyond the pre-war level.

Agents Handle Small Claims.

The fact that the relief provisions are subject to many interpretations, and the lack of court determination of the key section, were recognized as influences retarding the processing of refund petitions.

District internal revenue agents are empowered to pass upon petitions involving refunds of $20,000 or less, unless their action would set a precedent adverse to the government in other districts. In this event, Washington authorities assume jurisdiction.

Refunds between $20,000 and $75,000 are reviewed by treasury counsel, and above $75,000, are decided by the treasury and the joint committee on internal revenue taxation, which reports directly to senate and house revenue committees.

Under certain circumstances, the corporate taxpayer is allowed to withhold part of the excess profits tax covered by the petition, but in most instances must pay the full amount and enter a claim for refund. The first of the claims under section 722 was filed with the tax court in Washington last week.

Rock Island's 1943 Revenue Sets Record

The Rock Island railway in 1943 broke all its records for revenues and traffic handled, Joseph B. Fleming and Aaron Colnon, trustees, reported yesterday to Federal District Judge Igoe. Operating revenues totaled $176,644,686 and net income was $37,037,708 after deducting $21,100,000 for federal income taxes, rentals, and interest on equipment trust certificates but not bond interest which is not being paid during the receivership.

Under the reorganization plan awaiting adoption, the road would have had net income of $16,472,000 for 1943 after taxes, bond interest, and other charges. On Dec. 31 the road had $82,104,525 in cash and government securities.

Handles 15 Pct. More Freight.

The road handled 42 million tons of freight, 15 per cent more than in 1942, and ton miles totaled 14 billion, 126 million. These were all time highs. The ratio of total operating expense to gross revenues at 59.62 was a new low.

Work is in progress on 23 miles of grade reduction and change of line between Eldon and Perlee, Ia., which will cost about $2,450,000. Completion is scheduled for late this year. Work also is in progress jointly with the Milwaukee road on a bridge across the Missouri river at Kansas City.

List Income from Rockets.

Net income of the Rocket trains was $9,681,467. Net income from the fall of 1937, when operation of the first Rocket began, to Dec. 31 was $20,621,678. This income is equal to a return on the investment [in both locomotives and cars] of 164 per cent for 1943 and 349 per cent for the cumulative period.

RULES CUSTOMS LEVY MAY BE AT OFFICIAL RATES

New York, May 23 (AP).—Possible claims aggregating millions of dollars collected as duty on imports from nations with controled currencies have been wiped out by a decision of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, customs experts said today.

The decision, by Judge Joseph E. Jackson in Washington yesterday, specifically settles some 2 million dollars in claims by importers of British products between March 7 to June 21, 1940. Customs circles said the ruling will have a far reaching effect on imports from "a score of other nations including Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Uruguay, Iran, China, Mexico, and Australia."

Judge Jackson ruled that the secretary of the treasury had full authority to direct that customs duties be collected on imports valued at official exchange rates, even tho the products imported had been purchased abroad at "free" exchange rates which might be lower than the official rate.

GRAIN PRICES SLIDE ON EXPECTATIONS OF LARGE WHEAT CROPS

Prospects of a bumper winter wheat crop in heavy producing districts of the southwest, where harvesting will start in about 30 days, combined with a favorable start by spring sown grain in both the United States and Canada, resulted in sharply lower prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. July wheat was down 3⅛ cents a bushel at one time, selling at $1.61½, a new low since last December, and 9⅞ cents under the office of price administration ceiling.

Brokers said hedging sales in wheat were indicated, the first reported in weeks. Sales by professional traders and by smaller operators who were limiting losses were large. The market failed to show much rallying power and closing trades were near the low level at net losses of 2 to 3 cents.

Rye was affected by the action of wheat and closed 2 to 2⅞ cents lower. Oats declined ½ to ¾ cent. Barley was ⅛ to 1½ cents lower.

Sales of rye futures on the Chicago Board of Trade on Monday set a record total of 28,631,000 bushels.

House Passes Act to End U.S. Low Rail Rate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23—The house today, by a vote of 236 to 16, passed a bill to rescind the 50 per cent reduction in passenger and freight rates received by the federal government because of land grants to certain railroads from 1850 to 1871. If the senate concurs and the President signs, the bill will require the government to pay a quarter to a half billion dollars more annually for war time transportation. As passed, the bill is effective 90 days after final enactment.

The measure directs the interstate commerce commission to adjust rates to the public to reflect the additional revenues to the railroads from the government. In the debate, it was explained that the act would increase the cost of the war, but would decrease the cost of commercial shipping.

Bill's Purpose Explained.

The bill sponsors explained its main purpose is to remove complex tariffs and rates that have plagued industry and commerce since the government first gave public lands to aid railroad construction and open western and southern frontiers to settlement.

In the depression, the volume of government shipments by relief agencies became burdensome to the railroads and congress in 1940 amended the agreement so that the lower rate applied solely to movements of military goods and personnel. Since the outbreak of the war military shipments have become a major part of all rail loads.

Opposition, led by Representatives Cochran [D., Mo.] and Poage [D., Tex.], charged the proposal was sponsored by a lobby of railroad management and labor. The result of its passage would be a gift of 500 million dollars a year to the carriers in the most profitable era in their histories, it was said.

Quote Eastman in Support.

Endorsers of the measure, led by Rep. Boren [D., Okla.] and Halleck [R., Ind.], quoted the Late Joseph B. Eastman, chairman of the office of defense transportation, as favoring the bill to simplify and to improve railroad transportation in war time as well as after the war.

Bitter debate that ended only with the defeat of several proposed amendments preceded the final vote.

HALSEY GROUP WINS WEST PENN ISSUE OF BONDS

A group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. yesterday won the award of $12,500,000 of West Penn. Power company, first mortgage 3 per cent bonds, due May 1, 1974. The successful bid of 103.6499 represents interest cost to the company of about 2.818 per cent. Public offering at 104½ is expected shortly.

Blyth & Co., Mellon Securities corporation, Harriman Ripley & Co., Lehman Brothers and 232 associated banking houses offered 56 million dollars of 2 and 3¾ per cent San Francisco-Oakland Bay toll bridge revenue bonds. On March 1 $57,070,000 of outstanding 4s will be retired.

Stone & Webster and Blodget and associated underwriters offered 23 million dollars of Virginia Electric and Power company 3 per cent first and refunding bonds, at 103¼. The bonds were issued under a plan for consolidation with Virginia Public Service company.

COLT'S HAS LOSS OF MILLION IN SIXTEEN WEEKS

Hartford, Conn., May 23 (AP).—Colt's Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company today reported net loss of $1,100,580 for the 16 weeks ended April 23, compared with a net income before taxes for the first four months in 1943 of $2,705,285, which was reduced to $1,326,885 after taxes.

Graham H. Anthony, president, said, "While the annual report for the year 1943 showed a net income of $2,081,296, which was reduced to $1,010,196 after taxes, the company operated at a net loss of $1,180,587 during the last six months of 1943. Thus is it apparent that the company has operated at a loss since June, 1943.

"Obviously this record is disappointing, nor are the immediate future prospects encouraging."

Treasury to Sell 7,000 Used Trucks for Army

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—The treasury's surplus property disposal unit announced today it will sell 7,000 used army trucks, valued at about 4 million dollars, to authorized dealers. They will be offered thru regional offices in Chicago, New York, Boston, Washington, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Mo., Fort Worth, Tex., Denver, Seattle, and San Francisco.

STOCKS SWING HIGHER IN MORE ACTIVE TRADE

Rails, Specialties, Liquors Lead.

New York, May 23 (AP).—Rails, liquors, and specialties led the stock market in a broad advance today that lifted favorites fractions to more than a point and in some cases to new highs for the year or longer.

In addition to earnings and dividend hopes, individual situations aided scattered climbers. Good war news remained helpful, but numerous customers remained aloof. Carriers were buoyed partly by proposals in congress to repeal the land grant rate law. Talk of a "holiday" for distillers in which they would be permitted to replenish their dwindling beverage inventories brought buyers for whisky issues.

Stock Average Advances.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.3 at 52.5, the best gain in a week. Transfers totaled 765,250 shares compared with 700,800 yesterday.

At 1944 peaks were Morris & Essex, which responded further to approval of the merger of the Lackawanna Lines; Atlantic Coast Line; National Distillers, Electric Boat, Macy, Public Service of New Jersey, and South Porto Rico Sugar.

Most steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, coppers, oils, and utilities were a shade improved. Eastman Kodak dropped 2 points. Foster Wheeler dipped 1⅝ on disappointment over the 25 cent dividend, altho it was the first since 1931.

BONDS CLOSE UNEVEN.

New York, May 23 (AP).—Pronounced strength and activity in a number of rail loans highlighted today's bond market. Prices closed irregular.

Turnover was unusually large in Illinois Central 4¾s, Morris and Essex 3½s, New York Central 4½s, Seaboard Air Line 6s of 1945, St. Paul 5s of 1975 and Alton 3s. Closing prices of these were up fractions to about 2 points.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Prices were mixed in yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock exchange, with advances slightly outnumbering declines. Midland United A preferred and Commonwealth Edison, the volume leaders, gained fractions. Half point advances were made by Illinois Central and Swift & Co. Sundstrand Machine was active, closing with a small loss.

TAKE BUREAUS OUT OF BUSINESS, MURRAY URGES

Domination of business by government must be curtailed after the war, Sen. Murray [D., Mont.], chairman of the senate small business committee, said yesterday. To do that, monopolies must be prevented because monopolies bring about the need for government interference, he added.

Speaking before the Associated Retail Bakers of America in the Hotel Sherman, Murray said: "We want an economy of abundance, not high prices and scarcity, our great failing prior to the war. During the depression the monopolists raised prices, curtailed production, threw men out of work, and made more profit than ever before."

SHIPPING CURBS FAIL TO DAM HOG FLOOD; MARKET JAM GROWS

Embargoes and shipping permit plans which have been in effect the last few days at several large marketing points and at many small markets and concentration yards have failed to stem the flood of hogs being unloaded by farmers discouraged by federal price regulations and the acute shortage of feed. Market congestion grew as total receipts yesterday exceeded by 27 per cent last Tuesday's volume.

The Chicago stockyards received 33,500 hogs, including 9,500 direct shipments to packers, almost double last Tuesday's total. Holdovers totaled 12,000, and most were good to choice government weights. Other classes sold far below the $13.75 a hundred pounds floor price.

A survey indicated no immediate relief of the market glut is in sight. A few hours after an embargo was lifted at Indianapolis that market was swamped with 16,000 hogs.

Demand for other meat animals was brisk, and prices were mostly steady to strong for all grades of cattle, sheep, and lambs.

Hopes Farmer Will Read His Later Version

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Senators from farming states got two reports on the farm machinery shortage today. One came from William K. Frank, director of the equipment bureau of the war production board. The other was in a letter from a government employe in Africa.

Said Frank: "The farmers have a lot of money. And, as you know, when a farmer has money he wants to buy machinery."

Wrote the man in Africa: "Hundreds of large combines are being shipped over here for five and 10 acre farms on which a combine has never been seen before. A Brooklyn tax expert handled the farm machinery for the government here for a while . . . the situation stinks."

He'd Like to Reword It.

Well, the WPB executive was stopped in his tracks by Senators Gillette [D., Ia.], Bushfield [R., S. D.], Lucas [D., Ill.], and Capper [R., Kas.]. When they unpiled, the WPB man picked himself up and said he'd like to amend his statement to read:

"The farmers have a lot of money. And, as you know, when the farmer has money he wants to buy machinery—equipment he needs."

The senators who piled up on the man from WPB are members of a senate agricultural subcommittee investigating the machinery shortage. With the exception of Lucas, they joined in a cheer for the government worker in Africa, whose letter was written to Sen. Bushfield.

Sticks His Neck Out Again.

The WPB man's comment about farmers with too much money wasn't the only thing that got him into trouble. He mentioned, in addition, that altho WPB can't permit the manufacture of enough farm machinery to fill American farmers' needs, it can expand its program to fill the orders of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration for machinery for foreign farmers.

"If you can expand to meet the needs of UNRRA," demanded Sen. Gillette, "why can't you to meet the needs of our own people?"

"That's a question of essentiality," replied the WPB man.

"It'll be hard," retorted Gillette, "to convince our farmers they're not as essential as somebody in Timbuctoo."

MAJOR WEAPON DESIGNED, MADE BY STUDEBAKER

South Bend, Ind., May 23 [Special].—The Studebaker corporation is producing in quantity a new major weapon, described as an exclusive development by Studebaker engineers and army ordnance officials, H. S. Vance, chairman, announced today, concurrently with the award of an army-navy "E" to the company's automotive division. The nature of the weapon was not disclosed.

It is Studebaker's third major war product. The others were Wright Cyclone engines and heavy duty multiple drive military trucks. The new product is contributing importantly to the corporation's sales to the government of more than 1¼ million dollars a day, Vance said.

WAYS TO BOOST COAL OUTPUT TO BE SOUGHT

Big Mine Operators Called to Capital.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Leading coal producers will meet Dr. J. C. Potter, deputy coal mines administrator, in Washington next Monday to discuss the serious coal problems confronting the country, it was learned yesterday. War demands for coal are mounting and mine production has been unable to keep step with the increasing needs, making it probable that the problems will become acute by next winter, industry executives said.

Besides having to keep factories running and American homes warm next winter, American mines will have the additional job of supplying coal to areas in Europe as they are won from the Germans, it was said. And the military need for coal will increase with invasion of Europe.

Homes May Get Less.

Unless production rises to unexpected heights, it is likely that some "non-essential" factories will not have sufficient coal next winter, it was said. Every effort will be made to supply sufficient coal to keep homes warm, but there is every indication that all consumers will be asked to get along with less coal than they used last winter. In any event home owners in the middle west will have to fill out their needs with coal from near-by mines—Illinois and Indiana—foregoing the eastern coals to which many had become accustomed.

The state of the nation's coal stockpile indicates the necessity for increased production, producers said. In November, 1942, the stockpile was estimated at 90 million tons and it is likely there were about 10 or 20 more million tons in the hands of industry which were not included in the national figure. At the end of 1943 the stockpiles were estimated at 60 million tons and the total on April 1, 1944, was about 51,838,000 tons, compared with 77,292,000 tons a year earlier.

Use Outruns Production.

In the first three months of this year production totaled 150,585,000 tons, a monthly average of 50,157,000, and consumption totaled 163,416,000 tons, a monthly average of 54,472,000. Coal requirements for this year are estimated at 620 million tons, which includes coal earmarked for Canada.

The decline in the stockpiles resulted from the rising rate of industrial activity and increased railroad traffic, coal men explained. Production did not reach the level hoped for under the Ickes agreement between the operators and the miners.

Among the reasons for failure to increase production are the loss of man power resulting from inductions into the army and navy and the inability of the older men working in the mines to produce at the same rate as younger men. Absenteeism has increased for various reasons, one being that the older men cannot stand the strain of the six day week, it was said.

Retail Deliveries Difficult.

Farmers are taking from the mines about 15 million tons of coal to supply heat formerly obtained from wood. The young men have left the farm, so the wood could not be cut.

Meantime, coal retail dealers in urging consumers to bend every effort to get their coal orders in early warn that the physical task of taking coal from trucks into home basements is becoming more difficult as man power shrinks further. Trucks are breaking down and drivers are scarce, and with the higher wages paid in war plants it is getting more difficult to find men who will unload the trucks, it was explained.

Jury Clears Carnegie of Fraud Charge

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 23 (AP).—The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation was cleared today of charges of falsifying steel test records on war orders to meet government specifications.

The charges grew out of hearings conducted by the Truman senate investigating committee, which led to indictments on May 27, 1943.

Two Indictments Listed.

Carnegie-Illinois, largest subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, was tried on two indictments charging destruction and falsification of records. The former charge was disposed of yesterday when Federal Judge R. M. Gibson directed dismissal for lack of evidence.

One of the 47 counts in the second indictment also was dropped yesterday on request of government counsel, Robert L. Wright.

The records involved dealt with company shipments of steel plate on orders from the government. In today's case, the government claimed in 46 counts there was falsification or concealment of facts relating to tests on steel plates.

Company Head Comments.

In a statement, President J. L. Perry of Carnegie-Illinois said:

"We are happy to have the public know that the unfair and unsubstantiated accusations made by the Truman committee of the delivery by Carnegie-Illinois of defective plates have been completely refuted.

"No witness testified either before the Truman committee or before the federal court at Pittsburgh that any defective steel plates were ever supplied by Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation from Irvin works or elsewhere."

Perry declared that during the trial Carnegie-Illinois introduced evidence to prove that "all of the steel in question had, in fact, been properly tested and had met the chemical and physical requirements of the contract specifications."

Sale in Small Lots Planned for Surpluses

Outlining the broad policies which will be followed in the disposal of excess war goods, Lt. Col. J. P. Woodlock, executive assistant to the surplus war property administrator, said yesterday the government will liquidate surpluses as quickly as possible in small lots at fair market prices.

The government intends to use regular civilian commercial channels for this purpose and will encourage, whenever feasible, local purchase of government-owned plants, he said. To encourage this, large plants may be divided into two or more units for separate sale to moderate sized manufacturers, he said.

Woodlock addressed a joint convention session of the Southern Supply and Machinery Distributors association, the National Supply and Machinery Distributors association, and the American Supply and Machinery Manufacturers association in the Palmer House.

Most of the surplusages will be liquidated by the army, navy, war food administration, maritime commission, and subsidiaries of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Woodlock said.

ASSERTS STEEL PAY DEMANDS CANNOT BE MET

Annual Wage Plea Hit by Voorhees.

Washington, D. C., May 23 [Special].—If the wage and other demands of the CIO-United Steelworkers were granted the United States Steel corporation could not possibly pay them under peace time operating conditions, Enders M. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee of the corporation, today told a panel of the war labor board hearing the union's demands.

E. M. Voorhees.

Voorhees said the union demand for a flat wage increase of 17 cents an hour would add 137 million dollars to wage costs. Its other demands would add about 149 million more to employment costs, and finally the union is asking United States Steel to guarantee wages, as increased, to its present force of workers as annual income, he said.

Loss Might Be Billion.

"The possible annual loss on this guarantee to United States Steel is speculative," he said. "It could run from little or nothing in a year of large demand for steel to a billion dollars or more in a year of small demand.

"Those who provide the tools—and that means nearly all of us—must do so out of savings, and any movement, no matter how grandly labeled, which deprives the owners of the tools of a wage for their use is on all fours with conscripting men to work without wages. Conscription of property is only a stage in the conscription of people."

Voorhees said that despite their protestations to the contrary the union leaders are really asking that the wages of the owners of the United States Steel corporation be conscripted, leaving the owners the empty shell of legal ownership.

Ownership Jeopardized.

Asserting that the combination of rising costs and fixed selling prices already is jeopardizing private ownership, Voorhees said that if 1943 wage rates, excluding overtime, and the 1943 prices of products and services bought were applied to the years 1936-'39, which the union takes as normal, United States Steel would have had a loss for the four years of more than 300 million dollars instead of an income of 179 million. In addition the government would have lost 57 million in taxes.

He presented statistics covering United States Steel estimated operations for 1944 and 1945 based on 1943 results but assuming the 17 cent wage increase granted. These showed that in 1944, with the wage increase, the government would refund 48 million in taxes and the company would have a deficit if it paid dividends at the current rate. In 1945 the common stock dividend would be wiped out, income would be insufficient to meet the preferred dividend and the government would contribute 5 million in taxes, he said.

BORROWED STOCK.

I understand that the short seller of stock may be called on at any time to cover even tho he has provided adequate margin. Isn't it true that such a call would be made only if the broker was unable to find any more of that security available for borrowing? In the case of reborrowing of stock used for delivery on a short sale is there any additional expense to the seller? J. K.

Answer: Altho it is true that the short seller would be required to cover only if there was no stock available for borrowing, there is little likelihood of this situation developing. The stock exchange would take action either to make stock available, or to prevent a "squeeze" on the seller, for when the floating supply of stock disappears it is an indication of a "corner." In any actively traded issue there is always an ample supply of stock available to the short seller.

A federal transfer tax must be paid by the short seller each time he borrows stock for delivery. If the stock is lending at a premium the borrower may have to pay more than one premium if lenders call in their stock.
